Promises Jordan economic, military aid

Nixon ends Mideast peace journey

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — President Nixon ended his exhausting five-nation "journey for peace" today with a promise of economic and military aid to Jordan and an agreement to meet again in Washington with King Hussein in efforts to reach a permanent Mideast settlement.

Nixon took off for a rest stop at the Azores after signing a joint communique with Hussein, long America's best friend in the Arab world, that said the United States would continue to "play a strong role in maintaining Jordan's military strength."

The communique said Nixon invited Hussein to visit Washington, where he has been a frequent visitor in the past, "to hold further talks on the strategy of future efforts to achieve peace."

As in his previous stops in Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Syria and Israel, Nixon stressed that his mission was designed to do whatever he could to bring a lasting peace to the troubled area. When he left the White House eight days ago, the President said he was embarking on a "journey for peace."

At a state dinner held in his honor by Hussein Monday night, Nixon said of his peace quest, "I cannot tell where it will end," but he added: "The important thing is it that it has begun. You said earlier, your majesty, that this is the last stop.

"Let me tell you it is the last stop on this trip. But it is only the beginning of the journey for peace."

Hussein responded: "Tell your people that you go with the gratitude and confidence of the Arab people, and the blessing of all mankind."

Both Nixon and his wife Pat showed the wear and tear of their trip. His last round of talks with Hussein today started an hour late apparently to allow Nixon more time to rest. He skipped a planned side trip outside Amman althouugh the first lady took in the sights.

"He's beat," said a presidential aide.

The Azores stop was to provide a break in the long trip back to Washington. Even so, Nixon arranged a meeting with new Portuguese President Antonio de Spinola. Portgual owns the Azores.

Nixon will arrive back in Washington to a big welcome Wednesday afternoon but within a week he will be back on his big jet plane on his way to Moscow for his third Summit meeting with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev.

Security in Jordan was the heaviest of Nixon's trip. Jeeps armed with machine guns escorted his armored limousine. Trucks carrying soldiers roamed the city. Whole areas were blocked off when his motorcade drove by, and at least twice his limousine took back roads to avoid the crowds.

As in his other Arab stops, Nixon was reminded by Hussein of the concern over the Palestinian problem. This is presumbably a topic to be discussed further during Hussein's visit to Washington.

Hussein stressed to the President that he wanted U.S. assistance in restoring Arab sovereignty over Jerusalem, recognition of the rights of the Palestinian people and withdrawal of Israeli forces from Arab lands.

"So long as Israel continues to occupy Arab territory," Hussein said, "there will neither be peace nor security in the Middle East."

Hussein said that once the occupied territory has been evacuated by Israel, only Palestinians could decide what its future should be. About half of Jordan's 3.2 million population are Palestinians.

"They can choose continued union with Jordan, a new form of federation or the creation of a separate state," the king said. "The choice is theirs and theirs alone, and whatever their choice it will enjoy our full acceptance and support."

Today's communique said Nixon agreed with Hussein that Jordan must keep its military strong if it is to have economic growth. "He promised, in cooperation with the Congress, to play a strong role in maintaining Jordan's military strength," it said.

The communique, which stressed cooperation in economic, trade, investment, scientific, social and cultural affairs, also mentioned Hussein's and Jordan's "support for the very significant diplomatic efforts which the United States has made help bring peace to the Middle East."

The delay in the start of the talks caused the President to miss a trip planned to the ruins of the ancient Roman town of Jerash, about 25 miles north of Amman.

Mrs. Nixon did visit the ruins and did some souvenir shopping. About 30 boy and girl scouts met her in the forum, surrounded by 74 columns, with a chant of "We welcome Mrs. Nixon."

The first lady told reporters with her that she was encouraged by her husband's trip.

"He's talked to the leaders and they don't want war," she said. "It's been a very good trip."

Crowds were friendly in Jordan but there was none of the wild outpouring that marked Nixon's visit to Egypt.

1.2 billion records found

GSA tried to hide central data bank--Senate subcommittee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The General Services Administration tried to hide from Congress its plans for a computer system that would centralize all information gathered by federal data banks, a Senate subcommittee report charged today.

The committee said it found 858 federal data banks with at least 1.2 billion records on individuals.

But Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C., the subcommittee chairman, said: "I suspect there are many more we haven't found."

The Senate Constitutional Rights Subcommittee, in a report based on a four-year study, said GSA's plans remained "unknown and undisclosed" despite repeated requests for information on federal data banks.

The report said "neither in response to the subcommittee survey nor in response to questions posed at congressional oversight hearings did the General Services even mention its plans for the massive national data bank."

The subcommittee said in mid-1972 GSA was preparing a system known as FEDNET, which would have centralized the data processing and telecommunications of an unlimited number of agencies, beginning with the Agriculture Department.

The report called FEDNET a reincarnation of the National Data Center, which was abandoned by the executive branch in the late 1960s under public and congressional pressure.

Using the survey as a basis, the subcommittee was scheduled to open hearings today on legislation designed to insure the privacy of individuals. Among the witnesses was former attorney General Elliot Richardson.

The report said the data banks discovered were the ones the agencies were willing to admit they maintain. The report added it was also impossible to determine the number of individuals about whom the data banks contain information.

CORONAN INJURED

Alice Faye Goni, 33, of Corona, seriously injured in an early morning traffic accident involving three vehicles in the intersection of Mission Boulevard and Archibald Avenue in Ontario, is carefully lifted onto a stretcher by firemen and ambulance attendants on the scene. An Upland man also was injured.

Two injured in 3-vehicle collision in Ontario

ONTARIO — Two persons were injured, one seriously, early this morning when three cars collided in the intersection of Mission Boulevard and Archibald Avenue.

Alice Faye Goni, 33, of 3711 Windsong St., Corona, a driver of one of the cars, was listed in "guarded" condition with a head injury in Ontario Community Hospital's intensive care unit. Joel Rodney Brown, 41, of 671 E. Ninth St., Upland, the driver of a van involved in the accident, was given medical treatment for minor injuries at the Ontario hospital and later released.

Officer Joe Hatton said the accident was reported shortly before 8 a.m. by an Ontario city work crew. Hatton said a signal at the intersection was stuck with the traffic light blinking red for north and southbound Archibald Avenue and green for east and westbound traffic on Mission Boulevard.

Hatton said the Corona woman's car southbound on Archibald went through the signal and was struck broadside by the van. The car spun around and hit a third car stopped in the northbound lane of Archibald. The third car was driven by Harry Elsworth Vines, 60, of La Quinta, Calif. Vines was not injured.

The door of the wrecked van had to be pried open by firemen and police on the scene to free Brown.

Struve quads may be going home in 3 weeks

POMONA — The Struve quadruplets may be able to go home in three weeks, if their conditions continue to improve, medical authorities at Pomona Valley Community Hospital said today.

Dr. Richard Mabie, chief pediatrician on the birth of the quads to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Struve of Claremont, said the medical team is looking toward a release date in about three weeks, if they gain sufficient weight and have the ability to maintain their body temperatures and eat regularly.

Dr. Mabie stated that Todd Allan, who had experienced the most difficulty, joined his sisters and brother, in good condition and all are doing well.

Todd Allan has been removed from the mini-Positive Air Pressure chamber which had aided his breathing since birth last Wednesday. Brother Kevin Michael was removed from the special chamber last Saturday, said Dr. Mabie.

Sisters Kristina Lynn and Tonya Marie have been in consistently better condition than their brothers throughout the critical first week of life.

Ban on firecrackers delayed by commission until mid-July

WASHINGTON (UPI)— It will be a noisy Fourth of July after all, but maybe the last one of that kind.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission Monday granted the fireworks industry a 30-day delay in the start of a nationwide ban on firecrackers and the beginning of new safety rules governing the manufacture of most other fireworks.

As a result, firecrackers will continue on the market until at least mid-July, after which time the commission will hold a public hearing to determine if some over-all revision is necessary in its new regulations.

Four trade associations representing Chinese manufacturers and American importers and wholesalers had asked for the delay, claiming they would be stuck with inventories valued at $50 million on the retail market if the ban started at 12:01 a.m. EDT today as originally planned.

The commission ruled Monday that the petition was legally sufficient to warrant the public hearing. The trade associations had raised other objections to the regulations beyond liquidation of inventories. They objected, for instance, to labeling requirements as well as to the scientific basis on which the agency made the safety rules.

But the commissioners seem adamant on the validity of their proposed firecracker ban, and it appeared likely that this would be the last year for an old fashioned, noisy Fourth around American homes, even if some other parts of the regulations are revised. The regulations do not affect public displays or use of fiecrackers for pest control.

The firecracker ban met particular opposition in Hawaii, where it was said to interfere with the religious freedom of orientals.

'Wide campaign fund corruption' in report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate Watergate Committee staff report has concluded that abuses in President Nixon's 1972 campaign "spanned the entire spectrum of corrupt campaign financing."

"Some solicitations were tinged with extortion and some contributions were tinged with bribery," the report said. Large corporations engaged "in discussions or negotiations related to their self-interest, in connection with the contributions."

The report, approved by Chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., was sent to the other six committee members today for inclusion in their final report. A copy of the 41-page report was obtained by UPI.

"The abuses uncovered in connection with the 1972 presidential campaign spanned virtually the entire spectrum of corrupt campaign practices," the report said.

"Huge cash contributions— legal and illegal—were transported to campaign offices in everything from plain white envelopes to airline flight bags and utilizing corporate-funded tickets and even corporate jets."

"The resources of corporations and government contractors were tapped," the report said. "Foreign nationals, out of the reach of scrutiny by American officials, gave contributions, or made loans for contributions."

The report contained a number of recommendations for legislation to cut campaign financing abuses. Included were proposals to limit cash contributions, put a ceiling on expenditures for presidential campaigns and prohibit large cash contributions.

The report recommended the committee take no position on the public financing of campaigns—since the members apparently were sharply divided on the question.

The specific recommendations made by the staff included:

—Creation of an independent, nonpartisan Federal Elections Commission to enforce campaign spending laws. An effective commission could be the "most significant reform that could emerge from the Watergate scandal," they said.

—Prohibition of cash expenditures and cash contributions in excess of $100.

—Prohibition of campaign contributions by foreign nationals.

—Candidates would be limited to a single campaign finance committee. The report said Nixon used hundreds of campaign finance committees to conceal large contributions from the milk producers and other groups.

—A limitation on overall campaign expenditures. The staff proposed a spending limit of 12 cents for each person of voting age during a general election.

—A limit of $3,000 on political contributions by any one individual to a presidential campaign. They said a $15,000 limit proposed by Nixon was "too high." Additionally they recommended a limit of $25,000 on the total amount an individual could contribute to all candidates for federal office.

—A limit of $6,000 on the contributions from large organizations — such as the milk producers.

—Prohibition against government officials on the White House payroll or serving by presidential appointment participating in soliciting campaign contributions for a period of up to one year after leaving government service.

—Increasing the penalty for illegal corporate or union contributions from one year to five years in jail.

British paper says Israel has A-bombs

LONDON (UPI) — The newspaper Daily Telegraph said today that Israel has built up an arsenal of atomic bombs.

A report by John Miller of the newspaper's diplomatic staff, giving no source for its information, said "the one certainty of the Middle East is that she (Israel) has stockpiled atomic bombs.

"Official statements on the issue have been blandly and diplomatically limited to an insistance that Israel would never be the first Middle East country to use atomic weapons.

"But even this phrase has signified to the West, the Kremlin, and to Israel's Arab neighbors that Israel would not be caught empty handed if it came to the nuclear crunch."

La Verne City Council studies police, fire protection

LA VERNE — The La Verne City Council for two hours Monday night listed to residents speak about their anxieties in regard to police and fire protection.

The council acted on the question of what to do now for the needs of those people who live north of Foothill Boulevard in regard to their fire protection. Immediate steps are to be taken to determine whether the firemen stationed at the Los Angeles County Station 104 on N. Wheeler Avenue could be secured to cooperate and reply in initial response among the homes in that area.

At the present time there is some cooperation in that the La Verne Fire Department can calll upon the county firemen to help if it needs them. It has been pointed out by Fire Chief Bob Lapp and others that their major purpose for being in that area is to protect watershed brush in the foothills.

One resident Bob Perkins, told the council that he has observed that Station 104 men have recently been responding to both fire and resuscitation calls.

This council decision came after many residents north of Foothill expressed a concern that the proposed and promised station north of Foothill would not be of any help this summer when the fire hazard is great. One woman said that she was fearful of leaving for a vacation because her house might burn down while she was gone. She also noted that she is a heart patient and was not sure that the resuscitation crews from downtown could reach her in time to save her life.

The city's plans for its own foothill area station appears to be about six to eight months off. There seems to be some question about whether the city can build it where it had hoped to on or near the reservoir now under construction on N. Wheeler Ave.

Apparently it needs to be cleared up whether the land which was purchased by water bond funds can be used for building the station. Acting City Atty. Terry Brutocao was asked to check on this by the next council session.

A site offered by the county on Base Line Road adjacent to the flood control channel east of Wheeler did not seem suitable to any of those who were in discussion about it. They felt that it was too far south and especially unsuitable because it would be downhill from the area which would most need protection, and that fire trucks when heavily loaded with a tankful of water would be slowed down in their ability to reach a fire rapidly.

The matter came up again, as it has for several years, as to whether it would be wise to contract for county services rather than have the city department continue. Only one man spoke in favor of this system. Others who spoke, and councilmen as well, rejected that idea. One spokesman who lived under county protection for both fire and police said that he had moved away from such protection to the City of La Verne for a city run system.

There was some discussion about how the city should finance the foothill fire station. Joe Black of Mountain Springs Estates was in favor of passing a bond for it so that the expense would be spread over the years to allow future taxpayers to help with the protection they will receive from it.

His theme throughout the evening was to reduce the taxes for present taxpayers. He would like to see federal revenue sharing funds used to pay for, for instance, the four needed policemen. men.

Before leaving the subject of the fire station to be built, it was suggested by Perkins that a citizens committee be appointed to aid the city. One is to be appointed.

The needs of the police department for more men were championed by two women, Mrs. Susan Petray and Mrs. Carol Bateson.

Mrs. Bateson brought a petition signed by 550 people and promised to bring it up to a thousand to impress the councilmen of the way the people in La Verne feel about the need for a greater force in order to patrol the streets more completely to prevent crimes.

Construction projects are back in Chaffey budget

ONTARIO — Construction projects on the Chaffey High School campus and safety projects on other district campuses were reinstated in the 1974-75 tentative budget by the school board Monday.

Board members studied reductions made from the first and second preliminary budgets as suggested by the administration and voted to approve the tentative budget of $20,937,915 with an amendment to add another $247,500. The monies added to the budget by the amendment will allow construction work beyond that suggested by the administration.

Construction projects reinstated in the budget by the trustees included a roofing project at Chaffey High School and air conditioning and lighting work in North Hall on the Chaffey campus, bicycle compounds on two campuses and safety additions at Ontario High School. Trustees also asked that administrators investigate possibilities of allowing more funds for academic field trips and career and vocational studies.

The tentative budget is based on a 1974-75 $2.2582 tax rate, down from a tax rate of $2.3546 in 1973-74. The rate is also less than the $2.39 tax rate used in the first preliminary budget and the $2.3470 rate in the second preliminary budget.

The board had hoped to increase the tax rate for the new school year, but voters defeated a revenue increase proposal in the June 4 election. In discussing the election defeat, board president James Garliepp stated, "The public has spoken and we will have to do the best that we can with the funds available.

"But this does not preclude our coming back to the public with another election," stated Garliepp. Board members noted that they will have another chance to present a proposal to voters in the Nov. 4 general election and again in March.

In other business, trustees renewed the contract of district Supt. Allan G. Smith and awarded contracts for a three-classroom addition to the Chaffey Training Center and boiler replacement at Montclair High School.

Smith's contract was renewed for four years as limited by the Education Code. Smith has been a member of the Chaffey District staff since 1947 and has been superintendent of the district since 1958.

Emory C. Jackson Co., Inc., was awarded a contract of $115,074 for the Chaffey Training Center for trainable mentally retarded students. The district is hoping for state funds to aid in this construction.

A $6,890 contract less $200 for boiler-trade-in was awarded to Boiler Engineers Co. for the Montclair High heating appliance.

No decision reached on 2 Upland issues

UPLAND — The City Council considered and then postponed deciding two important and expensive issues Monday evening, the development of Mountain Avenue above 16th Street and the possible annexation of 240 acres of county agricultural terrain northwest of the city.

Two proposals for landscaping Mountain Avenue were described to the council by Rod Anderson, planning director. One proposal, called Alternate 1, would cost $83 per frontage foot to install and $13,550 per year to maintain.

The second proposal for the street, Alternate 4, would cost the city $88 per frontage foot to install and $36,150 per year to maintain.

The council listened to several Upland residents who opposed widening the right-of-way for the avenue. The three councilmen present and Mayor Abner Haldeman continued the issue by deciding to ask for more study on expenses by planners.

The council also held off on a project by Southeast Land Development, Inc., to build an expensive housing tract on land north of 16th Street and on either side of Wilson Avenue.

"This does have a lot of implications," Haldeman said. "It is a large potential project."

Acting City Manager Lee Travers noted that residential development of the full 240 acres involved could cost the city $500,000 for sewer main extension and more money for other services which would follow annexation to the city.

Councilman Harold Bailin said that he approves of the scale of the plan. "I would think we could give the general impression that we like the idea of developing large parcels," he added.

On a motion by Bailin to approve of the concept of development but without any determination of density the council split 2-2, thus defeating Bailin's motion. Bailin and Haldeman voted in favor of the motion, but Ina Petokas and John E. McCarthy voted against it.

The fifth councilman, George Gibson, was absent due to illness. After the vote, McCarthy made a motion to continue the issue, and this motion passed unanimously.

In other business Monday evening, the council tabled a proposal to give funds to the federally sponsored West End Drug Abuse Control Council (WEDAC).

"It appears to be a worthwhile program," admitted Bailin, "but the state and the counties are rejecting it." Bailin and other council members agreed to wait until later in the summer to see if any funds will be available for the drug rehabilitation program.

POMONA — A gun battle erupted early this morning between an employe of the City Auto Salvage Co. and two burglars attempting to cut through an office building at 10756 Kadota St., according to West End sheriff's deupties.

Deputies said that the employe wasn't wounded or apparently were the two burglars, though numerous shots were fired.

According to sheriff's reports, Mike M. Pilipovich, 58, an employe of the auto salvage company, was sleeping in the office at 2:40 a.m. when he was awakened by dogs barking in the salvage yard. Pilipovich, suspecting a burglary, got a small caliber handgun and went to investigate.

Pilipovich said he saw two men trying to cut open the office door and he began firing his pistol. Pilipovich said the burglars began shooting back. A number of other shots were fired before the burglars ran.

The shot killed Mrs. Treanor outright. Harris was visiting friends at the apartment building and had told the boys to go ahead and swim if they wanted to, officers said.

Driver rescued from car fire on freeway

WEST COVINA — A sedan caught fire early today on the San Bernardino Freeway when struck from behind by one vehicle and pushed into the rear of a second.

Jeanette Grigioni, 24, of 1212 Preston Court, Upland, the driver, was helped from her burning car by an off-duty fireman. She was taken to Covina Inter-Community Hospital.

The collision occurred in a construction zone on the freeway's westbound lanes near Grand Avenue. The damaged cars blocked several lanes, causing traffic to be backed up for nearly a mile, said highway patrolmen.

Several cars were going west and went around a curve where they came upon a lane closure and started to converge into another lane, said officers.

A station wagon operated by Charles Howell, 23, of Fontana, struck the rear of Miss Grigioni's sedan, pushing it into the back of a sedan operated by Michael Edgeworth, 20, of El Monte, said officer Bruce Albini.

The injured woman was helped from her car by Richard Smith, an off-duty fireman from Crestline who was also driving west on the freeway.

Howell possibly suffered a loose tooth in the collision, said Albini. He declined hospital treatment.

WHARF DESTROYED BY FIRE

A two-square block pier, in Galveston, Tex., loaded with $5 million in cotton caught fire Monday night destroying the wharf, thousands of dollars in loading equipment and forcing the evacuation of ships out into the Galveston Bay. The two ships silhouetted by the fire were towed to safety in the bay.

Fire destroys Texas wharf

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — A wharf fire that roared through two huge warehouses destroying more than $6 million in cotton and rice, was brought under control before dawn today by more than 125 firefighters who battled the blaze for six hours.

No one was injured.

"Right now it's still smouldering and will be smouldering for several hours," said Fire Chief Hugh R. O'Donohoe. "The bales of cotton will be burning for some time and we have got a lot of debris smouldering in there.

"The only solution is to flood it and keep an eye on it."

O'Donohoe said the fire started at 10 p.m. Monday, apparently from a burning bale set on the edge of the dock apart from the others. He said sparks from that bale were carried inside the two-block-long warehouse housing 11,000 bales of cotton and the fire spread to an adjacent warehouse holding $1 million in rice.

Observers said the 37th Street Pier was ablaze in three minutes.

"The fire traveled quite rapidly," O'Donohoe said. "It almost trapped the first men laying fire lines before they could get out."

The clear red flames of burning cotton were seen 15 miles away in La Marque. Thousands of spectators strained at police barricades to watch the fire.

O'Donohoe said of the two warehouses, the cotton warehouse was destroyed and half the building holding the rice was burned. He said they were some of the oldest warehouses along the waterfront and neither had heat activated sprinkler systems.

Israeli warplanes rocket Lebanon

By United Press International

Israel said its warplanes attacked five Arab guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon today just before President Nixon left Jordan at the end of his five-nation Middle East good will tour.

Arab newsmen in the region said Israeli planes bombed, rocketed and strafed farming areas in the foothills of Mt. Hermon, which lies on the borders of Lebanon, Syria and Israel, for about one hour.

The planes attacked the bases in "Fatahland" intermittently for 30 minutes and streaked as far as 13 miles north of the frontier before returning safely to base, the Israeli military command said.

The attack, which came less than 24 hours after Nixon left Israel for Jordan, occurred at the same time as Israeli forces ended the second phase of disengagement with Syria on the Golan Heights front.

The raids followed by five days the attack by four guerrillas on the settlement of Shamir, 16 miles south of the frontier. The guerrillas murdered three women and then died in a hail of bullets and explosions.

An Israeli military source said the air assault, the first into Lebanon since May 31 when a cease-fire went into effect on the Golan Heights, was not a retaliation for the Shamir attack. He said it was not timed to occur after Nixon had left Israel.

"It is part of fighting terrorists wherever we find them and it was not retaliation for Shamir," the source said.

Arab newsmen at the scene said Israeli planes also swooped low over Palestinian refugee camps near Sidon, Tyre and Nabatiyeh, which were the targets of widespread Israeli attacks May 16. Women and children in the camps rushed to shelters and shops in Nabatiyeh closed down. But the planes did not strafe the camps.

First reports said two persons were wounded in today's Israeli air attacks.

Israeli air attacks on this region were frequent during the 81 days of fighting on the Golan Heights that preceded the May 31 signing of the Syrian-Israeli troop disengagment agreement.

The reported air attacks came as Israeli soldiers pulled their forward headquarters further back in advance of completion of the second phase of the disengagement, a withdrawal that gives Syria back most of the land lost in last October's war.

The newsmen said the Israeli planes hit around 4 p.m. in the region between the farming villages of Hasbaya and Rachaya el Wadi. After previous Israeli air attacks on the region, the Israelis said they were attacking Palestinian guerrilla positions.

The Israelis have been shelling the same region intermittently since the Golan Heights fighting ended, but today's was the first air attack since then. It was also the first Israeli strike on the area since Thursday's abortive guerrilla attack on the Israeli settlement of Shamir, near the Lebanese border.

Two 'plumbers' granted immunity for Ellsberg break-in testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge, acting at the request of Watergate prosecutors, today granted two key members of the White House "plumbers" unit immunity from prosecution for their testimony at the forthcoming Ellsberg break-in trial.

The prospective witnesses, E. Howard Hunt Jr. and David R. Young, had been given immmunity last year before appearing before grand juries, but had balked at testifying at the trial unless granted fresh assurance that their testimony would not be used against them.

U.S. District Judge George L. Hart signed the immunity orders at a two-minute court hearing.

Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski asked Hart to issue the orders, saying both Hunt and Young had submitted sworn affadavits saying they would take the Fifth Amendnment when called to the stand unless given the protection against prosecution.

Both are expected to be key government witnesses at the trial of former presidential aide John D. Ehrlichman and three other men accused of conspiring to violate the civil rights of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis J. Fielding, by breaking into his office Labor Day weekend, 1971 in search of Ellsberg's records.

The trial is scheduled to begin June 26.

Young was co-director and Hunt was a member of the "plumbers" unit set up by the White House in the summer of 1971 to investigate leaks of national security information following Ellsberg's disclosure of the Pentagon Papers.

Hunt, who pleaded quilty last year in the Watergate bugging and has spent nearly 11 months in jail, told reporters he is living in his family home in Potomac, Md., and two weeks ago finished his still untitled memoirs that will be published this fall. He was released Jan. 2 on bond pending appeal.

On Monday, Judge John J. Sirica sentenced Herbert W. Kalmbach to between six and 18 months in jail and a $10,000 fine for his part in the Watergate scandal.

Kalmbach, President Nixon's personal attorney and one of his top fundraisers, entered a guilty plea in U.S. district court Feb. 25 to improperly organizing a 1970 campaign committee and offering a European ambassadorship to a big contributor.

"I want to say how deeply I am embarassed and how much I regret standing here this afternoon," Kalmbach said Monday, his usually tanned face pale and lined. Sirica gave him two weeks to get his personal affairs in order before he goes to a federal prison.

Kalmbach has already testified for the prosecution, and a month ago implicated former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans in his crimes. He said in the spring of 1970, Stans gave Kalmbach $1.1 million in checks and told him to use them for a congressional campaign program. Kalmbach also testified that he "advised Mr. Stans from time to time" on the "commitment" of a European ambassadorship to Maryland politician J. Fife Symington —which he never got.

Kalmbach is one of 31 involved in the Watergate scandal who have pleaded guilty out of 45 who have been before the courts. Five were acquitted. Jaworski has said he would accept guilty pleas to lesser crimes in exchange for a promise to testify, a practice called plea bargaining.

Cattle, hog producers plight may bring serious problem

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Speaker Carl Albert said today the present plight of cattle and hog producers could create "one of the most serious economic problems since the depression."

Albert, appearing as leadoff witness at House Agriculture Committee hearings on complaints by producers that their livestock has been selling below production costs for months, called for a series of rapid actions aimed at helping them to avert financial disaster.

He said that President Nixon should impose a temporary moratorium on imports of foreign beef to be followed by "tough restrictions" on future import levels.

Also, he said, supermarkets should cut retail beef prices because current grocery prices "simply do not reflect the huge cut in live cattle prices" in recent months. He also called for congressional action on credit for farmers and expanded beef purchases by federal agencies.

If cattlemen continue to be pressed toward bankruptcy, Albert said, the rest of the economy will be affected "like a row of falling dominoes."

Rep. Peter A. Peyser, R-N.Y., in a statement to the committee, complained that although farmers are losing money on their cattle, "when the beef reaches the retail market it is still at the all-time high established in August of 1973."

Murder victims found in blaze

CHICAGO (UPI) — Firemen who put out a smoldering basement fire in suburban Park Ridge found five members of a family dead Monday, four of them murdered and wrapped in blankets.

A bloody kitchen knife was found near the four bodies found in the basement, but the coroner's office declined to comment on the probable cause of death.

The victims were Raymond A. Fuchs, his wife, Ruth, 48, a son, Scott, 15, and a daughter, Lynda, 14. The fifth body, tentatively identified as an older son Jeffery, 17, was found in an upstairs kitchen, his face smeared in soot and a rope around his neck. His body was burned beyond recognition.

Technicians on the scene said all the bodies showed signs of decomposition and Ann had apparently been dead for about 48 hours.

Mrs. Fuchs' hands were tied in front of her with a card that was around the leg of a laundry tub. The hands of the 15-year-old boy were bound behind his back.

Three large candles, which had burned almost to their base, were found in the basement when firemen arrived, and authorities said the fire could have started from the candles or it could have been purposely set.

Members of the family were last seen alive Friday.

Fuchs worked as a clerk in the nearby suburb of Elk Grove. He was supposed to work Saturday but he did not show up.

Strict security for queen after IRA palace bombing

LONDON (UPI) — Police using helicopters, in patrol cars and on foot threw a massive security net around Ascot race course today to shield Queen Elizabeth and thousands of other socially prominent people from a possible attack like the bombing Monday of historic Westminster Palace.

This afternoon's Royal Ascot west of London is the highlight of the social season, traditionally drawing throngs of spectators in top hats, tails and long dresses. Security sources said it provided an excellent target for extremists.

Scotland Yard refused to comment on security measures, but hours before the Queen's arrival for the races police helicopters hovered over the course and patrolmen in cars and on foot checked streets in suburban Ascot.

Reinforced security also was in effect this morning at the Houses of Commons, part of the government complex damaged Monday morning by a bomb apparently planted by the Irish Republican Army.

Police checked every vehicle entering the grounds. Other officers quizzed workmen on the site of an underground parking lot being built adjoining 900-year-old Westminster Palace, whose windows were shattered in the explosion.

Security sources said one theory police investigators were pursuing was that the bomb had been planted by someone who entered the construction site posing as a workman.

In another part of the city police cleared thousands of commuters from Liverpool street station this morning after an anonymous caller said a bomb had been planted there.

Munitions experts searched the station for 20 minutes and found nothing, police said.

The minutes that followed the bomb explosion Monday vividly reminded older British residents of the wartime nights when German bombers rained fire on the palace beside the Thames.

Thick black smoke billowing from the shattered windows of Westminster Hall, at 900 years the oldest part of the complex, blotted out the face of Big Ben clock, the symbol of London.

Police said 11 persons were injured in the blast, including one woman who suffered a broken leg.

The bomb, estimated at 15 to 20 pounds, wrecked a kitchen area adjoining Westminster Hall, shattered the windows of the hall itself and at one point threatened to destroy it in fire started by a broken natural gas pipe.

The explosion went off within yards of the Houses of Commons and Lords, all part of the palace, and across the street from the equally historic Westminster Abbey where Britain's Kings and Queens are crowned.

Officials said damage to the Hall, while extensive, was not as serious as first feared. Hundreds of firemen got the blaze under control before it could reach the unique 13th century hammer roof beams.

Gays disrupt lecture

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Dr. David Reuben, author of "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Sex," was giving a lecture at the Playhouse in the Park Theater to about 100 persons Monday night. Suddenly 10 gay activists climbed onto the stage and called Reuben "a criminal" because of the views on homosexuality expressed in his book.

A fight broke out and two men were injured, including a policeman. Mark Segal, spokesman for the "Gay Raiders," said Reuben's book "perpetuates old myths about homosexuals and creates new myths."

Five police officers attempted to remove the protesters from the auditorium when the fight broke out. Reuben, who was not injured, completed the lecture.

"After this the City of Brotherly Love takes on a new meaning for me," he said.

D.B. Homeowners to mull zoning, parks and library

DIAMOND BAR — The Diamond Bar Homeowners Association will hold a general membership meeting tonight at 7:30 at the Diamond Bar County Club to discuss a zoning "reprieve" granted by the Board of Supervisors.

Parks and library pending for the community also will be discussed.

The supervisors last week granted the stay to the people of Diamond Bar fighting proposed high-density apartments on the strip of land along Diamond Bar Boulevard next to the Hills tract.

The association, joined by its ad hoc committee Homeowners United for Fairness (HUFF), succeeded in having the supervisors refer the case back to the Regional Planning Commission for reconsideration of lower densities.

Supervisor Peter Schabarum made the referral motion. A chartered bus transported nearly 100 Diamond Bar residents to the hearing.

"The people of Diamond Bar are deeply disturbed about the density of these proposed apartments," said Chuck Hall, chairman of the homeowners' zoning and planning committee.

"They are so disturbed that many took time off from their jobs to be at the hearing and support the concept of planned community development. This case is a typical example of irresponsible spot zoning which we have opposed time and again in Diamond Bar."

Mrs. Sara Nunn, HUFF cochairman, presented supervisors petitions bearing 2,500 signatures of Diamond Bar property owners opposing high density zoning on the land under consideration.

"We won an important victory," said Mrs. Nunn. "We made the supervisors a of our needs and they ponded favorably. Now we we will have the chanc present our case to the pl ing commissioners."

The Regional Plan Commission must deter whether to hold another lic hearing or reconsider case without further p input.

It initially had approve to 25 units per acre on land, over a recommend of 7 to 15 units from its The homeowners favor th wer density.

"Many facts which come to light were brought out at the last mission hearing," said M Spiegel, HUFF co-chair "We are counting on planning commissioners give us the opportunity present them with the dence we successfully sented to the supervisors."

Third person sentenced in gem robbery

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — Jimmie Franklin Jr. recently became the third person to be sentenced in connection with the daring daylight robbery of Tiffany's jewelry store last year.

A fourth person was scheduled to be sentenced today.

Franklin, 21, one of nine persons arrested for the robbery, was convicted of first-degree robbery earlier this year.

Tiffany's in Beverly Hills was robbed of $240,000 worth of jewels last November.

The latest suspect, Herbert C. Miller Sr., 47, was arrested Tuesday after Compton police dug up some $84,000 worth of diamond rings allegedly taken in the holdup.

Quits $30,000 a year job, building boat to go to sea

LAFAYETTE, Colo. (UPI) — Jerry Powers will quit his $30,000 a year job next spring, pack up his wife and two teenaged sons and set sail aboard his home-made 40-foot sailboat for Hawaii to avoid growing old in one spot.

"My security is knowing I can do what I want to do," said Powers, 34, a construction engineer. "I am just tired of fighting it. I don't ever want to return to work again if I can humanly help it."

Slightly more than a year ago, Powers sold his home and moved his wife Brenda and their sons into an 18-foot trailer on the prairie outside Lafayette, north of Denver. One of his first moves was to put up a plywood shed and begin building the Serenity II.

"This is going to be it," he said pointing to the unfinished 40-foot two-masted sailboat. "I will be the first to admit I may fail but I have enough desire so that I think I can."

Powers said he hopes to be finished by next spring when he'll knock down the shed and haul the Serenity II to Puget Sound for launching.

The Powers' love of sailing began five years ago on a 21-foot Catalina named Serenity which they sailed down the coast of Baja, California.

Powers said the trip was great until they ran into a storm with winds gusting to 60 knots. He said that trip prepared him and his wife for handling the ship alone if his sons go to college after completing high school through correspondence courses.

"First, though, I have to get her done," he said sipping a can of cold beer. "I don't want to grow to one spot for the rest of eternity."

His wife, Brenda, agrees. "I've had the nice home and beautiful furniture and all that," she said.

High court denies disability benefits due to pregnancies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — State disability insurance systems can withhold benefits for normal pregnancies, the Supreme Court ruled Monday.

The coart, on a 6 to 3 vote, reversed the ruling of a three-judge federal district court in California that said the state system violated the right to equal protection of the laws.

"The state is not required by the Equal Protection Clause (of the Constitution) to sacrifice the self-supporting nature of the program, reduce the benefits payable for covered disabilities, or increase the maximum employe contribution rate just to provide protection against another risk of a disability, such as normal pregnancy," the court's majority opinion said.

Four women had sued for benefits under the California plan, which covers private employes temporarily disabled in a way that is not covered by workmen's compensation. But the case became moot for three of them, the court noted, because those three had abnormal pregnancies and those were covered by the plan. Their claims for benefits were paid after the suit was filed.

For the fourth, the court said California's decision not to include normal pregnancy under covered disabilities "does not constitute discrimination." The plan is financed by the contributions of the workers and its benefits are geared to what it can pay for, the court noted.

The dissenting opinion, written by Justice William J. Brennan, said, "The economic effects caused by pregnancy-related disabilities are functionally indistinguishable from the effects caused by any other disability: wages are lost...medical expenses are incurred..."

Because the plan covered some disabilities suffered mostly by men, and failed to cover disabilities from normal pregnancy, it "created a double standard for disability compensation," Brennan wrote.

But the majority opinion, by Justice Potter Stewart, said, "The program does not discriminate wth respect to the persons or groups eligible for it protection, and there is no evidence that it discriminates against any definable group or class in terms of the aggregate risk-protection derived from tte program. The sole contention is the asserted under-inclusiveness of the program's coverage as the result of the exclusion of disabilities resulting from normal pregnancy."

$30,000 spent so far in 8th district race

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Eighteen candidates, all seeking former city councilman Billy G. Mills' 8th District seat, have spent a total of more than $30,000 in the race so far, recent financial reports disclosed.

As of May 31, Charlie Knox, 41, chief assistant to Rep. Augustus F. Hawkins D-Los Angeles, spent the most money, listing his expenditures as $9,653.01.

Knox said nearly $6,000 of his funds was obtained through contributions of $100 or more. Most of the large contributions came from businesses, including $1,000 each from the Surety Drilling Co. and the Carroll Pallett & Lumber Co.

Knox also received a $4,000 loan from Security Pacific National Bank, his financial statement revealed.

The second highest amount was spent by Theodore Major Green, 27, a tax consultant, who listed his expenditures as $7,134. Green reported that more than $6,000 was from his own funds and came from an automobile accident settlement.

Both Knox and Green said they spent most of the money on advertising, printing, stamps and paper.

Rolland J. Curtis, 52, who was appointed chief deputy of the 8th District by Mills, spent $5,154.50, all from personal funds, on radio ads and campaign office costs, according to his report.

Other top spenders included Harry W. Bledsoe, $4,553; Adam Burton, $2,462; Robert Charles Farrell, $1,870 and Marguerite P. Justice, $1,862.

Most of the remaining candidates said they have spent $1,000 or less on their campaigns.

A special election will be held June 25 to fill the seat vacated when Mills was appointed a Superior Court judge by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Nude beauty is winner

COLTON, Calif. (UPI) — Darlene Stumhofer, a 20-yearold model from Dana Point, won the Miss Bare State nude beauty contest Sunday.

The contest was in jeopardy of never taking place after hotels in Riverside, San Diego and Los Angeles counties had to cancel it because of a state law forbidding nude entertainment wherever food or drink is sold.

The pageant was finally held at Olive Dell Nudist Ranch here before an audience of newsmen.

Miss Stumhofer, a tall blonde, triumphed over eight other girls.

Avocado prices

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Avocados are expected to average 29 cents each this summer, says the California Avocado Advisory Board. They will be in plentiful supply and be available in some areas at certain times for as little as five for a dollar. The Nass variety, marketed from April to October, is egghaped, with a dark, pebbly skin.

Dad of raped retarded girl asks $1 million

HELENA, Mont. (UPI) — The father of a retarded girl, claiming his daugtter was raped at a mental hospital, is asking $1 million in damages.

The girl, 19, subsequently gave birth to a son on May 10, alleges the claim filed by attorney Robert L. Stephens Jr. of Billings. Identities of the infant's father and the girl were not known.

Stephens said the parents charge, among other things, that the rape and subsequent birth were caused by negligence at the Boulder River School and hospital. The girl was incapable of consenting to the sexual act because of retardation, they said.

The institution's superintendent, Keith McCarthy, disclosed that two other suits may be filed against it in the future, one from the parents of a girl who choked on good in February. The other, he said, may come from the U.S. Department of Justice demanding that the institution improve conditions.

55 gallon drums used for packing

DENVER (UPI) — A new aseptic canning process announced by a California company makes it possible to pack fruit and vegetables safely in 55 gallon drums. A drum is comparable to 75 No. 10 cans of the sort used for institutional feeding. The process permits canning in natural juices without syrups.

Scare ads don't affect educated smoker

NEW YORK (UPI) — Scare commercials threatening smokers with death sooner or later apparently have little impact on more educated persons, according to a study made by Alan A. Berman of the American University in Washington, D. C. The magazine Psychology Today reported that Berman had five questionnaires —ministered to 300 students (average age, 22) in an effort to determine their smoking habits and attitudes toward death. Berman found the more educated smoked more often than those with less schooling and rationalized their habit as an act of defiance.

"Berman concluded that scare commercials threatening people with death at some indefinite future time wasn't the way to stop people from smoking," Psychology Today noted. "Fear of cancer made many try to quit, but wasn't enough to keep them off cigarettes permanently. Any program to stop smoking, he believes, must expect some backsliding and allow for it.

Miss Melissa Osborne was maid of honor for her sister.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. Ray Pense of La Verne, chose Richard Bartlebaugh as his best man. Ushers were Jim Pense, Tim Wright, Dave Hillburg and Jerry Cleveland.

Thinking can alter breaks

By Oswald & James Jacoby

We are indebted to Jan Wohlin of Stockholm for today's hand. South gets to a good three notrump contract after a Stayman response to his opening notrump bid.

He started out correctly by winning the club lead in his own hand. The next three tricks were taken by his ace and queen of diamonds and dummy's king. A fourth diamond lost to East's jack.

Opening lead—♣Q

A club was led back to dummy's ace and the fifth diamond cashed. A successful heart finesse gave him his seventh trick, but the king failed to drop under the ace and he had to go down one.

Mr. Wohlin points out that South would have made his contract in spite of the bad break, if he just stopped to think when West showed out on the second diamond. South should simply overtake his queen with dummy's king; take a heart finesse and lead his three of diamonds to dummy's nine.

East would win and lead a club to dummy's ace. South would cash the last two diamonds and then take a second heart finesse.

The whole point would be that South would make the same four diamonds tricks but would get one more heart trick.

PUBERTY

That gland called the pineal organ in the human body controls the onset of puberty. As it shrinks with age, it releases the key hormones. Doctors in Pakistan now say prolonged strong light tends to speed the shrinkage of said organ. It's widely known that girls today reach puberty somewhat earlier than the girls of a few generations ago. And one theory is they do so because of the electric light bulb. The normal cycle of daylight and dark has been changed. Their pineal glands are thought to be responding to all this artificial light.

It has been reported that only two out of five honeymoon couples are entirely pleased with their wedding trip. Three out of five are said to report some disappointment. Our Love and War man's research into this matter indicates that when these affairs are less than happy, it's usually the husband's fault.

City of Tampa first a fort

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — The City of Tampa, now the largest port between New Orleans and Norfolk, was founded in 1824 as the military post of Fort Brooke. Its present name came from the U.S. Post Office Department which listed it as "Tampa Bay." The name was shortened to Tampa in 1834.

Historan Dr. James W. Covington of the University of Tampa said the plans for establishing Fort Brooke grew out of the Treaty of Moultrie, which was signed in 1823 with the Seminole Indians.

Polls vary, but neither helps Nixon

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two independent pollsters have come up with different results on public opinion toward President Nixon, but the results of both polls are unfavorable to the President.

Two Gallup polls, one taken in early May and the other taken in early June, indicated Nixon made slight gains in public support during the time period between the two polls. But Harris surveys for the same periods said Nixon has lost support.

In both polls, those who said Nixon should be removed from office outnumbered those who said he should remain.

The Gallup poll taken in early June and released during the weekend said 44 per cent of those questioned felt Nixon should be removed from office, compared with 41 per cent who were against removal. When the same question was posed by Gallup in early May, 48 per cent wanted Nixon removed to 37 who did not, indicating Nixon gained about 4 per cent during the two polls.

The Harris poll taken in early June and released last week showed 52 per cent favored removal, compared with 35 per cent who said Nixon should remain in office. The Harris figures for the same poll taken in early May were 49 for removal to 41 against removal, indicating a loss of support of about 4 per cent during the time period between the two polls.

The Harris question, posed to a cross section of 1,413 adults was: "All in all, do you think President Nixon should or should not be impeached by Congress and removed from office?"

Gallup pollsters, who surveyed a cross section of 1,509 adults, asked, "Just from the way you feel now, do you think his actions are serious enough to warrant his being removed from the presidency, or not?"

CHP officer's noble try ends on tragic note

ELSINORE, Calif. (UPI) — There's never a policeman around when you really need one.

California Highway Patrolman Nowlin Foster got first hand verification of that old addage recently when he noticed a car driving erratically on a highway outside Anaheim.

Foster, off duty and in his own private automobile, tried to flag dwn the vehicle, driven by James M. Glenn of Elsinore. Glenn did stop several times but when Foster got out and approached the car, Glenn would drive off again.

The CHP officer sought vainly to spot a police vehicle so that an arrest could be made. He followed Glenn almost 50 miles with no sign of a CHP or other patrol car.

On the outskirts of Elsinore where Glenn lives, his car crashed into a sign post. His wife, Helen, 60, was killed.

Northside branch library issue faces council again

POMONA — A question more than a decade old over whether city government owes citizens a northside branch library apparently will finally be resolved with the adoption of the 1974-75 city budget this month.

Mrs. May Bowen, former secretary of the Library Board of Trustees, raised the question again Monday night before the City Council at a public hearing on the proposed $18,198,701 budget.

Mrs. Bowen inquired about plans for $8,000 from a fund set aside for a library branch to be used to balance the budget.

Mayor Ray J. Lepire replied that the $86,000 came from reserves, not a fund set aside for the construction of a library branch.

Lepire said that funds that were to be used for a branch had already been expended in the construction of the main library branch, completed in 1965 at the Civic Center Plaza.

"I beg your pardon, it was not," answered Mrs. Bowen.

She said that voters twice rejected bond issue proposals for the construction of a library and referred to the approval by voters of another bond issue proposal for $1.2 million in 1961 after being promised a main library and a northside branch.

Lepire said that because the cost of the main library far exceeded projections, the proceeds from the bond sale were not enough to cover actual costs.

City administrator Jerrold Gonce said the funds in question came from a fund resulting from the $115,000 sale of the old library site.

Mrs. Bowen contended that an amount had been "socked away" for a northside branch and for that reason had not been touched by the library.

The fund which started with the $115,000 proceeds from the sale of the old site has accumulated considerable interest and has grown to about $200,000.

Mrs. Bowen stressed the importance the city government living up to its promises, otherwise, "the next time we tell voters of Pomona we're going to do something, they won't believe us."

Lepire said use of the $86,000 was necessary to balance the budget and avoid hitting taxpayers for more money.

Councilman Charles W. Bader termed Mrs. Bowen's comments as "appropriate" but supported the mayor's position. Councilman Adrian T. Wright questioned whether a branch would ever be built.

But there seemed to be no visible council opposition to the use of the $86,000 to balance the budget.

Kenneth Walter asked why in view of a growing crime rate the proposed budget showed a decrease in expenditure from the previous budget.

City officials explained that while booklets on the budget passed out to the public showed the police department being decreased from 25 to 23 per cent of the total $16.2 municipal budget total. the department has received $300,000 and seven positions more in the new fiscal year, factors that were not readily apparent because of federal funding. The remaining $1.9 million is for the water department.

Preschool program budget for next year increased

PRESCHOOL POI

Children in Evelyn O'Donnel's preschool class at Allison Elementary School in Pomona had fun making and later eating pineapple poi. Chief cooks were a mother, Mrs. Joan Renfro of Pomona, and three of the preschoolers, Racquel Renfro, 5, left, Rod Rivers, 5, center, and Scott Kleinsorge, 5.

POMONA — The budget for the state preschool program in the Pomona Unified School District will be increased next year and registrations are being accepted now for September, according to preschool specialist Judy A. Sneed.

This year the program served 80 children at four sites—Allison, Lexington, Kellogg and San Jose elementary schools—and operated on a budget of $92,700. The 1974-75 budget contains $95,700. All money for the program comes from the state.

The preschool program serves children who are 3 years and 9 months old or older and come from families who are receiving aid or have low incomes. Requirements follow a scale which calls for a family of four to have a $440 a month or $6,600 a year income or less.

"The program serves pre-kindergarten children and 3-year-olds with special needs," said Mrs. Sneed. "Parents are required to participate two hours a week. This helps parents understand the preschool and its program, and how they can work with their children at home.

"It also helps parents learn alternative ways of rearing a child and coping with problems. There are Parent Advisory Committee meetings and parent meetings to discuss methods of discipline, child growth and development."

Lead teachers this year were Mary Baines, Evelyn O'Donnel, Teresa Vinatieri, and Eleanor Juarez. Educational assistants were Linda Hart, Luella Cunningham, Willie Johnson and Gladys Campbell. Virginia Madrigal, Muriel Lindgren, Darlene Curry and Gilda Lewis were instructional aides.

Classes were held from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. This same program will be followed next year, Mrs. Sneed said.

She asked families eligible for the program to enroll their children now because they are given physical examinations and their immunizations are brought up to date. Parents and children are given tuberculoris tests.

"We hope to prepare these children for kindergarten," said Mrs. Sneed.

Those with children eligible for enrollment may call 623-5251. Ext. 317, weekdays.

When school starts, children will be taught self-concept, language, pre-reading skills, beginning match concepts and social development. They will develop an increased attention span and independence as well as large and small muscle control. They will learn coordination, basic concept of formation and they will go on field trips.

Each day they will have snacks and lunch.

"Research during the last 10 years has shown that the years before the fifth birthday are peak years for building self-confidence and teaching basic thinking and language skills," said Mrs. Sneed.

"If a child has a positive self-image, he will have the confidence he needs to solve problems, cope with his environment and learn needed skills for living.

"The Pomona preschool project is a program designed by the district to develop the child's self-image. Another major concern of the program is to start the education process by improving the child's senses (seeing, hearing, touching, smelling and tasting), improving language skills and developing concept formation and problem-solving techniques."

Parent participation is a vital part of the preschool program, Mrs. Sneed said. Parents work in the classroom one day every two weeks. They help children develop creativity, learn self-help skills, gain independence and develop social consideration for others, she explained.

The preschool program started in Pomona's public schools in January of 1973.

S.D. budget: $2,484,840

SAN DIMAS — The City Council gave municipal employes an eight per cent cost-of-living raise Monday night as part of approval of the $2,484,840 budget.

Salary increases will represent a $38,000 amount in the budget. Councilmen discussed salary increases at an executive session following a discussion of other budget items.

The budget, $400,000 higher than last year's, will call for a six-cent increase per $100 of assessed valuation in the lighting fund for most parts of the city because of an increase in rates by Southern California Edison Co. The rate will be increased from 30 cents to 45 cents.

The general tax rate will remain at 75 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Councilmen spent a good portion of the special budget session discussing whether the city should allocate funds to help the Shooting Stars Drill Team to pay for transportation to Expo '74 in Spokane, Wash. The recreation department-sponsored drill team is to appear there Sept. 2.

According to Bryce Bailey, director of parks and recreation, the drill team had estimated that the round trip to Seattle would cost $9,000, but because of increases in air fare rates, costs have now escalated to $11,000.

The City Council has already signed a $3,000 loan to purchase a car that the drill team is using to raise funds for the trip. But, Bailey explained, the organization has thus far raised a total of $3,330, leaving a net amount raised of $330.

The City Council finally agreed to commit the city to spend $2,500 to help with the venture, but City Councilman Marvin Ersher said he felt a policy should be established to prevent the city from getting into similar situations in the future.

Bailey said in addition to selling tickets for the car, members also plan a dance and other fund-raising projects. He said they still have several months to sell tickets for the car.

Councilman Ray Miracle said it is a complex problem but he said the trip was "city initiated." He said he has doubts about using taxpayers' dollars to benefit a few people. The 65-member drill team has members from La Verne, Covina and Glendora.

"We're establishing something we could be criticized for," Miracle said. But he added that he supports helping the group get to Spokane. He suggested that the city match funds raised by the organization but the council instead went along with Mayor Jim Lough's recommendation to commit the city to the $2,500 amount.

Lough invited all members of the council to attend a meeting Monday at 7 p.m. with parents of the drill team members to discuss the problem.

Vice Mayor Keith Brogan said he doesn't care how much controversy the issue raises—he supports giving financial assistance to the team.

In other action the council voted to give $5,000 to the La Verne-San Dimas Open Door, $575 to the San Dimas Jaycees and $1,750 to the Chamber of Commerce.

The council will meet tonight at 7:30 in special session with members of the Planning Commission to discuss the proposed hillside development ordinance.

Claremont teachers given 7% raises effective July 1

CLAREMONT — The school board Monday night granted salary raises of seven per cent to teachers, those in supporting services, and administrators, and salary hikes of 7.3 per cent to classified employes and classified supervisors effective July 1.

Dr. R. S. Kirkendall explained that the teachers' raise was the result of a joint proposal between himself and the Certificated Employe Council.

He noted that the masters degree requirement for column V on the salary schedule had been eliminated, and that the new salary schedule is seven per cent higher than the one presently in effect.

He explained that movement on the schedule either by step or column represents an additional average increase of 3.3 per cent, and that should the district pay the increased premium for present health group insurance plans amounting to .5 per cent of the average salary, the total increased cost to the district for each teacher could approximate 10.8 per cent. Beginning teachers will start at $8,710 instead of the present $8,141.

Those in certificated supportive services, such as nurses and psychologists also gained a seven per cent hike, with a beginning salary at $850 a month.

Kirkendall explained that the proposed schedule for classified employes represents a 7.3 per cent increase over the schedule now in effect, and that the present schedule is about .3 per cent lower than the teachers salary schedule when the two are compared with medians of those schedules for the 13 East San Gabriel Valley school districts.

Kirkendall said that movement on the new schedule represents and additional increase of 2.5 per cent, and that the increased group health insurance premium would amount to about one per cent of the average classified salary. The total increased cost to the district for each classified employe would amount to about 10.8 per cent.

Kirkendall said that the CEC independently had proposed the addition of anniversary steps to the schedule and the adoption of a salary adjustment clause, but the board acted only on the joint proposal.

Board member Robert Stafford emphasized that the salary increases are "one-shot type of thing," because they represent the use of $470,000 of district reserve funds, and that the district's expenditures will be $470,000 more than its income for 1974-75.

He warned that next year the district is going to have to face some dramatic cuts in the education program that can be offered by the district.

Noting that the district has one of the lowest pupil-teacher ratios, Stafford cautioned that the cuts will come in that area.

"It's a fact of life under Senate Bill 90," he said, and added that salaries account for 85 per cent of the district's expenses.

Board member Arthur Steffen warned that SB 90 doesn't represent equal funding for all districts. He said that some districts found themselves with windfalls.

"We found ourselves with losses because of SB 90," he said.

Whippet races will be held at fairgrounds

POMONA — The Southern California Whippet Association will hold a series of 200-yard whippet races on the infield at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds Saturday starting at noon.

The whippet, a specially bred racing dog which resembles the greyhound, runs at speeds close to 35 miles per hour and usually covers the 200-yard distances in about 11 seconds. Forty of these racing dogs from various parts of California will participate in the running this Saturday. Admission is free.

The whippet chases a mechancial lure called a "bunny," a piece of fur which excites the animal to run at full speed. Ribbons and trophies are the only rewards for race winners.

Weighing-in for the event will start at 10:30 a.m. The races will continue from noon until 5 p.m.

Commission to study condominium proposal

CLAREMONT — The H. B. W. Enterprises Inc. condominium project on the south side of Seventh Street at Yale Avenue will be back in the laps of the Planning Commission at 7:30 tonight.

The commission had tabled a request for a conditional use permit for the 18-unit project at its last meeting until the City Council could rule on an appeal by architect Rufus Turner of an Environmental Quality Board ruling that developer Harold Weiner must file an Environmental Impact Report on the development.

The council last Tuesday took the advice of City Atty. William Bergman and sustained Turner's appeal.

Bergman recalled that last July then-city planning director Sharon Hightower had ruled that Weiner did not need an EIR, and that no one appealed her decision.

The Planning Commission first came into contact with a Weiner proposal last July when he asked for a conditional use permit for 20 units on the same land as his latest proposal for 18 units. The commission didn't like the development and rejected it.

Weiner tried again in November for a CUP, but was turned down again by the commission. He appealed to the City Council, but was turned down.

Weiner sued the city in April.

Wright-Major Co. has requested that land on Foothill Boulevard east of Mills be rezoned from highway commercial to multiple-residential, and that it be granted a conditional use permit to convert 20 two-bedroom apartments into a 20-unit condominium project.

Carl Karcher Enterprises Inc. has requested a conditional use permit to allow construction of a restaurant with drive-through window on land on the south side of Foothill Boulevard next to Mountain View Elementary School.

The city staff has asked that the matter be tabled because the applicant has not filed an environmental exemption questionnaire and at least one letter has been received in protect of tne development.

The land formerly was occupied by Caswell Trailer Sales for 10 years.

Also coming up for discussion by the commission is a request by Tony and Jean Alfano to operate a non-confirming prior-existing service station at 202 W. Foothill Blvd.

The city staff has recommended approval of a conditional use permit to allow alcoholic beverages at the Valley Racquet and Tennis Club, 840-844 S. Indian Hill Blvd.

Montclair considers regulation of political signs

MONTCLAIR — The City Council here began discussions Monday night to develop a stiffer ordinance to make political candidates more responsible for the scattering of political signs throughout this West End community.

The council agreed to set a public hearing for its next regular meeting on July 1 to consider a stricter ordinance regulating the posting of political signs. The recommendation came from the city staff, Community Action Committee and Planning Commission which have explored the "blight" that has been created by the abundance of such signs in the recently completed June primary.

The current ordinance calls for a $100 bond to be posted with the City of Montclair before any signs go up. It does not specify size, distance or time period for exhibit.

Mayor Pro-tem Ernest Rowley and Councilmen Tom McClure and Paul Jones all voiced ire about the recent election and signs that littered Montclair telephone poles and vacant gas stations, stores and lots.

"The great cry in politics this year seems to be integrity. I'm appalled at the lack of integrity by people who slap posters up and down our streets," protested McClure. He criticized candidates who campaigned on beautification and cleaning up the environment and yet created an ecological crisis with the proliferation of posters.

"There is no question in my mind that we need a stiffer ordinance in this town. I don't like seeing signs six months after the election. It's a blight on our town," said McClure.

Jones pointed out that the political signs were becoming more outlandish, citing the size of one which blocked a corner view and created a traffic hazard. He suggested that Montclair's sign regulation be included in literature for Congressional district candidates as well as local political information.

Rowley's suggestions were more detailed, and included changing the maximum width from the staff suggestion of six to eight feet; salvagable material from signs going to the city; allowing the present $100 bond to cover cleanup except for pasted or glued signs; establishing a minimum distance of 1,000 feet or five signs per mile per candidate; and finally, a time period for posting no sooner than the first of the month prior to the election month.

Mike Loehr, director of community development, reported that 10 candidates are currently in violation of the ordinance. At the request of McClure, he listed those candidates as Richard Brownell, Tony Piazza, Stan Tomlinson, Keith Shirey, Les Craven, Mary Montes, Henry Gerardo, Bob Stafford, George Kasem and Frank Cooper.

Loehr stated that these 10 will be billed for cleanup and if not responding, necessary legal action will be taken against them.

McClure commented that many claimed they were unaware of the ordinance, that "over zealous" campaign workers were responsible.

"Each candidate must take the ultimate responsibility for not complying with the law. Anyone's who's going to run for office better find out what the requirements are. The time has come in American politics when the candidate must take the responsibility for what his or her people do," stressed McClure.

Loehr stated that "some feel the law does not apply to them and they don't believe in it. The problem is not one of notification."

City Attorney Eugene Demchuk, who will work with staff in drafting a stiffer and enforceable ordinance, stated that the main problem he faces is proof of a violation in a court of law. The question is "Did the candidate have physical control of the posting of signs?" he said.

Their first 100 years the hardest

Members of the osteopathic profession, which observes its centenary this month might well say that the first 100 years were the hardest.

It was on June 22, 1874, that a frontier physician named Andrew Taylor Still presented what was then a radical concept to the medical profession. He proposed that rather than treat specific disease symptoms, doctors should learn more about the interdependence of the body's systems, particularly the musculoskeletal system, and minister to the whole body. He was summarily dismissed from his position at Baker University in Baldwin, Kansas.

But although the medical establishment rejected him as a "cultist," individual physicians began adopting his techniques. By 1892, Dr. Still had founded his own medical school and was awarding Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine — D.O. —degrees.

Only in recent years, however, have osteopaths achieved full acceptance in the medical community. One of the last holdouts was the military services, which refused to draft D.O.s as physicians in World War II. Osteopaths are now given full recognition under all federal programs.

There are seven colleges of osteopathic medicine in the United States today, and while osteopaths comprise only five per cent of the nation's doctors, they care for 10 percent of the population. This is because of osteopathic medicine's traditional emphasis on general practice. More than 75 per cent of all D.O.s are in general practice; approximately the same percentage of practicing M.D.s are in some specialty area.

Osteopathic physicians are licensed to practice in all 50 states. In many instances, D.O.s and M.D.s are examined by the same state licensing boards. The educational requirements and training of the two professions are virtually the same, but with osteopaths having the added dimension of training in disorders of the musculoskeletal system and in manipulative therapy.

Today, there are more similarities than differences between D.O.s and M.D.s. In fact, it is now official policy of the American Medical Association to assimilate osteopathic physicians into the M.D. mainstream.

Many D.O.s, fiercely proud of their separateness, are resisting this new "ecumenism," though — after 100 years — they welcome cordial relations with M.D.s.

And now, liquor lib!

Along with everything else they established in 1787, the Founding Fathers made a "common market" out of the United States. The "Commerce Clause" was intentionally inserted into the Constitution to remove trade barriers between the states, which had been one of the principal grievances of the former colonies.

Prior to Prohibition, the Supreme Court ruled that intoxicating liquor was a legitimate subject of commerce, "as much so as cabbages and candlesticks." Since the repeal of Prohibition in 1933, however, court opinion has held that the 21st Amendment (Repeal) overrides all other constitutional provisions and permits individual states complete latitude in the area of liquor control, including the right to discriminate against wine produced in another state.

The result has been a pattern of "balkinization" in state liquor laws, especially in regard to wines.

A bill currently before Congress — H.R. 2096 — would give alcoholic beverages the protection they were once guaranteed under the Constitution. The bill has been passed by a substantial majority in the House of Representatives and is now awaiting action in the Senate.

The only right that would be denied to an individual state would be the "right" to discriminate the wines of any one area in favor of the wines from any other area. It could not force a retailer, whether a state-operated store or a private licensee, to buy or to refrain from buying any wines offered for sale by suppliers, nor would it interfere with a state's adoption of local option laws.

H.R. 2096 would, in short, remove a shadow that has hovered over the legal status of alcoholic beverages for some 40 years.

Thoughts for today

But be doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving yourselves. For if any one is a hearer of the word and not a doer, he is like a man who observes his natural face in a mirror.—James 1:22,23. 1:22,23.

Kissinger--the man behind the mask

WASHINGTON — Henry Kissinger's startling outburst in Salzburg, Austria, where he responded to wiretap charges with a show of hurt and anger, gave the world a glimpse behind his diplomatic mask.

For the Secretary of State is not always the charming, witty man of the world who embraces his enemies and achieves the impossible peace. Those who know him have discovered under the suave exterior a petulant man, a restless friend and a resourceful enemy.

Perhaps the State Department superstar should be reduced to human dimensions. He spends most of his time in the pressure cooker. When his nerves are ragged, Kissinger's face reddens, his German accent thickens, and the expletives fly like shrapnel. The purple profanity is audible evidence that his American education was shaped in the Army's enlisted barracks as well as Harvard.

During his rages, he has hurled objects, sometimes at his underlings. One former aide recalls ducking a book that came flying across the room. Another said he never saw Kissinger throw anything heavier than a pad of paper at a staff member.

His temper, however, is an uncertain Vesuvius. More often, he is soft-spoken. He avoids confrontations, prefers to communicate with his staff through memos.

Those who have labored for him described him as brilliant if domineering. It took all his diplomatic skills and manipulative talents to produce the Syrian-Israeli truce. For 34 days, he shuttled between Damascus and Jerusalem.

He kept up intensive, daily negotiations, providing exactly the right combination of firmness and friendliness. Many times, the negotiations came close to a blow-up. But the Kissinger magic prevailed.

He expected to come home to a hero's welcome. Instead, he was asked questions about his role in a White House wiretap operation. Suddenly in Salzburg, he trembled with a wrath he could no longer hold back. And for the first time, the world saw a Kissinger only a few intimates had known.

THE PRIVATE HENRY: Before Henry Kissinger stepped upon the world stage, he became fascinated with the life and style of another German refugee: Prince Klemens Wenzel Nepomuk Lothar von Metternich. The prince was the architect of the Balance of Power system and a central figure in the Austrian government in the first half of the 19th century.

Metternich was also a dashing figure in Vienna in the bygone days when diplomats wore sashes and cavorted to the gay waltzes of string bands. He was as interested in the bedchambers as he was in the council chambers.

The frumpish, owlish Kissinger was an unlikely Metternich. But what he lacked in dash and savoir-faire, apparently he made up in quiet, engaging charm. He made a splash at Washington parties where, invariably, he had an attractive woman on his arm or conspired to sit next to the prettiest woman.

His marriage to the statuesque Nancy Maginnes has ended his career as a swinger. But he still looks after the amours of his honored guests. On June 8, for example, he attended a party at the Saudi Arabian embassy where visiting Prince Fahd Ibn Saud took a fancy to White House press secretary Ron Ziegler's beautiful, buxom aide, Mimi Hartford.

A PASS AND A PASSPORT: At the Prince's invitation, Miss Hartford squeezed into the Prince's chair, sitting between him and Kissinger while they talked of oil and power. As the evening wore on, the Prince graciously invited her to accompany him to London. She coyly demurred, saying she had no passport.

It was 4:30 a.m. before Miss Hartman got to bed that night. She had been asleep for only three hours when there was a loud banging on her door. She opened it to find a State Department messenger, bringing her a passport.

In Richard Nixon, Kissinger found a President who appreciated his skills. For foreign policy, despite the distractions of Watergate, is still Nixon's favorite game. It was also the love of the game, not any admiration for Nixon, that brought Kissinger to the White House.

"I had never met him when he offered me this job," recalls Kissinger. "I was astonished. After all, he was acquainted with the unfriendly and unsympathetic attitude I had always assumed towards him."

POWER BEGAT POWER: But Kissinger understood that the President was the source of political power. Drawing from this source, Kissinger gathered power to himself. As a recognized expert on foreign affairs, he was able to capture Nixon's attention from the beginning.

By dint of long hours and deep thinking and demanding staff work, Kissinger came up with a strategy for every crisis. He presented Nixon with a penetrating, two-inch-thick review of the Vietnam War, for example, within a few days after the new President moved into the White House.

The two men drew close together. "I like the President," says Kissinger. "I agree with him. We've gone through all this . . . like two men in a foxhole . . . It's almost irrelevant whether we like each other. It's like asking me whether I like my arm. We have no disagreement over anything central or basic. No disagreement over policy. We're too close for that."

Footnote: My associate George Clifford spoke to Miss Hartman, who confirmed the incident of the fast passport. She did not, however, go to London but said she will join the Prince in Paris if she can get time off from the White House.

No fair trial for President Nixon

If it were anybody else on trial no newspaper would lead a clamor for conviction — as in this case.

No juror would prejudice the accused guilty — as in this case.

Any such prejudicial interference with the cause of justice would call for an immediate mistrial.

But for Richard M. Nixon, on trial for "his life," there is no possibility of an unprejudiced jury, there can be no mistrial, and this jury's verdict is final.

Jack Barlow once said, "A leader can never be sure whether that crowd behind is following him or chasing him." They'll shout "Hosannah" on Sunday and "Crucify him!" by Friday.

You ask: "Paul Harvey, why haven't you come out for or against impeachment?" Well, let's see if you would really want me to.

Should I say he has done nothing impeachable, you would be entitled to say, "How dare you, Paul Harvey, presume to decide a question on which esteemed constitutional lawyers cannot agree!" And you'd be quite right.

Or if I should join the chorus for either impeachment or resignation—with his jury listening—then would not I be obstructing justice? Yet isn't that what certain big-city newspapers have done?

I have off-and-on complimented and criticized this Administration for specific acts, but I am not prepared, as some apparently are, to drop on the person of this President the political A-bomb of press-pressured impeachment.

And dare we demand his resignation just because the crowd is being turned against him — when it's at least possible the crowd is misled?

If you read my column regularly, you know that I have accused the New York-based news media of turning the Watergate expose into a vendetta.

I have expressed disappointment to discover, from what evidence we have seen, that this President is less decisive and his language sometimes less circumspect than one might have preferred.

But criticizing specifics is one thing—and is the proper province of professional observers — and jury tampering is something else again.

The word "Watergate" has become an adjective describing the excesses of overly zealous men who abandoned scruples in the accomplishment of what they thought to be a worthy objective.

News writers willing to sell out the system for a quick kill are as intemperate in their misuses of power and privileges and are, assuredly as did the White House palace guard, asking someday to have their own wings clipped.

As others see it . . . . . . letters

Reason, not innuendos

I am disgusted with the Paul Harvey column of June 11 published in the Progress-Bulletin. (Editor's Note: In that column Paul Harvey called members of the Symbionese Liberation Army "a handful of punks.")

We hear a lot of complaints against the reporters of the news media. The job of the reporter is plain and simple — to report the facts. The moment a reporter reports false facts he should lose his job.

I am all for freedom of expression in the news media as long as it is done in good taste. Very frankly, Mr. Harvey lost my respect when he indulged in name calling. Name calling is a type of prejudice. It is the job of the reporter to report the facts without prejudice. Name calling is a means to influence others.

I feel the reporter should report the facts and not try to unduly influence his readers. I am all for a reporter trying to reason with his readers as long as it is done in good taste and with intelligent reason.

Mr. Harvey, by name calling, is setting himself up as judge and jury. Innuendos can be evil. I would respect Mr. Harvey if he used reason rather than innuendos. — Arthur N. James, Pomona.

Woman had Buick agency

I noticed the article by United Press International on "Another male field (auto dealers) is making way for women" in the Sunday, June 2 edition of the Progress-Bulletin.

Just thought you would like to know that in Durand, Mich. in 1914, sixty years ago, the Buick agency had a saleslady. This agency was known as the Fred Brown and daughter agency. Mr. Brown died shortly after taking the agency and it then became the Edna L. Brown & Company agency.

She also sold player pianos and commercial organs which were sold for restaurants, soda fountains and the like.

Miss Brown was a very good friend of mine and had the Buick agency for many years. She was considered an excellent sales person. She also had a rental agency for cars for afternoons or weekends. — Mrs. C. E. Sanford, Pomona.

Gossip for today

After totaling up the astronomical number of give-away programs on television these days I can come to only one logical conclusion: The time has definitely arrived to up-date one of the more popular old sayings. Instead of, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," it should no read; "All play and no work makes jack for the bright boy," — And, lest I be accused of sex discrimination, for the bright gal as well.

* * *

And speaking of work, or the absence of it, one reader of this column contends that retirement is not such a big deal for those folks who are now in their seventies and eighties. His reasoning is that folks in those age brackets had to work such long hours in their earlier years — eight and ten hours a day six days a week until they were forced to retire — that they never had a chance of learn how to play.

Kissinger: cool look at overheated issue

"Why are you trying to destroy your government?"

That question was put to me by overseas telephone recently by a wise and immensely informed European. The question related to what the speaker saw as a concerted press and political attempt to nail President Nixon for the Watergate crimes and coverup.

That question is being asked today with increased emphasis in the context of what seems to be an attempt to gun down Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in the midst of his efforts to defuse the Middle East and achieve meaningful detente with Russia.

To this observer in the nation's capital, who has spent a lifetime in highly competitive journalism, the hunt for Kissinger's scalp by some members of the press is an irresponsibility bordering on insanity considering the catastrophic risk involved in Kissinger failure.

The distinguished liberal columnist, Marquis Childs, condemns these elements as follows:

"The assumption of some reporter-commentators who direct their fire at Kissinger is that diplomacy should be treated like a police beat. You score if you get the bad guys and you better believe there aren't any good guys."

Childs, like others with whom I have discussed this crisis of press responsibility, believes some journalists are guilty of "dangerous distortion" of their function.

Any close student of present-day trends in reporting sees clear evidence of a struggle within the field. A large number of men and women are coming into news reporting seeing it as an opportunity to attack what they regard as evil and to "improve" society, in their opinion, by turning out the rascals. The impartiality of yesterday's generation of reporters which we labeled "objectivity" is hooted as dated dictum.

There is a covert alliance between these young hotheads of the newsroom and the junior aides, lawyers of congressional committees, offices of prosecutors and government departments. This was acknowledged by two reporters who were awarded the Pulitzer Prize for their Watergate disclosures, Woodward and Bernstein, who told of receiving their invaluable leaks from an official source to whom they gave the nauseous title, "Deep Throat." Even the traditional sanctity of the grand jury chamber has been violated in this pursuit of subjective scoops.

Now it is Henry Kissinger at the pinnacle of his Mideast success, who is forced to flee the journalistic wolf pack. Almost alone in Washington it had seemed he was immune to the poisonous atmosphere that had emptied whole suites of offices in the White House.

One can only deplore Kissinger's ill-timed threat to resign, delivered in Salzburg, Austria, in the midst of his trip with President Nixon to consolidate the Middle East cease-fire.

Time will tell whether the secretary, in the context of agonizing leaks involving national security in 1969, actually ordered wiretaps on subordinates or, as he had testified before Congress, merely assisted an investigation he welcomed.

A very wise former diplomat (who by coincidence received his early grounding as a great newspaper correspondent) believes that whatever Kissinger's role the event was completely subordinate to the importance of his present role, a role upon which the fate of us all well may hang.

He sees us as thrall to a national mood to "put down our heroes." He believes there are some now in government or recently in it so jealous of Kissinger's success that the leaks to the press which blew this situation into another "scandal" might actually have emanated from the Nixon entourage.

As a close observer of Kissinger at work, this individual ardently wishes he had kept his cool in Austria, hard as it might be for the secretary to do so given his extreme press provocation and the incredible strain under which he must be operating.

His advice to both Kissinger and the press is: "For God's sake — and the nation's — cool it!"

Embers whipped by wind start two Ontario fires

ONTARIO — Hot embers whipped into the air by gusty winds caused separate fires at 516 E. Princeton Ave. and 522 E. Princeton Ave., Sunday and resulted in $4,175 damage.

Ontario firemen reported that gusty winds picked up hot embers from a smouldering barbecue ash fire in a compost pile behind 506 E. Princeton Ave. and blew them onto the roof of a garage at 516 E. Princeton Ave. and the roof of a house at 522 E. Princeton Ave.

The first fire was reported by Neil McMullin who noticed that the roof of his garage was on fire. Minutes later Phillip Sawyer of 522 E. Princeton reported the roof of his house was on fire. When firemen arrived minutes later they quickly extinguished the garage roof fire at McMullin's residence, but had some difficulty in containing the fire on Sawyer's wooden shake roof. A short time later firemen managed to contain the fire that caused more than $4,150 damage to the Sawyer home.

Damage to the McMullin garage was estimated at $25.

Firemen later learned that the fire originated behind the home of Tom Graber at 506 E. Princeton.

Oakmont to open new school term July 1

CLAREMONT — Oakmont Elementary School will begin its second year of year-round school July 1 with 59 registered for the session starting that day and 32 starting July 15.

Twenty-nine students will be trying the year-round 45 days in school, 15 days on vacation-type program for the first time. That figure doesn't include kindergarteners.

Principal Dorothy Bromage said that 15 pupils will be returning to the traditional school program this fall for varous reasons.

A total of 242 students are enrolled for the regular September opening.

Mrs. Bromage explained that 101 students started the year-round program last July on four tracks, and had decreased to 86 during the year.

The tracks have been cut to two—both starting in July.

She said that the pupils who begin July 1 will have vacations in late August, November, February, and May, as well as common holidays, such as Christmas, enjoyed by all students.

Those who start July 15 are off the first part of the month, October, January and April.

Mrs. Bromage said that a parents questionaire revealed that some parents are looking forward to the day when a year-round program will be conducted in junior high school and high school.

'Mr. Pennypacker'

Comedy offers fun, thought

By HERBERT HOSKINS

ONTARIO — Gallery Theater's production of Liam O'Brien's comedy, "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker," offers that increasingly rare family entertainment whose humor both delights and provokes some independent thought.

Clarence Darrow and Bernard Shaw would have welcomed the free-thinking Mr. Pennypacker, a father with many lovable and loving children and a breadwinner with the courage of his convictions. As ably performed by C. T. Wiseman, who captures the father's warmth of personality and self-reliance, he was obviously winning the hearts of the audience, who were oblivious of their age gaps from 6 to 66, for this life with a father remarkably full of life.

The generations of the huge Pennypacker family, from Grandpa, whose eccentric individualism John Nichols establishes with assurance, down to the winsome youngest son, John Caldwell invite the audience to muse, while the play's single complication is being resolved, whether they have been saved by or conned by some conventions.

Susan Place is charming and attractive as Laurie, playing opposite Tyler Learned, who was very cooly pinch-hitting as a last-minute replacement for the not-to-be-denied suitor. Adele Place is a convincingly strained but resourceful mother, and Gail Jones both prim and warmhearted as Aunt Jane. Janet Cullen, the lithe and graceful dancer-to-be, and the stalwart oldest son played by Steve Breithaupt are particularly notable among the many children, with Rick Sampson, Warren C. Collins, Sheila Sheridan, and Shelly Sheridan, and Dale Stevens Jr. thoroughly engaging and natural in smaller roles. Dwight Larick hits the right chord of moral outrage as Dr. Fifield and Ron McCorkingdale enlivens two bit parts with some distinctive character touches.

Mark Shipley, the director, keeps the mood light and the pace fast. He and his staff deserve credit, too, for tasteful and accurate period design in the single set and a particularly ingenious use of the Gallery facilities to suggest the illusion of an ample Victorian home.

Black films, actors now maturing

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Black pictures have matured. Witness some of the fine recent and coming films, such as "Five on the Black Hand Side" and "Claudine." And, simultaneously, black actors are maturing, too.

"I'll do no more black exploitational films," says Yaphet Kotto. "They're OK if you're hungry or just starting out but I'm doing OK and I'm not a kid. I'm an actor."

He said it with pride. He's an actor and recognized as such now. There was a time when he would do anything — almost anything — to get a start, to make a few bucks, to feed his family. But now he's an actor, proud of his talent and his craft — and he's being choosy.

His biggest recent credit was the James Bond film, "Live and Let Die." He did "Truck Turner," with Isaac Hayes. Coming up is "The Treasure," with Cornel Wilde. Then he goes into the big one, "Report on the Commissioner."

He says he'll do one more film after that and then stop.

"I want a rest," he says. "I've been going like blazes for seven, no, nine years. I deserve a rest. I've made enough bread in the last two, three years to cool it for six months."

He says he'll just forget the whole Hollywood scene for a while. He'll do other things, play some basketball, do some running, go to New York.

"People in this town will talk movies 24 hours a day if you let them," he says. "Even weekends are consumed by this business. I've got to get out."

He says he never realized the importance of movies outside California. Here, where movies are the backyard industry, nobody gives actors much of a tumble.

"But I went to New York," he says, "and everybody was stopping me for my autograph. I went to a restaurant to get something to eat and they wouldn't give me a check. I said to myself, 'How long has this been going on?'

"But I adjusted to it quickly. I came back to Los Angeles and the people don't act the same way. Go into a restaurant here, baby, and you pay that check.

"That 'being famous' thing is a whole trip in itself."

I first met Yaphet Kotto in Mexico City when he was doing a bit in a Dean Martin picture, "Five Card Stud." He says that was a long time ago.

"I've been through a lot of emotional and mental changes since "Five Card Stud,'" he says. "I know where I am now, in 1974. At the time we first met, I couldn't see through the claptrap and the phoniness, the facade of the business. The material things and the associations used to be important to me.

"But, you see, there are those who make you think all that is important. I've grown up. I've wised up. I used to drink — not much — but I gave it all up. That's the opening card in many cases. It comes with growing and I've grown."

He never believed that what has happened to him — becoming a movie star — would happen. He thought he'd have to settle for a TV career. He didn't. He even turned down a series offer — $17,000 a week — to stick to his guns. He won. He's a movie star now.

TV networks promoting new shows

By FRANK S. SWERTOLOW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — It is midnight Monday and a group of weary journalists have begun to slip out of a penthouse suite and down the glittering corridors of the mammoth Century Plaza Hotel.

The newsmen are the remaining members of the American Broadcasting Company's fall television presentation. They have just had their last drink and hand shakes with ABC's executives.

In a few moments, many will prepare for sleep. Others will stop for a nightcap and a few will write the next day's television column.

For the past four days, these men and women have been exposed to ABC's fall television lineup. They have screened pilot films for next season's new shows. They have met the stars. And they have heard speeches from the network's decision makers.

This is the selling of a televisio season, an elaborate public relations effort that has gathered together 75 newsmen on the belief their comments will influence the public and the ratings.

Within a few hours, ABC's executives will have departed for New York and Los Angeles. CBS will then begin its presentation and NBC will follow on Friday.

All of this is serious business for the networks. It means millions of dollars in advertising fees —the top network demands more than the others.

There, of course, have been lighter moments to this presentation. The newsmen have been dined and wined liberally. They have played tennis and they have had their farewell party with ABC until January when they return for the second season's presentation.

What is ironic about these annual fall presentations is that many of the new stars may be dropped by the networks if their shows fail in the ratings.

DOWN ON THE FARM — Kenny Rogers and the First Edition will perform in the John Wayne Theater of Knott's Berry Farm at 6:30, 8:30 and 10:30 p.m. Sunday, and at 8 and 10:30 p.m. Monday through June 29. Knott's Wild Animal Follies is staged in the theater at 1 and 3 p.m. daily. The Buena Park amusement center opens at 9 a.m. daily.

Energy supercharge

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI) — Several luxury hotels on the island have begun imposing a $1 a day surcharges on guests to pay for increased electricity costs.

Electricity rates have almost doubled in Puerto Rico since the beginning of the energy crisis.

Jennifer to appear in open-air concert

FULLERTON — Popular songstress Jennifer, who had the lead in the Los Angeles production of "Hair," will perform in a free concert on the green near the fine arts building of Cal State Fullerton at 7 p.m. next Tuesday.

The four remaining programs on the summer concert series will feature Jimmy Witherspoon, the Street Corner Symphony, John Hartford and John Klemmer.

The public is invited to bring blankets and refreshments.

Spend a wild day in the west. At Knott's.

Wild and wooly and full of fun. That's Knott's Berry Farm in Buena Park. The rip-roarin' wild west brought back to life for the whole family to enjoy.

You walk the streets of ghost town. Gunshots! The sheriff shoots it out with two badmen. Duck into the Calico Saloon and belly-up to an 1880's bar.

Back into the streets. A pretty girl plays a steam calliope. A barker hustles you into the Birdcage Theater for an old time melodrama. Later, you watch glassblowers. Gunsmiths. Blacksmiths. Visit the livery stable. Candy store. General store...with its pot-bellied stove and old time merchandise.

The wildest rides in the west.

Clamber aboard an old stagecoach. "Reach for the sky." It's a hold-up! Over to Timber Mountain. Ride a log through sawmills and logging camps. Woosh...you're plummeting down a mountainside. Next minute you're aboard a small train, clattering and creaking your way into the depths of a gold mine. Look out! Dynamite blasting...and you just missed being trapped!

You take the kids for a burro ride...clip-clopping through yesteryear.

Entertainment Knott's style.

Over to the John Wayne Theater for Knott's Wild Animal Follies. Watch a man wrestle a 500 lb. bear. And a pretty girl cuddle a lion.

Fiesta Village is next. Mariachis playing. Dancers whirling around the plaza. Teeming shops and cantinas. Then to Gypsy Camp to see Zoltan's Gypsy Puppets. Or back to the Knott's John Wayne Theater to catch the Lennon Sisters, Flash Cadillac, Rick Nelson or another headline act.

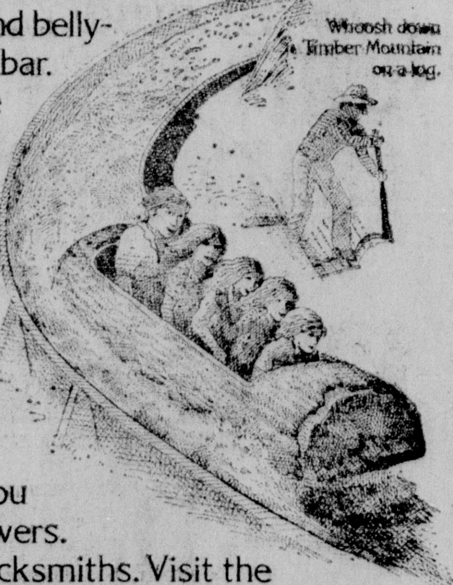
Dusk. Amble over to the covered wagon camp. Country music around the campfire. Minutes later, Knott's Incredible Fireworks Machine blazes into action.

Dinner time.

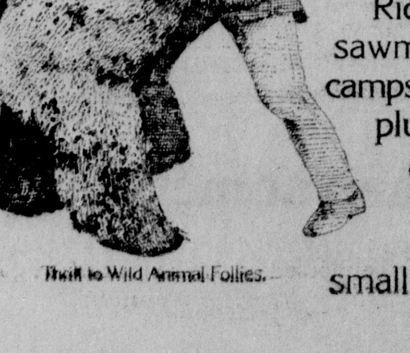
A big, old-fashioned chicken dinner at Mrs. Knott's restaurant. Or a sizzling steak. Or maybe just hot pretzels and boysenberry juice from a street vendor.

A full day...and just enough time to pick some unusual gifts at one of Knott's stores. A sunbonnet or home-made pickles. A turn-of-the-century toy, or an antique lamp.

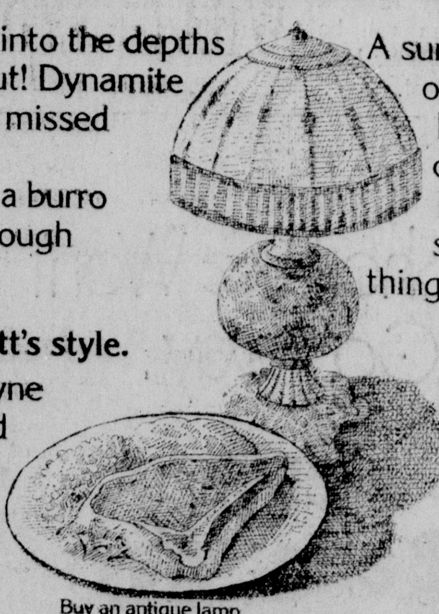
Finally, you hop a genuine San Francisco cable car for a ride to the parking lot. It's been a wild day...full of fun. You haven't seen everything. You haven't done everything. But, then, there's always another day.



Whoosh down Timber Mountain on a log.



Thrill to Wild Animal Follies.



Buy an antique lamp. Or enjoy a choice steak dinner.

Enjoy turn-of-the-century nickelodians.

Channel 5

Bushman to be telecast

LOS ANGELES — "Bushman," a film of the life of Canadian Tommy Tompkins, naturalist, explorer, conservationist and photographer, will be aired on Channel 5 at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

"Bushman" is the story of how a man lives alone in the wilderness with animals as his only friends.

A former Vancouver, B.C., policeman, Tompkins left the force after 10 years to return to his first love, the rugged lands of the Yukon and Northwest Territories of Canada.

Tompkins walks the mountains and valleys of the Canadian wilderness alone with a few supplies on his back and a rifle for protection, always carrying a 16mm movie camera. "Bushman" tells how he searches for and follows herds of mountain sheep, goats, elk, and an occasional grizzly bear. He lives with animals until they accept him. Tompkins never has to use a telescopic lens on his camera, for he is able to come within touching distance of his subjects.

Much of Tompkins' own footage will be used for the documentary. In addition, Tompkins provides his own narration.

Bushman will be followed at 9 p.m. by another wildlife program, "Death of a Legend," which tells of the near-extinction of the Canadian wolf due to man's fears and superstitions. "Death of a Legend" makes the case that the wolf has a necessary part to play in the balance of nature and should be protected.

Prehistoric species

Treasury bills versus notes

By ROGER SPEAR

Q — What are the differences between U.S. Treasury Bills and Notes? How may they be purchased? Is the interest subject to federal and state taxes? What about safekeeping of these securities? — J. K.

A — The major points of difference between bills and notes concern the length of the respective lives, minimum denominations, form in which they are issued, the frequency with which they are offered and the method of distributing interest. T-Bills are issued only in bearer form for terms of three, six or 12 months. Notes may be bought either in registered or bearer form with maturities of one to seven years. While notes are sold in minimum denominations of $1,000, T-Bills have a $10,000 minimum. The Traasury sells at weekly auctions, three and six-month bills, and at monthly auctions, 12-month bills.

Notes are generally offered in the Treasury's quartrely refunding operation. Interest on the latter security is paid semiannually, but is refunded upon purchase of a Treasury Bill. In other words, shortly after buying a $10,000, 12-month T-Bill you would receive a check for $850 on an issue discounted 8½ per cent.

Both types of securities may be purchased new through a Federal Reserve Bank without commission. Pre-existing issues are bought through a brokerage firm or commercial bank for a fee. Information on the method to follow in submitting a tender offer on bills and notes is available from a Federal Reserve Bank. In your area, you would write to The Federal Reserve Bank of New York, 33 Liberty Street, NY, NY 10045.

Interest on government issues is subject to federal, but not state income tax. They are also subject to both federal and state gift, inheritance, estate, capital gains and excise taxes. T-Bills and bearer-form notes should be safeguarded carefully, as they may be redeemed without your signature. Although registered securities may be negotiated only with the owner's written assignment after his signature has been certified by an officer of a commercial bank or trust company, it is wise to keep all securities in a safe deposit box.

Women coaches to get equal pay

By JON MORRIS
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — Women's lib has come to the Walnut School District.

Girls' athletic coaches will receive wages equal to male coaches for equal work next year, thanks to school board action Monday night.

After a recommendation from Schools Supt. David Brown, trustee moved to add girls' athletic positions at Walnut High School to the same salary schedule as the men, effective July 1.

Cost to the district for the changes is $2,298.

Eight positions are involved, including coaches for girls' varsity tennis, basketball, badminton, volleyball and softball, and junior varsity basketball, volleyball and softball.

Salries for the women will range from $322 for the junior varsity coaches to $419 and $516 for varsity coaches per year.

The total pay last year for all eight coaching jobs was $1,100, compared to the projected 1974-75 pay of $3,352.

Brown said the proposed changes have been under discussion among administrators and members of the girls' physical education staff at the high school for some time.

Although the item has been a hot one in at least one neighboring school district, Brown indicated it was quietly resolved here.

"As you know, girls' athletics are now under CIF rules, and part of the regular high school program," he told the board. He added that one of many changes now necessary involves salaries.

"Girl coaches are entitled to the same pay as men if they work the same hours after school and relate equally in other areas," Brown affirmed. "The changes we've proposed will bring equity."

Legal action has been taken by a woman coach at Wilson High School against the Hacienda-La Puente School District. She is seeking equal pay for coaching jobs comparable to men's positions.

In other action Monday night, trustees:

—Granted a 6 per cent salary increase, costing $21,000, to all district administrators, including the superintendent, two assistant superintendents, personnel director, principals and assistant principals. Salary range on the new administrative-management schedule now will be from $18,125 for a beginnger to $32,650 for an administrator with five years' district experience.

—Rejected a resolution proposed by the superintendent to urge the U.S. Congress to go off daylight savings time next winter. A motion to approve it died for lack of a second. Complaints from schools were common last winter about daylight savings because students had to travel to school during dark morning hours.

Wall Street Briefs

NEW YORK (UPI) — "We have reached a point where equities are suffering more from being ignored than from being liquidated," says W.E. Hutton & Co. Although bad news has lost its impact on the market, investors are overloojing the positives such as prospects for higher dividends and an easing of basic commodity prices, the firm continues. "This is the time to put trading money to work rather than to withdraw it," the firm adds. "Present market troubles stem more from lack of demand than urgent liquidation."

---

"There is no problem finding stocks at new lows," says Fraser Management Associates. "The problem is in finding money to go into stocks." The Burlington, Vt., firm says the market is filled with values, but the challenge lies in determining what specific stocks should be bought. "Disaster news no longer affects general market levels while bearishness is too popular," it notes. The firm urges investors to buy carefully now.

---

The Dow Jones Industrial Average will test or slip below its December low of 788, predicts Wood's Index, a Philadelphia firm. "The low volume of the past several days suggests that the decline will be slow rather than sharp," according to the firm. Psychology is the major factor depressing the market,it adds, and until investor attitudes brighten, the market trend will remain the same despite the number of undervalued stocks.

ALPHA BETA MARKETS LEAD IN CHEESE SALES

For the past three years Alpha Beta Company has been the leading account in the United States for the number of pounds of cheese bought from Wisconsin in relationship to its number of retail units.

"For the fiscal 1973—'74 we sold in our Southern and Northern California divisions combined almost $9 million of bulk Alpha Beta cheeses," commented Larry Geller, Alph Beta's Delicatessen-Creamery Merchandiser. "This figure came from the sale of our seven, random weight cheeses: Longhorn, Sharp, Mild, Extra Sharp, Monterey Jack, Swiss, Tillamook, almost 100,000 pounds of cheese moved each week."

Of the seven cheeses, Longhorn, Monterey Jack and Mild account for 65 percent of total cheese sales. "The strength of our cheese program," added Geller, "comes from the fact that we buy continually from the same suppliers, and we buy only cheeses produced in Wisconsin; notably the finest cheese produced in the U.S.

"We also dramatically increase cheese sales through our yearly cheese contest which is held during October. Last year we were the first food chain in the United States to ever sell in excess of one million pounds of cheese in a four-week period. This October, with our Northern California stores participating for the first time, we're going to shoot for two mllion pounds of cheese sold."

Frazier looks forward to Foreman

NEW YORK (UPI) — But what chance will Joe Frazier have against George Foreman?

The exultant Frazier destroyed what was supposed to be a new Jerry Quarry Monday night when referee Joe Louis finally called a halt at 1:37 of the fifth round, and Joe, saying "I'm back to bein' Smokin' Joe again," is looking forward to a return shot at the heavyweight championship of the world.

Foreman is giving Muhammad Ali that shot first, in September in Africa, and the champion who humiliated Frazier in taking his title, is already a solid choice over Ali.

Yet Ali whipped Frazier in January, and the Frazier who left Quarry's face a patchwork quilt of 18 stitches cannot hope to find Foreman the deadgame, always willing "old" Quarry who faced him before 14,611 screeching fans in Madison Square Garden.

From the opening bell, Frazier followed the path he has always taken—straight at his man, firing the lefts, and now, with a sitting target in front of him, following with ripping rights—one of the last of which tore open the flesh above Jerry's left eye so badly that it took 15 stitches to close.

Louis, 60-years-old and looking it, allowed Quarry and Frazier to fight as they pleased. In the opening round, for example, Quarry belted Joe in the groin accidentally, and Frazier stepped back, holding the cup. Louis didn't move or warn, but Quarry held off, despite the screams of his handler, Gil Clancy to "go after him, go after him!"

There was no damage done, however, and in the second Frazier's slashing fists opened a slight cut over the right eye, which bloomed into a three-stitch gash by the time the carnage was over.

"Haven't you learned a damn thing?" Clancy roared at Quarry at the end of the third, after Frazier had continued to swarm all over Jerry, who had fallen once again into the old style of trying to punch it out against a man 14 pounds heavier and the same man who had so soundly whipped him in seven rounds for doing exactly that five years ago.

Quarry hadn't learned, and at the two-minute mark of the fourth, Frazier landed a wicked smash to the head that set him reeling. Eager for the kill, Frazier chased him wildly, caught him in the corner and smashed a tremendous left to the midsection at the bell, sending Quarry down. With help, Jerry was up at five, but scarcely in condition to continue.

But he tried, and as the fifth began, Frazier set out to finish the job. He did it so thoroughly that he called to Louis "this man is cut bad. What are you going to do?"

By this time, Clancy himself had clambered to the apron, yelling at Louis to stop it. And Louis got the message at last.

"I didn't want to hit him in the face again," Frazier said. "I don't like to hit a man when I see he's in big trouble."

In the emotion-charged Quarry dressing room, the 29-year-old, badly-beaten Jerry and his wife Charlie cried in each other's arms. "I'm not sure I can make it back," Quarry said. "I'll have to go home and talk about it."

Frazier, unmarked, came in and with quiet dignity offered his hand and Quarry, for the first time since he had sagged on the bench, rose and shook it.

"I'm back on the road to the title," Frazier smiled as he climbed into the limousine to go to his victory party.

Foster says Ahumada best he has beaten

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI) — Bob Foster says Argentinian Jorge Ahumada is the best light-heavyweight fighter he's faced in 15 years. Ahumada is also the only boxer in that division that Foster hasn't been able to beat.

That combination almost cost Foster his world's light-heavyweight crown before a hometown crowd Monday night as the two battled to a draw in a title match.

"He is the toughest light-heavyweight I've fought in 15 years," Foster said. But Foster also said Ahumada didn't hurt him because "he can't punch. He's just not a puncher."

Foster, who was making his 14th title defense since winning the title six years ago, felt he had the edge necessary for victory. Ahumada, the 28-year-old challenger from Mendoza, Argentina, understandably felt the decision should have been his.

"I knew it was a close fight, but I thought I had it won," said the champion. "I felt the 12th round was good enough to turn it around for me."

Foster, who normally sports a ferocious left jab, was sluggish in the early going and appeared to be in trouble in the middle rounds, before unleashing a fiery attack in the 12th round.

Ahumada, however, recovered in the 13th and 14th rounds, scoring well despite taking more blows to the head. His face remained a bloody mess, dripping blood on his white trunks.

"I'm not sad," said Ahumada, whose entourage screamed "foul" and said the challenger was "robbed."

"I think a tie here is like a win," he said in Spanish. "I think I won it, but that's the way it goes.

"My plan was to get inside and I thought I did a good job of it. Foster never hurt me at all. Maybe it was a close fight, but I thought I at least won it by a narrow margin."

Foster, who recorded his first draw in a pro career that shows 51 wins and six losses, said he would take a week off before beginning preparations for his next title defense "which will probably be in London in September against John Conteh.

"I'll give him (Ahumada) another shot," Foster said. "But first I've got to give Conteh a shot and then I'll give Ahumada another chance.

"I've got to fight them all— Galindez (Ahumada's countryman Victor Galindez), Hutchins (No. 1 rated Len Hutchins) and all the rest," said the 35-year-old Foster.

Ahumada, who sang along during the playing of the Argentinian National Anthem before the fight and paraded around the ring with his country's flag while awaiting the decision, visited Foster's dressing room after showering and dressing.

"You're a very nice man and a classy boxer," Ahumada told Foster. "Let me shake your hand and I wish you best of luck."

Foster was surprised. As Ahumada left, Foster said, "I thought he was going to come in here and yell at me."

Valley's top cage stars play tonight

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — Will height or will quickness prevail tonight?

That's the big question for the First Annual Pomona Valley High School All-Star Basketball Game, which will begin at 8 p.m. tonight at Claremont High.

Tickets, priced at $2 for adults and $1.50 for students, will be available at the door. The game is sponsored by the La Verne Rotary Club with proceeds going to charity.

If it uses its height effectively, the South should become the first winner of the annual cage classic.

But if the quick guards of the North keep the South defenders confused, it could be a different story.

The South is favored, however.

Pacing the Rebels, coached by Chino's former coach Frank Elder and Montclair coach Lanny Moore, will be the valley's basketball Player of the Year—Cleve Porter of Ganesha.

Porter, who stands at only 6-foot-6, has outstanding leaping and shooting ability. But he's not the only player on the South to keep a close eye on.

There's Walnut High's Kirk Christ, the Hacienda League's Most Valuable Player. Christ, standing at 6-foot-6, has an uncanny ability of being at the right place at the right time. That characteristic gave him the valley's top scoring honor in the prep ranks for the past two seasons.

Then there's Montclair High's Mark Gosswiller, a very mobile tall man who also stands at 6-foot-6. And there's also Tim Smith, the tallest man on the squad at 6-foot-8, who should be a tough competitor under the boards.

Those are the big men for the South.

But only two of them will be starting tonight.

Last week Elder indicated that he probably wouldn't start his best five players, but would divide his team into two equal squads for the first half. Then he might to a little shuffling for the second half.

The tentative starting roster than Elder announced Monday included Christ, Porter, Rick Antoni of Chaffey (6-foot-1), Ashley "Poncho" Thomas of Garey (5-foot-7) and Bill Flores of Ontario (5-foot-6) or Marcello Maurin of Walnut (5-foot-11).

One thing Elder hoped to accomplish in practice, but never really got around to it was work against the full court press.

"We were hoping to work against the press," stated the South skipper, "but we haven't gotten to it as much as we would like to. We've had a problem of trying to get everyone to practice at the same time. With some of them working and with graduation exercises, some of them couldn't make it to some of the practices."

Not working against the press may prove hazardous for the South, since the North is really depending on putting a lot of pressure on its foe.

At least it intended to in Smith's original game plan, but that may change too.

"I doubt if we use much of the press," Smith indicated Monday. "We just didn't have enough time to put it together."

That may be good news for the South.

"Our first week of practice was very good," added the North skipper. "We had most of our guys there for that week. We want to work our offense to where we won't have mass confusion. We had that good first week, but last week was touch and go.

"I don't think we're in shape either," he added. "I'm afraid that some of the guys might run out of gas running up and down the court."

With statements like that the odds are getting better for a South victory, but don't put your life savings on it.

This is an All-Star game and almost anything can happen.

Smith also announced his probable starting unit for tonight. It includes forwards Bruce Abraham of Claremont (6-foot-4) and Greg McCrary of San Dimas (6-foot-3), center Stu DuVall of Upland (6-foot-5) and guards Todd Ervin of Claremont (5-foot-8) and Curt Oldenkamp of Upland (6-foot-1) or Rory Pernot of Royal Oak (6-foot-2).

There have been a few changes in the basketball rules for tonight's game.

First of all, there will be four 12-minute quarters instead of the regular 8-minute periods. The extra time was added so that each player will get an opportunity to play for a substantial amount of time.

Another is a free-throw contest among the cheerleaders representing the North and the South. It will be presented at halftime, but no favorite has been picked in that one.

Each player must play at least five minutes in the first half. There will be no zone defenses, though a zone full-court press will be permitted.

Trophies of recognition will be presented to players and coaches after the game.

It figures to be a fast-pace and high scoring contest, but the defenses may take a little beating.

Dodger errors costly to Sutton

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

PITTSBURGH — Wives of Pirate and Steeler players participated in a softball game Monday night prior to the Dodger-Pirates baseball game at Three Rivers Stadium.

There were times when it appeared the same teams were playing in the main event.

Only one Pittsburgh run was earned as the Dodgers returned to the daffiness era of their Brooklyn years. The Bucs scored five unearned runs off Don Sutton and added another off Charlie Hough to wind up with a 7-3 win over the visiting Dodgers.

The Pirates now have won four in a row and seven straight at home. Winning pitcher Ken Brett (8-4) registered his seventh complete game. Nelson Briles led the Bucs with seven complete games in the entire 1973 season.

The Dodgers, on the other hand, saw their lead over Cincinnati drop to six games. Sutton, who deserved a better fate, saw his season record drop to an even 6-6.

Manager Walter Alston saw his team drop its fifth game in seven outings. But the Dodger skipper saw one bright spot in an otherwise unhappy evening.

"The only good thing I saw is that I think Sutton is on his way out of his slump," Alston said. "I thought his stuff was back to normal, his control better and he made some good pitches."

Sutton was tapped for six hits in the five hits he pitched. But three of the hits came after the side should have been retired in the Pittsburgh fourth.

One of the six, a two-run double by Richie Hebner, was definitely of the tainted variety.

"We might not have won tonight regardless of who was pitching," Alston continued. "We played horse-bleeped baseball. But I guess these are the things that happen when you're in a slump."

The Dodgers presented Sutton with a 1-0 lead top half of the second inning, then gave it away in the bottom of the second.

With one out in the Dodger second, Ron Cey walked. Joe Ferguson lined a 1-1 pitch that rolled to the wall in left field to the right of the 385-foot sign. With Cey on third and Fergie on second, Tom Paciorek was walked intentionally.

Steve Yeager fould up the Pittsburgh strategy with a fly to Richie Zisk in right field. Cey scored after the catch although a better throw might have gotten him.

With Dodger help, the Pirates tied the score in the last of the second. Zisk lined a routine single to right. But Ferguson let the ball get through him and Zisk was able to go all the way and score on the error.

Rain almost gave the Angelenos a reprieve. Play was halted for 16 minutes after the third inning. But unfortunately the rain stopped and the game continued.

So did the Dodgers. They picked up right where they left off in the second. Sutton deserved better then the inning his teammates inflicted on him in the Pirate fourth.

With one out, Bill Russell failed to field Sanguillen's grounder for his 20th error of the season. Rennie Stennett was an easy second to first out and the inning should have been over.

Instead Sanguillen was on second with two out. Rookie Mario Mendoza and Brett followed with singles and Gene Clines doubled and two runs were in.

It looked like the inning was surely over when Hebner lifted a high fly to short center. But Jimmy Wynn kept coming in the ball finally dropped behind him and between Ferguson and Rick Auerbach who also had helped surround the ball.

Wynn was first charged with what would have the third Dodger error as Brett and Clines scored the Bucs fourth and fifth unearned runs of the game.

But after contacting the Dodger bench, the official scorer changed his ruling to a double and two runs batted in for Hebner. Wynn reported that he had lost the ball in the lights.

Not to be outdone, the Pirates turned generous themselves in the bottom of the sixth and helped the Dodgers score their last two runs.

Garvey started it off with his second single. Cey walked. Ferguson hit a grounder to short and Cey was forced to second. But Stennett's throw to first was wild. Garvey scored on the error and Ferguson reached second.

Paciorek grounded sharply to Hebner who booted the ball. Yeager slashed a single to left driving in Ferguson. But that was all. Ken McMullen batted for Sutton and struck out. Auerbach watched a called third strike sail by.

Hough came in to pitch for the Dodgers in the last of the sixth. A hit, two walks, a stolen base, wild pitch, sacrifice fly and passed ball produced two more Pittsburgh runs, one earned.

DODGER DATA—Tommy John (10-1) and Larry Demery (0-2) will be the pitchers in tonight's game. . .

The Dodgers have now made 64 errors in 65 games . .

Mendoza, the Pirate rookie, has made only one error this year. However he has played in only 26 games as compared to 65 for Russell. Russell has played in every Dodger game . . .

Russell and Cey lead the All-Star balloting for shortstop and third base. Wynn is the third highest vote-getter among the National League outfielders . . .

The Dodgers had their third different lead-off man in as many games. Auerbach was at second when Dave Lopes' back acted up. Bill Buckner leadoff Sunday with Lopez batting eighth. Lopes had been the leadoff man in the first two games of this road trip. . . .

The Dodger trio of Garvey (55), Wynn (53) and Cey (46) had a total of 154 runs batted in going into Monday's game. The top five Pirate RBI men, Willie Stargell (39), Zisk (29), Hebner (27), Sanguillen (21) and Stennett (21) totalled only 137.

Tony Mundine to box Monzon

NEW YORK, June 17 (UPI) — Tony Mundine of Australia has accepted terms Monday for a world middleweight boxing title fight with champion Carlos Monzon of Argentina at Buenos Aires on Sept.7.

International boxing agent Dewey Fragetta said Mundine also has agreed to a tune-up fight in Brisbane July 5 against an unnamed American opponent.

The title fight will be promoted by Tito Lectoure of Buenos Aires at Luna Park.

Mayberry wins weekly honor

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Mayberry of the Kansas City Royals was named winner of the weekly American League Star Parade award Monday following a four-game surge in which he hit three home runs and two doubles.

Mayberry had a total of seven hits in 13 at-bats between last Wednesday and Saturday, driving in six runs and scoring six. His batting average for that stretch was .538.

Other Star Parade candidates included third baseman Sal Bando of Oakland (.360 batting average), outfielder Elliott Maddox of New York (.400), outfielder Joe Rudi of Oakland (.375), outfielder Lee Stanton of Cleveland (.357) and outfielder Charlie Spikes of Cleveland (.318).

Angels' bullpen falls apart again

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Rudy May, sold by the California Angels during the weekend, reported to his new team Monday and got the traditional welcome from Sparky Lyle—a rubber snake in his New York Yankees' locker.

The Angels didn't break any precedents either Monday night. They lost after they left five men stranded and their bullpen fell apart.

New York, brushing aside a 1-0 deficit, scored five runs in the seventh and eighth innings to beat the Angels, 5-1, and hand California its 11th loss in the last 14 games.

The struggling Angels only had seven hits against Yankees starter Dave Pagan and two other pitchers. But they had to blow two easy scoring chances early in the game to score only one run.

With none out in the first inning, California stranded men on first and third. In the second inning, after scoring their lone run, the Angels had men at second and third with two outs.

"In situations like that you've got to come out with more than one run," said California Manager Bobby Winkles.

Frank Tanana, Angels' starter and loser, had his own personal trend going as he again struggled with the long ball, giving up his 16th home run in 16 games.

Lou Piniella ripped a two-run homer off the 20-year-old rookie in the seventh inning to put the Yankees ahead and prompt the Angels to bring in Barry Raziano, who lost Sunday night's game.

New York scored three runs off Raziano.

"Piniella is a guesser," Tanana said. "He just happened to guess curve ball and hit it out.

"But I'm not going to give up on myself and I hope no one else does, either. I figure I'm still giving seven or eight strong innings."

New York second baseman Gene Michael, who opened the Yankees' winning rally with a single, tried to offer some encouragement to Tanana.

"Tanana is a good pitcher," said Michael, who had three hits in the game. "He changes his speeds well. I was lucky to get two hits off him."

Michael singled twice against Tanana and added another single off Raziano, driving in a run in the eight.

Nolan Ryan (7-6) will pitch for the Angels tonight against Dick Tidrow (5-5). Lefthander Andy Hassler, who was 5-7 with Salt Lake City, may start Wednesday night after being called up Monday to replace May.

Cey, Russell enjoy leads for All-Stars

NEW YORK (UPI) — Only record-breaking Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves was able to break the domination of Cincinnati and Los Angeles players Monday when the latest tabulations for the National League All-Star team were announced.

Aaron, the biggest name in baseball after breaking Babe Ruth's home run record in the first week of the season, was the top vote-getter with 484,972 in the balloting conducted by fans across the nation.

Aaron enjoyed a wide margin over his competition for outfield berths as Pete Rose of Cincinnati was second with 288,854 votes and Jimmy Wynn of Los Angeles was third with 224,490.

The five other positions being decided by fan ballot all were led by a Cincinnati or Los Angeles player. Catcher Johnny Bench, first baseman Tony Perez and second baseman Joe Morgan were the leaders at their respective positions and the Dodgers were represented by third baseman Ron Cey and shortstop Bill Russell.

The balloting will continue through Sunday, July 7, and the All-Star game is scheduled to be played in Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium Tuesday night, July 23.

A breakdown of the leading contenders for each position shows:

Stanford, Michigan take early net lead

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Top-seeded Brian Teacher of UCLA gets his first chance on the courts today after sitting out the opening round of the NCAA tennis championships with a bye as defending champion Stanford and Michigan took the lead in the team competition.

Stanford and Michigan collected five points each in Monday's first round of the 90th annual tournament, which began with 84 singles matches and 36 doubles matches.

Thirty two singles players drew byes for the initial round, however, including Teacher and No. 2 seed Victor Amaya of Michigan.

All of Stanford's players won their matches Monday, including No. 5 seeded John Whitlinger, who beat Gordon Smith of Georgia, and sixth-ranked Jim Delaney, who downed Duke's Neils Rathler. Both scores were 6-1, 6-2.

Stanford's other two unseeded players also swept their matches in straight sets.

Michigan got its five points with three singles victories, all by unseeded players, and two doubles wins.

Of the top 16 seeds who played Monday, only one was ousted — 14th-seeded Trey Waltke of California, who was upset by Princeton's Dean Colson, 2-6, 6-2, 6-3.

UCLA was in third with four points in the team competition, tied with Washington, Arizona, North Carolina, Florida and Texas A&M.

The University of Southern California and Southern Methodist University had three points each and Georgia had one.

Mile still track's top glamour event

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Three New Zealand middle distance runners and world record holder Jim Ryun said Monday the mile is still the glamour event of track and field, despite the shift to metric distances.

John Walker, here to run in the National AAU championship Friday and Saturday, told a news conference, "Although we are going to the 1,500-meters in New Zealand, I still think the mile will remain the glamour event.

"I think 3:50 will be broken this year, but you will need a Filbert Bayi as the pacesetter."

Rod Dixon, the bronze medalist in the world record-breaking 1,500-meters behind Bayi and Walker at the Commonwealth Games, agreed.

Dick Quax, who has run practically every distance from 800 to 5,000 meters, echoed his fellow countrymen's stand.

"The mile is more significant in the English-speaking world than the 1,500," he said.

Ryun, who holds the mile record at 3:51.1, said, "The people in this country don't relate to the 1,500-meters."

He predicted his world record would be broken this summer, probably in Europe. He said the leading contenders were Walker, Dixon and Bayi. "I will be first to be surprised if my record isn't broken this year," said Ryun.

"The 1,500 meter race in the British Empire Games that Bayi won in 3:32.2 was faster than the pace for a sub-3:50 mile."

Walker, whose second place time of 3:32.5 also was under Ryun's old global standard of 3:33.1, will run the 800-meters here against world record-holder Rick Wohlhuter, 1:44.6.

Dixon will test all of America's best milers, except Tony Waldron at 1,500-meters. Waldrop withdrew because of an injury suffered in training.

Quax will move up to the 1,500 meters.

Tom Jennings, coach of the Pacific Coast Club, said his team will score 70 points and win six Gold Medals in the AAU championships, picking as winners — Al Feuerbach or George Woods in the shotput, Bill Schmidt for the javelin, John Powell, discus; Dwight Stones, high jump; Jim Bolding, intermediate hurles, and Casey Carrigan, pole vault.

G. Perry, Cuellar keep winning

By United Press International

Barring injuries, pitchers Gaylord Perry and Mike Cuellar seem certain to be teammates on the American League team in next month's All-Star game in Pittsburgh.

Two days later, they could be locked up in one of the greatest pitching duels in 62 years.

The two veterans continued their winning streaks Monday night, Perry pitching Cleveland past Chicago 4-3 for his 12th win in a row and Cuellar hurling Baltimore over Minnesota 1-0 for his ninth consecutive triumph.

The AL record for consecutive wins in one season is 16, shared by four pitchers, including Washington's Walter Johnson and Boston's "Smoky" Joe Wood. Johnson and Wood hooked up in a memorable battle on Sept. 6, 1912, with the Red Sox edging the Senators, 10, snapping Johnson's record streak and giving Wood his 14th win in a row.

Cleveland and Baltimore don't meet again until July 25 and while it is still more than a month off, the way Perry and Cuellar are going it is not inconceivable they both could have their streaks still intact.

"As far as winning 16 in a row, I'm not even thinking about that right now," said Perry after stopping the White Sox on five hits, including Jorge Orta's two-run homer, for his eighth-straight complete game and his 12th complete game effort in 15 starts this season.

Perry, who has not lost since opening day, retired 16 batters in a row before Pat Kelly singled with two out in the eighth and Orta followed with his homer to give Chicago a 3-2 lead. The Indians came back with an unearned run in the bottom of the eighth and won it in the ninth when Jack Brohamer singled home Frank Duffy.

Cuellar, like Perry, also tossed a five hitter in beating the Twins to run his record to 9-3 as Bobby Grich supplied the only run of the game with his eighth homer in the sixth inning.

"You've got to be lucky in a streak like this, but part of baseball is luck," said Cuellar. "I know I have a good club behind me defensively, but there is still a lot of luck involved when you have a streak going."

"Cuellar is like an angel from heaven because he keeps you from those long losing streaks," said Oriole pitching coach George Bamberger. "I know Cuellar better than anybody, but even I never know what he's going to throw. So if I don't know, how in hell are the hitters going to know?"

In other AL games, Detroit defeated Texas 6-4 in 10 innings, New York beat California 5-1 and Oakland edged Boston 3-2. Milwaukee and Kansas City were not scheduled.

Tigers 6, Rangers 4

Al Kaline's two-run homer in the 10th gave Detroit its victory over Texas. The Tigers held a 4-0 lead as starter Woodie Fryman carried a five-hit shutout into the bottom of the ninth, but a three-run home run by Jim Fregosi led to his departure. Reliever John Hiller was then tagged for a solo homer by Lenny Randle. Bill Freehan homered for Detroit off Ferguson Jenkins, who went the distance only to lose his eighth game in 15 decisions and fail to win for the sixth time in a row.

A's 3, Red Sox 2

Catcher Carlton Fisk, who tied the score with a homer in the top of the ninth, made a wild pick-off throw in the bottom of the inning that allowed Gene Tenace to score from third base with the winning run in Oakland's victory over Boston. The victory gave the A's a two-game lead in the West and shaved Boston's lead in the East to 2½ games. Rollie Fingers, who pitched out of a ninth-inning jam, gained credit for his sixth victory against two losses. Angel Mangual accounted for Oakland's first two runs with his fifth homer in the seventh inning.

Claremont nips Tri-City in late rally

CLAREMONT — Claremont Post 78 scored three runs in the bottom of the ninth inning on an error and back-to-back bases loaded walks to nip Tri-City 8-7 Monday night at Pomona College.

Rob Haerr lead off the ninth with a pinch single. Todd Ervin followed with a bunt single and Chris Tracey's fly ball was dropped to load the bases.

Jim Ayers drew a walk from ace reliever Larry Bell forcing across one run. Dave Aguilera drew four wide ones allowing Tracey to score and the final run checked in when Rich Tullis hit a ground ball to third, who threw wide to the plate pulling catcher John Cannon off home plate, to allow Tony Janusz to score the winning run.

The win evens the Cardinal record at 9-9-1.

Post 78 took a 2-0 first inning lead as Ervin who had three singles in five at-bats to raise his average to .411 (30-73), singled and stole second. The shortstop scored on Janusz' single with Janusz advancing to third on an error. He then scored on a passed ball.

Tri-City erupted for six runs in the fourth with the key hit being Mike Brotzman's two-run double. The other runs were aided by three errors.

The Cards closed the gap to 6-5 in the bottom of the frame when Ayers singled and eventually scored on a wild pitch. Bob Wright and Carl Cervantes, who has seen limited action this summer, singled home runs.

John Huddleston (3-4) went five innings in relief of starter Tracey to pick up the win.

Claremont hosts Pomona Post 30 Wednesday in a 7:30 p.m. game at Cauhilla Park (Claremont High) and entertains Victor Valley Thursday night at 7:30.

Phillies' Taylor is always ready

By United Press International

Tony Taylor is the kind of guy who reports to the ball park earlier when he's riding the bench than when he's playing regularly.

"I'm always ready," says the 38-year old Philadelphia Phillies utility man who is known in Detroit, where he played three seasons, as the 'Latin Al Kaline. "I never know when I'll get a chance to go up there and hit. In this game you have to be ready for any emergency."

Taylor, who had only five hits in 22 at bats and one run batted in, was called on to pinch-hit by Manager Danny Ozark Monday night and delivered a two-run eighth-inning homer which gave the Phillies a 7-5 victory over the Houston Astros.

The victory enabled the Phillies to go two games ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals in the National League East and gave them new confidence that they are in the race to stay.

"That's the way it is when everybody is doing his job," said second baseman Dave Cash. "Each night a different guy picks up the club. That's the way pennants are won."

Taylor's homer gave Wayne Twitchell his first victory since suffering a knee injury last September. The 6-foot-6 righthander is considered a key man for the Phillies since most of their rivals say pitching is the key to their ability to stay in contention.

"I'm very happy with Wayne ... his stuff is back," said Ozark. "I feel he was still overthrowing a little but he's going to start Saturday night. If he goes six innings, he'll be back in the starting rotation."

The Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers, 7-3; the San Francisco Giants beat the Cardinals, 3-0; the Atlanta Braves downed the New York Mets, 8-1; the Cincinnati Reds drubbed the Montreal Expos, 12-3; and the San Diego Padres topped the Chicago Cubs, 7-5, in 13 innings in other National League games.

Twitchell took over for Steve Carlton in the seventh inning when the Astros tied the score at 5-5 and yielded one hit in 1 2-3 innings. Bob Boone drove in two runs and Mike Anderson had three hits for the Phillies, while Lee May knocked in two runs for the Astros.

Giants 3 Cardinals 0

Jim Barr pitched an eight-hitter for his fourth vctory for the Giants, who had seven hits including two run-scoring singles by Gary Thomasson. The Cardinals left eight runners on base in the first four innings and wound up stranding 11 in the game. It was Barr's second shutout of the season.

Braves 8 Mets 1

Phil Niekro pitched a four-hitter and Darrel Evans knocked in two runs with a homer and a single for the Braves, who dealt Harry Parker his sixth loss against one win. Dave Johnson's double and Ralph Garr's triple were the big blows of Atlanta's four-run outburst in the second inning. The win raised Niekro's record to 8-4.

Reds 12 Expos 3

Pete Rose, Dan Driessen and Cesar Geronimo had three hits each and Tony Perez had two, including a three-run double, to lead the Reds' 16-hit attack in the national TV game. Fred Norman allowed 10 hits but went the distance for his sixth win, while Steve Rogers was routed in 3 1-3 innings and was tagged with his seventh loss.

Padres 7 Cubs 5

The Padres and Cubs tied the National League record of 25 walks by both teams in their 4:23 struggle before San Diego won it in the 13th. Dave Winfield singled home the tiebreaking run and a suicide squeeze executed by Enzo Hernandez drove in the other in the 13th. Larry Hardy won his sixth game for San Diego while Bobby Tolan extended his hitting streak to 15 games.

Florida favored to nab NCAA golf title

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Defending champion Florida looms as the favorite when the NCAA golf championships get underway at Carlton Oaks Country Club Wednesday but to knowledgable observers, the title is up for grabs.

Florida is ranked tops in the nation followed in order by Wake Forest, Oklahoma State, the University of Southern California and Brigham Young.

USC easily won the San Diego State Invitational over Florida, Wake Forest and Brigham Young in March, and Stanford won the Pacific-8 title by 24 strokes over USC.

"I'll take Stanford," Michigan State coach Bruce Fossum predicted. He pointed to San Diegan Aly Trompas, who finished second in the Pac-8 tourney and George Pettinger, who finished third.

The individual duels are as tough to predict as Florida's Gary Koch looms solid as defending champ. Gary Jakebson of Oregon captured the Pac-8 title, and USC's Craig Stadler won the U.S. Amateur last year. John Harris of Minnesota and Jimmy Jones of host San Diego State cannot be counted out.

It shapes up as a whale of a battle, but USC showed its mettle in March over the same course, and as coach Stan Wood puts it, "We have a tremendous chance because the tourney is in California, which gives us a psychological edge over most teams."

Stadler, Mark Pfeil and Scott Simpson of the Trojans all are from San Diego and know the course.

Thirty-two teams are entered along with 54 individuals from university division schools and the top 10 players from the college division ranks.

Laxton promoted

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The San Diego Padres acquired lefthanded pitcher Bill Laxton from their Alexandria Texas League farm club Monday.

Laxton had a 3-0 record for Alexandria, had a 2.36 earned run average and had fanned 22 in 26 innings.

He pitched briefly for the Padres in 1971 and lost his only two decisions.

He will join the club in Chicago Tuesday.

Promises Jordan economic, military aid

Nixon ends Mideast peace journey

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — President Nixon ended his exhausting five-nation "journey for peace" today with a promise of economic and military aid to Jordan and an agreement to meet again in Washington with King Hussein in efforts to reach a permanent Mideast settlement.

Nixon took off for a rest stop at the Azores after signing a joint communique with Hussein, long America's best friend in the Arab world, that said the United States would continue to "play a strong role in maintaining Jordan's military strength."

The communique said Nixon invited Hussein to visit Washington, where he has been a frequent visitor in the past, "to hold further talks on the strategy of future efforts to achieve peace."

As in his previous stops in Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Syria and Israel, Nixon stressed that his mission was designed to do whatever he could to bring a lasting peace to the troubled area. When he left the White House eight days ago, the President said he was embarking on a "journey for peace."

At a state dinner held in his honor by Hussein Monday night, Nixon said of his peace quest, "I cannot tell where it will end," but he added: "The important thing is it that it has begun. You said earlier, your majesty, that this is the last stop.

"Let me tell you it is the last stop on this trip. But it is only the beginning of the journey for peace."

Hussein responded: "Tell your people that you go with the gratitude and confidence of the Arab people, and the blessing of all mankind."

Both Nixon and his wife Pat showed the wear and tear of their trip. His last round of talks with Hussein today started an hour late apparently to allow Nixon more time to rest. He skipped a planned side trip outside Amman althouugh the first lady took in the sights.

"He's beat," said a presidential aide.

The Azores stop was to provide a break in the long trip back to Washington. Even so, Nixon arranged a meeting with new Portuguese President Antonio de Spinola. Portgual owns the Azores.

Nixon will arrive back in Washington to a big welcome Wednesday afternoon but within a week he will be back on his big jet plane on his way to Moscow for his third Summit meeting with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev.

Security in Jordan was the heaviest of Nixon's trip. Jeeps armed with machine guns escorted his armored limousine. Trucks carrying soldiers roamed the city. Whole areas were blocked off when his motorcade drove by, and at least twice his limousine took back roads to avoid the crowds.

As in his other Arab stops, Nixon was reminded by Hussein of the concern over the Palestinian problem. This is presumably a topic to be discussed further during Hussein's visit to Washington.

Hussein stressed to the President that he wanted U.S. assistance in restoring Arab sovereignty over Jerusalem, recognition of the rights of the Palestinian people and withdrawal of Israeli forces from Arab lands.

"So long as Israel continues to occupy Arab territory," Hussein said, "there will neither be peace nor security in the Middle East."

Hussein said that once the occupied territory has been evacuated by Israel, only Palestinians could decide what its future should be. About half of Jordan's 3.2 million population are Palestinians.

"They can choose continued union with Jordan, a new form of federation or the creation of a separate state," the king said. "The choice is theirs and theirs alone, and whatever their choice it will enjoy our full acceptance and support."

Today's communique said Nixon agreed with Hussein that Jordan must keep its military strong if it is to have economic growth. "He promised, in cooperation with the Congress, to play a strong role in maintaining Jordan's military strength," it said.

The communique, which stressed cooperation in economic, trade, investment, scientific, social and cultural affairs, also mentioned Hussein's and Jordan's "support for the very significant diplomatic efforts which the United States has made help bring peace to the Middle East."

The delay in the start of the talks caused the President to miss a trip planned to the ruins of the ancient Roman town of Jerash, about 25 miles north of Amman.

Mrs. Nixon did visit the ruins and did some souvenir shopping. About 30 boy and girl scouts met her in the forum, surrounded by 74 columns, with a chant of "We welcome Mrs. Nixon."

The first lady told reporters with her that she was encouraged by her husband's trip.

"He's talked to the leaders and they don't want war," she said. "It's been a very good trip."

Crowds were friendly in Jordan but there was none of the wild outpouring that marked Nixon's visit to Egypt.

CORONAN INJURED Alice Faye Goni, 33, of Corona, seriously injured in an early morning traffic accident involving three vehicles in the intersection of Mission Boulevard and Archibald Avenue in Ontario, is carefully lifted onto a stretcher by firemen and ambulance attendants on the scene. An Upland man also was injured.

Two injured in 3-vehicle collision in Ontario

ONTARIO — Two persons were injured, one seriously, early this morning when three cars collided in the intersection of Mission Boulevard and Archibald Avenue.

Alice Faye Goni, 33, of 3711 Windsong St., Corona, a driver of one of the cars, was listed in "guarded" condition with a head injury in Ontario Community Hospital's intensive care unit. Joel Rodney Brown, 41, of 671 E. Ninth St., Upland, the driver of a van involved in the accident, was given medical treatment for minor injuries at the Ontario hospital and later released.

Officer Joe Hatton said the accident was reported shortly before 8 a.m. by an Ontario city work crew. Hatton said a signal at the intersection was stuck with the traffic light blinking red for north and southbound Archibald Avenue and green for east and westbound traffic on Mission Boulevard.

Hatton said the Corona woman's car southbound on Archibald went through the signal and was struck broadside by the van. The car spun around and hit a third car stopped in the northbound lane of Archibald. The third car was driven by Harry Elsworth Vines, 60, of La Quinta, Calif. Vines was not injured.

The door of the wrecked van had to be pried open by firemen and police on the scene to free Brown.

Struve quads may be going home in 3 weeks

POMONA — The Struve quadruplets may be able to go home in three weeks, if their conditions continue to improve, medical authorities at Pomona Valley Community Hospital said today.

Dr. Richard Mabie, chief pediatrician on the birth of the quads to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Struve of Claremont, said the medical team is looking toward a release date in about three weeks, if they gain sufficient weight and have the ability to maintain their body temperatures and eat regularly.

Dr. Mabie stated that Todd Allan, who had experienced the most difficulty, joined his sisters and brother, in good condition and all are doing well.

Todd Allan has been removed from the mini-Positive Air Pressure chamber which had aided his breathing since birth last Wednesday. Brother Kevin Michael was removed from the special chamber last Saturday, said Dr. Mabie.

Sisters Kristina Lynn and Tonya Marie have been in consistently better condition than their brothers throughout the critical first week of life.

'Wide campaign fund corruption' in report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate Watergate Committee staff report has concluded that abuses in President Nixon's 1972 campaign "spanned the entire spectrum of corrupt campaign financing."

"Some solicitations were tinged with extortion and some contributions were tinged with bribery," the report said. Large corporations engaged "in discussions or negotiations related to their self-interest, in connection with the contributions."

The report, approved by Chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., was sent to the other six committee members today for inclusion in their final report. A copy of the 41-page report was obtained by UPI.

"The abuses uncovered in connection with the 1972 presidential campaign spanned virtually the entire spectrum of corrupt campaign practices," the report said.

"Huge cash contributions— legal and illegal—were transported to campaign offices in everything from plain white envelopes to airline flight bags and utilizing corporate-funded tickets and even corporate jets."

"The resources of corporations and government contractors were tapped," the report said. "Foreign nationals, out of the reach of scrutiny by American officials, gave contributions, or made loans for contributions."

The report contained a number of recommendations for legislation to cut campaign financing abuses. Included were proposals to limit cash contributions, put a ceiling on expenditures for presidential campaigns and prohibit large cash contributions.

The report recommended the committee take no position on the public financing of campaigns—since the members apparently were sharply divided on the question.

The specific recommendations made by the staff included:

—Creation of an independent, nonpartisan Federal Elections Commission to enforce campaign spending laws. An effective commission could be the "most significant reform that could emerge from the Watergate scandal," they said.

—Prohibition of cash expenditures and cash contributions in excess of $100.

—Prohibition of campaign contributions by foreign nationals.

—Candidates would be limited to a single campaign finance committee. The report said Nixon used hundreds of campaign finance committees to conceal large contributions from the milk producers and other groups.

—A limitation on overall campaign expenditures. The staff proposed a spending limit of 12 cents for each person of voting age during a general election.

—A limit of $3,000 on political contributions by any one individual to a presidential campaign. They said a $15,000 limit proposed by Nixon was "too high." Additionally they recommended a limit of $25,000 on the total amount an individual could contribute to all candidates for federal office.

—A limit of $6,000 on the contributions from large organizations — such as the milk producers.

—Prohibition against government officials on the White House payroll or serving by presidential appointment participating in soliciting campaign contributions for a period of up to one year after leaving government service.

—Increasing the penalty for illegal corporate or union contributions from one year to five years in jail.

1.2 billion records found

GSA tried to hide central data bank--Senate subcommittee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The General Services Administration tried to hide from Congress its plans for a computer system that would centralize all information gathered by federal data banks, a Senate subcommittee report charged today.

The committee said it found 858 federal data banks with at least 1.2 billion records on individuals.

But Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C., the subcommittee chairman, said: "I suspect there are many more we haven't found."

The Senate Constitutional Rights Subcommittee, in a report based on a four-year study, said GSA's plans remained "unknown and undisclosed" despite repeated requests for information on federal data banks.

The report said "neither in response to the subcommittee survey nor in response to questions posed at congressional oversight hearings did the General Services even mention its plans for the massive national data bank."

The subcommittee said in mid-1972 GSA was preparing a system known as FEDNET, which would have centralized the data processing and telecommunications of an unlimited number of agencies, beginning with the Agriculture Department.

The report called FEDNET a reincarnation of the National Data Center, which was abandoned by the executive branch in the late 1960s under public and congressional pressure.

Using the survey as a basis, the subcommittee was scheduled to open hearings today on legislation designed to insure the privacy of individuals. Among the witnesses was former attorney General Elliot Richardson.

The report said the data banks discovered were the ones the agencies were willing to admit they maintain. The report added it was also impossible to determine the number of individuals about whom the data banks contain information.

Ban on firecrackers delayed by commission until mid-July

WASHINGTON (UPI)— It will be a noisy Fourth of July after all, but maybe the last one of that kind.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission Monday granted the fireworks industry a 30-day delay in the start of a nationwide ban on firecrackers and the beginning of new safety rules governing the manufacture of most other fireworks.

As a result, firecrackers will continue on the market until at least mid-July, after which time the commission will hold a public hearing to determine if some over-all revision is necessary in its new regulations.

Four trade associations representing Chinese manufacturers and American importers and wholesalers had asked for the delay, claiming they would be stuck with inventories valued at $50 million on the retail market if the ban started at 12:01 a.m. EDT today as originally planned.

The commission ruled Monday that the petition was legally sufficient to warrant the public hearing. The trade associations had raised other objections to the regulations beyond liquidation of inventories. They objected, for instance, to labeling requirements as well as to the scientific basis on which the agency made the safety rules.

But the commissioners seem adamant on the validity of their proposed firecracker ban, and it appeared likely that this would be the last year for an old fashioned, noisy Fourth around American homes, even if some other parts of the regulations are revised. The regulations do not affect public displays or use of fiecrackers for pest control.

The firecracker ban met particular opposition in Hawaii, where it was said to interfere with the religious freedom of orientals.

62% of drivers now exceeding '55' limit

HOUSTON (UPI) — The American Automobile Association set up a highway radar trap Monday and found that 62 per cent of the vehicles that zoomed past were traveling in excess of the 55 miles per hour speed limit.

British paper says Israel has A-bombs

LONDON (UPI) — The newspaper Daily Telegraph said today that Israel has built up an arsenal of atomic bombs.

A report by John Miller of the newspaper's diplomatic staff, giving no source for its information, said "the one certainty of the Middle East is that she (Israel) has stockpiled atomic bombs.

"Official statements on the issue have been blandly and diplomatically limited to an insistance that Israel would never be the first Middle East country to use atomic weapons.

"But even this phrase has signified to the West, the Kremlin, and to Israel's Arab neighbors that Israel would not be caught empty handed if it came to the nuclear crunch."

La Verne City Council studies police, fire protection

LA VERNE — The La Verne City Council for two hours Monday night listed to residents speak about their anxieties in regard to police and fire protection.

The council acted on the question of what to do now for the needs of those people who live north of Foothill Boulevard in regard to their fire protection. Immediate steps are to be taken to determine whether the firemen stationed at the Los Angeles County Station 104 on N. Wheeler Avenue could be secured to cooperate and reply in initial response among the homes in that area.

At the present time there is some cooperation in that the La Verne Fire Department can calll upon the county firemen to help if it needs them. It has been pointed out by Fire Chief Bob Lapp and others that their major purpose for being in that area is to protect watershed brush in the foothills.

One resident Bob Perkins, told the council that he has observed that Station 104 men have recently been responding to both fire and resuscitation calls.

This council decision came after many residents north of Foothill expressed a concern that the proposed and promised station north of Foothill would not be of any help this summer when the fire hazard is great. One woman said that she was fearful of leaving for a vacation because her house might burn down while she was gone. She also noted that she is a heart patient and was not sure that the resuscitation crews from downtown could reach her in time to save her life.

The city's plans for its own foothill area station appears to be about six to eight months off. There seems to be some question about whether the city can build it where it had hoped to on or near the reservoir now under construction on N. Wheeler Ave.

Apparently it needs to be cleared up whether the land which was purchased by water bond funds can be used for building the station. Acting City Atty. Terry Brutocao was asked to check on this by the next council session.

A site offered by the county on Base Line Road adjacent to the flood control channel east of Wheeler did not seem suitable to any of those who were in discussion about it. They felt that it was too far south and especially unsuitable because it would be downhill from the area which would most need protection, and that fire trucks when heavily loaded with a tankful of water would be slowed down in their ability to reach a fire rapidly.

The matter came up again, as it has for several years, as to whether it would be wise to contract for county services rather than have the city department continue. Only one man spoke in favor of this system. Others who spoke, and councilmen as well, rejected that idea. One spokesman who lived under county protection for both fire and police said that he had moved away from such protection to the City of La Verne for a city run system.

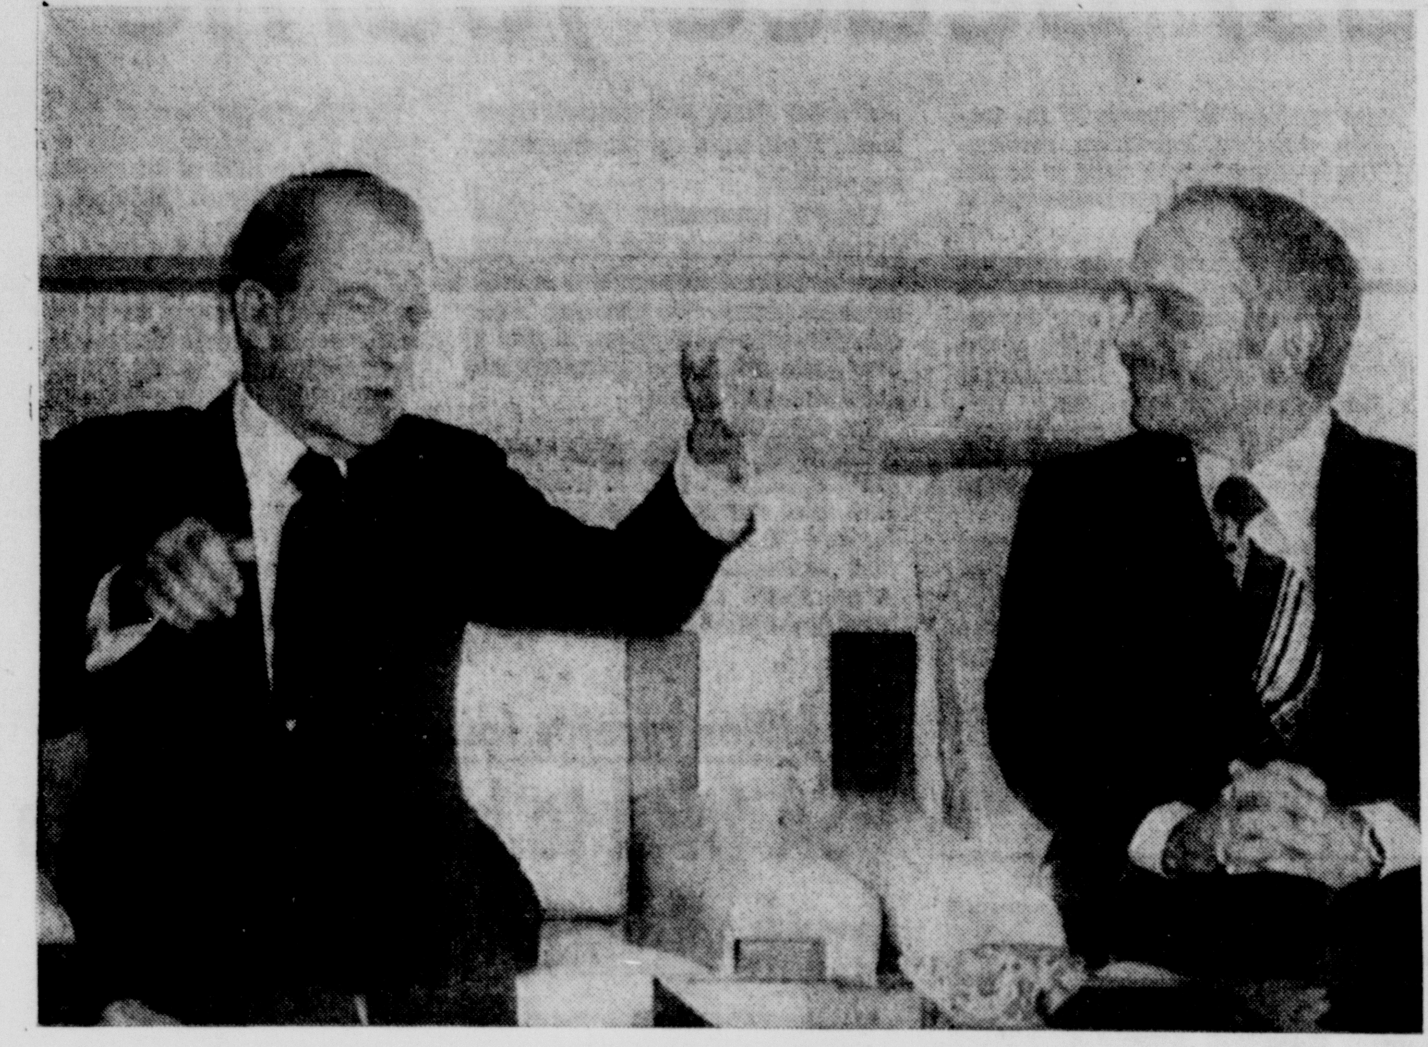
There was some discussion about how the city should finance the foothill fire station. Joe Black of Mountain Springs Estates was in favor of passing a bond for it so that the expense would be spread over the years to allow future taxpayers to help with the protection they will receive from it.

His theme throughout the evening was to reduce the taxes for present taxpayers. He would like to see federal revenue sharing funds used to pay for, for instance, the four needed policemen. men.

Before leaving the subject of the fire station to be built, it was suggested by Perkins that a citizens committee be appointed to aid the city. One is to be appointed.

The needs of the police department for more men were championed by two women, Mrs. Susan Petray and Mrs. Carol Bateson.

Mrs. Bateson brought a petition signed by 550 people and promised to bring it up to a thousand to impress the councilmen of the way the people in La Verne feel about the need for a greater force in order to patrol the streets more completely to prevent crimes.



PRESIDENTIAL EMPHASIS

President Nixon gestures with his fist as he talks with King Hussein of Jordan at reception at Amman Airport. Nixon ended Mideast journey with a promise of economic and military aid to Jordan.

Construction projects are back in Chaffey budget

ONTARIO — Construction projects on the Chaffey High School campus and safety projects on other district campuses were reinstated in the 1974-75 tentative budget by the school board Monday.

Board members studied reductions made from the first and second preliminary budgets as suggested by the administration and voted to approve the tentative budget of $20,937,915 with an amendment to add another $247,500. The monies added to the budget by the amendment will allow construction work beyond that suggested by the administration.

Construction projects reinstated in the budget by the trustees included a roofing project at Chaffey High School and air conditioning and lighting work in North Hall on the Chaffey campus, bicycle compounds on two campuses and safety additions at Ontario High School. Trustees also asked that administrators investigate possibilities of allowing more funds for academic field trips and career and vocational studies.

The tentative budget is based on a 1974-75 $2.2582 tax rate, down from a tax rate of $2.3546 in 1973-74. The rate is also less than the $2.39 tax rate used in the first preliminary budget and the $2.3470 rate in the second preliminary budget.

The board had hoped to increase the tax rate for the new school year, but voters defeated a revenue increase proposal in the June 4 election. In discussing the election defeat, board president James Garliepp stated, "The public has spoken and we will have to do the best that we can with the funds available.

"But this does not preclude our coming back to the public with another election," stated Garliepp. Board members noted that they will have another chance to present a proposal to voters in the Nov. 4 general election and again in March.

In other business, trustees renewed the contract of district Supt. Allan G. Smith and awarded contracts for a three-classroom addition to the Chaffey Training Center and boiler replacement at Montclair High School.

Smith's contract was renewed for four years as limited by the Education Code. Smith has been a member of the Chaffey District staff since 1947 and has been superintendent of the district since 1958.

Emory C. Jackson Co., Inc., was awarded a contract of $115,074 for the Chaffey Training Center for trainable mentally retarded students. The district is hoping for state funds to aid in this construction.

A $6,890 contract less $200 for boiler trade-in was awarded to Boiler Engineers Co. for the Montclair High heating appliance.

No decision reached on 2 Upland issues

UPLAND — The City Council considered and then postponed deciding two important and expensive issues Monday evening, the development of Mountain Avenue above 16th Street and the possible annexation of 240 acres of county agricultural terrain northwest of the city.

Two proposals for landscaping Mountain Avenue were described to the council by Rod Anderson, planning director. One proposal, called Alternate 1, would cost $83 per frontage foot to install and $13,550 per year to maintain.

The second proposal for the street, Alternate 4, would cost the city $88 per frontage foot to install and $36,150 per year to maintain.

The council listened to several Upland residents who opposed widening the right-of-way for the avenue. The three councilmen present and Mayor Abner Haldeman continued the issue by deciding to ask for more study on expenses by planners.

The council also held off on a project by Southeast Land Development, Inc., to build an expensive housing tract on land north of 16th Street and on either side of Wilson Avenue.

"This does have a lot of implications," Haldeman said. "It is a large potential project."

Acting City Manager Lee Travers noted that residential development of the full 240 acres involved could cost the city $500,000 for sewer main extension and more money for other services which would follow annexation to the city.

Councilman Harold Bailin said that he approves of the scale of the plan. "I would think we could give the general impression that we like the idea of developing large parcels," he added.

On a motion by Bailin to approve of the concept of development but without any determination of density the council split 2-2, thus defeating Bailin's motion. Bailin and Haldeman voted in favor of the motion, but Ina Petokas and John E. McCarthy voted against it.

The fifth councilman, George Gibson, was absent due to illness. After the vote, McCarthy made a motion to continue the issue, and this motion passed unanimously.

In other business Monday evening, the council tabled a proposal to give funds to the federally sponsored West End Drug Abuse Control Council (WEDAC).

"It appears to be a worthwhile program," admitted Bailin, "but the state and the counties are rejecting it." Bailin and other council members agreed to wait until later in the summer to see if any funds will be available for the drug rehabilitation program.

Night watchman in gun battle with 2 burglars

POMONA — A gun battle erupted early this morning between an employe of the City Auto Salvage Co. and two burglars attempting to cut through an office building at 10756 Kadota St., according to West End sheriff's deupties.

Deputies said that the employe wasn't wounded or apparently were the two burglars, though numerous shots were fired.

According to sheriff's reports, Mike M. Pilipovich, 58, an employe of the auto salvage company, was sleeping in the office at 2:40 a.m. when he was awakened by dogs barking in the salvage yard. Pilipovich, suspecting a burglary, got a small caliber handgun and went to investigate.

Pilipovich said he saw two men trying to cut open the office door and he began firing his pistol. Pilipovich said the burglars began shooting back. A number of other shots were fired before the burglars ran.

Pilipovich told deputies that he sleeps in the auto salvage office. He was unable to give deputies a description of the burglars.

Driver rescued from car fire on freeway

WEST COVINA —A sedan caught fire early today on the San Bernardino Freeway when struck from behind by one vehicle and pushed into the rear of a second.

Jeanette Grigioni, 24, of 1212 Preston Court, Upland, the driver, was helped from her burning car by an off-duty fireman. She was taken to Covina Inter-Community Hospital.

The collision occurred in a construction zone on the freeway's westbound lanes near Grand Avenue. The damaged cars blocked several lanes, causing traffic to be backed up for nearly a mile, said highway patrolmen.

Several cars were going west and went around a curve where they came upon a lane closure and started to converge into another lane, said officers.

A station wagon operated by Charles Howell, 23, of Fontana, struck the rear of Miss Grigioni's sedan, pushing it into the back of a sedan operated by Michael Edgeworth, 20, of El Monte, said officer Bruce Albini.

The injured woman was helped from her car by Richard Smith, an off-duty fireman from Crestline who was also driving west on the freeway.

Howell possibly suffered a loose tooth in the collision, said Albini. He declined hospital treatment.

FMC Corp renames Sweeper division

POMONA — The FMC Corp.'s Municipal and Industrial Service Equipment Division, 1201 E. Lexington St., known informally as the FMC Wayne sweeper plant—has been renamed the Sweeper Division.

"While our previous name, Municipal and Industrial Service Equipment Division, adequately described our functions and services, we felt it was exceedingly long in print and difficult to verbalize," explained Gil M. Wayne, division president.

"The new name, Sweeper Division, is the most concise and meaningful designation for our activities in the markets we serve."

The Sweeper Division, which manufactures and distributes its products through an international dealer network, is the world's leading producer of street sweepers.

Other products marketed by the division include industrial sweepers, multipurpose sanitation vehicles and tree maintenance equipment.

Two young men awaken family in house blaze

POMONA — County firemen credit two young men who were visiting in Pomona with awakening a family whose house was on fire early this morning.

An electric short in the attached garage apparently started the fire that spread to the attic of the house before it was noticed by Richard Viar, 20, of Duarte and Kevin Saihsleud, 20, of Monrovia.

The men told county firemen they were driving by the house at 4154 N. Garey Ave., when they saw the flames. The occupants of the house were Mr. and Mrs. Lonny Hawkins and their 8-year-old son.

Firemen cut a hole in the roof of the house to extinguish the blaze. Damage is estimated at $20,000.

Husband, son released in slaying of woman

POMONA — Two persons arrested in connection with the gunshot death Sunday of 37-year-old Mary Treanor were released Monday afternoon without charge.

They were her husband, Jerry Treanor, 22, and her son by a previous marriage, Jimmy Greenfield, also 22.

Mrs. Treanor was killed during a dispute over two boys swimming in cutoffs in an apartment complex pool at 1468 S. Palomares St. She was assistant manger there.

Police today still held Oscar Eric Harris, 41, of 2366 Belinda Ave., on suspicion of murder in the slaying. Investigators said that Harris pulled a gun on Jerry Treanor, who objected to the boys swimming in cutoffs, and that when Mrs. Treanor stepped between them, she was shot in the face. The shot killed Mrs. Treanor outright. Harris was visiting friends at the apartment building and had told the boys to go ahead and swim if they wanted to, officers said.

The district attorney's office here has been given details of the police investigation for study and possible issuance of a complaint in the incident.

WHARF DESTROYED BY FIRE

A two-square block pier, in Galveston, Tex., loaded with $5 million in cotton caught fire Monday night destroying the wharf, thousands of dollars in loading equipment and forcing the evacuation of ships out into the Galveston Bay. The two ships silhouetted by the fire were towed to safety in the bay.

Fire destroys Texas wharf

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — A wharf fire that roared through two huge warehouses destroying more than $6 million in cotton and rice, was brought under control before dawn today by more than 125 firefighters who battled the blaze for six hours.

No one was injured.

"Right now it's still smouldering and will be smouldering for several hours," said Fire Chief Hugh R. O'Donohoe. "The bales of cotton will be burning for some time and we have got a lot of debris smouldering in there.

"The only solution is to flood it and keep an eye on it."

O'Donohoe said the fire started at 10 p.m. Monday, apparently from a burning bale set on the edge of the dock apart from the others. He said sparks from that bale were carried inside the two-block-long warehouse housing 11,000 bales of cotton and the fire spread to an adjacent warehouse holding $1 million in rice.

Observers said the 37th Street Pier was ablaze in three minutes.

"The fire traveled quite rapidly," O'Donohoe said. "It almost trapped the first men laying fire lines before they could get out."

The clear red flames of burning cotton were seen 15 miles away in La Marque. Thousands of spectators strained at police barricades to watch the fire.

O'Donohoe said of the two warehouses, the cotton warehouse was destroyed and half the building holding the rice was burned. He said they were some of the oldest warehouses along the waterfront and neither had heat activated sprinkler systems.

Israeli warplanes rocket Lebanon

By United Press International

Israel said its warplanes attacked five Arab guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon today just before President Nixon left Jordan at the end of his five-nation Middle East good will tour.

Arab newsmen in the region said Israeli planes bombed, rocketed and strafed farming areas in the foothills of Mt. Hermon, which lies on the borders of Lebanon, Syria and Israel, for about one hour.

The planes attacked the bases in "Fatahland" intermittently for 30 minutes and streaked as far as 13 miles north of the frontier before returning safely to base, the Israeli military command said.

The attack, which came less than 24 hours after Nixon left Israel for Jordan, occurred at the same time as Israeli forces ended the second phase of disengagement with Syria on the Golan Heights front.

The raids followed by five days the attack by four guerrillas on the settlement of Shamir, 16 miles south of the frontier. The guerrillas murdered three women and then died in a hail of bullets and explosions.

An Israeli military source said the air assault, the first into Lebanon since May 31 when a cease-fire went into effect on the Golan Heights, was not a retaliation for the Shamir attack. He said it was not timed to occur after Nixon had left Israel.

"It is part of fighting terrorists wherever we find them and it was not retaliation for Shamir," the source said.

Arab newsmen at the scene said Israeli planes also swooped low over Palestinian refugee camps near Sidon, Tyre and Nabatiyeh, which were the targets of widespread Israeli attacks May 16. Women and children in the camps rushed to shelters and shops in Nabatiyeh closed down. But the planes did not strafe the camps.

First reports said two persons were wounded in today's Israeli air attacks.

Israeli air attacks on this region were frequent during the 81 days of fighting on the Golan Heights that preceded the May 31 signing of the Syrian-Israeli troop disengagment agreement.

The reported air attacks came as Israeli soldiers pulled their forward headquarters further back in advance of completion of the second phase of the disengagement, a withdrawal that gives Syria back most of the land lost in last October's war.

The newsmen said the Israeli planes hit around 4 p.m. in the region between the farming villages of Hasbaya and Rachaya el Wadi. After previous Israeli air attacks on the region, the Israelis said they were attacking Palestinian guerrilla positions.

The Israelis have been shelling the same region intermittently since the Golan Heights fighting ended, but today's was the first air attack since then. It was also the first Israeli strike on the area since Thursday's abortive guerrilla attack on the Israeli settlement of Shamir, near the Lebanese border.

Two 'plumbers' granted immunity for Ellsberg break-in testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge, acting at the request of Watergate prosecutors, today granted two key members of the White House "plumbers" unit immunity from prosecution for their testimony at the forthcoming Ellsberg break-in trial.

The prospective witnesses, E. Howard Hunt Jr. and David R. Young, had been given immmunity last year before appearing before grand juries, but had balked at testifying at the trial unless granted fresh assurance that their testimony would not be used against them.

U.S. District Judge George L. Hart signed the immunity orders at a two-minute court hearing.

Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski asked Hart to issue the orders, saying both Hunt and Young had submitted sworn affadavits saying they would take the Fifth Amendnment when called to the stand unless given the protection against prosecution.

Both are expected to be key government witnesses at the trial of former presidential aide John D. Ehrlichman and three other men accused of conspiring to violate the civil rights of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis J. Fielding, by breaking into his office Labor Day weekend, 1971 in search of Ellsberg's records.

The trial is scheduled to begin June 26.

Young was co-director and Hunt was a member of the "plumbers" unit set up by the White House in the summer of 1971 to investigate leaks of national security information following Ellsberg's disclosure of the Pentagon Papers.

Hunt, who pleaded quilty last year in the Watergate bugging and has spent nearly 11 months in jail, told reporters he is living in his family home in Potomac, Md., and two weeks ago finished his still untitled memoirs that will be published this fall. He was released Jan. 2 on bond pending appeal.

On Monday, Judge John J. Sirica sentenced Herbert W. Kalmbach to between six and 18 months in jail and a $10,000 fine for his part in the Watergate scandal.

Kalmbach, President Nixon's personal attorney and one of his top fundraisers, entered a guilty plea in U.S. district court Feb. 25 to improperly organizing a 1970 campaign committee and offering a European ambassadorship to a big contributor.

"I want to say how deeply I am embarassed and how much I regret standing here this afternoon," Kalmbach said Monday, his usually tanned face pale and lined. Sirica gave him two weeks to get his personal affairs in order before he goes to a federal prison.

Kalmbach has already testified for the prosecution, and a month ago implicated former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans in his crimes. He said in the spring of 1970, Stans gave Kalmbach $1.1 million in checks and told him to use them for a congressional campaign program. Kalmbach also testified that he "advised Mr. Stans from time to time" on the "commitment" of a European ambassadorship to Maryland politician J. Fife Symington —which he never got.

Kalmbach is one of 31 involved in the Watergate scandal who have pleaded guilty out of 45 who have been before the courts. Five were acquitted. Jaworski has said he would accept guilty pleas to lesser crimes in exchange for a promise to testify, a practice called plea bargaining.

Murder victims found in blaze

CHICAGO (UPI) — Firemen who put out a smoldering basement fire in suburban Park Ridge found five members of a family dead Monday, four of them murdered and wrapped in blankets.

A bloody kitchen knife was found near the four bodies found in the basement, but the coroner's office declined to comment on the probable cause of death.

The victims were Raymond A. Fuchs, his wife, Ruth, 48, a son, Scott, 15, and a daughter, Lynda, 14. The fifth body, tentatively identified as an older son Jeffery, 17, was found in an upstairs kitchen, his face smeared in soot and a rope around his neck. His body was burned beyond recognition.

Technicians on the scene said all the bodies showed signs of decomposition and Ann had apparently been dead for about 48 hours.

Mrs. Fuchs' hands were tied in front of her with a card that was around the leg of a laundry tub. The hands of the 15-year-old boy were bound behind his back.

Three large candles, which had burned almost to their base, were found in the basement when firemen arrived, and authorities said the fire could have started from the candles or it could have been purposely set.

Members of the family were last seen alive Friday.

Fuchs worked as a clerk in the nearby suburb of Elk Grove. He was supposed to work Saturday but he did not show up.

Strict security for queen after IRA palace bombing

LONDON (UPI) — Police using helicopters, in patrol cars and on foot threw a massive security net around Ascot race course today to shield Queen Elizabeth and thousands of other socially prominent people from a possible attack like the bombing Monday of historic Westminster Palace.

This afternoon's Royal Ascot west of London is the highlight of the social season, traditionally drawing throngs of spectators in top hats, tails and long dresses. Security sources said it provided an excellent target for extremists.

Scotland Yard refused to comment on security measures, but hours before the Queen's arrival for the races police helicopters hovered over the course and patrolmen in cars and on foot checked streets in suburban Ascot.

Reinforced security also was in effect this morning at the Houses of Commons, part of the government complex damaged Monday morning by a bomb apparently planted by the Irish Republican Army.

Police checked every vehicle entering the grounds. Other officers quizzed workmen on the site of an underground parking lot being built adjoining 900-year-old Westminster Palace, whose windows were shattered in the explosion.

Security sources said one theory police investigators were pursuing was that the bomb had been planted by someone who entered the construction site posing as a workman.

In another part of the city police cleared thousands of commuters from Liverpool street station this morning after an anonymous caller said a bomb had been planted there.

Munitions experts searched the station for 20 minutes and found nothing, police said.

The minutes that followed the bomb explosion Monday vividly reminded older British residents of the wartime nights when German bombers rained fire on the palace beside the Thames.

Thick black smoke billowing from the shattered windows of Westminster Hall, at 900 years the oldest part of the complex, blotted out the face of Big Ben clock, the symbol of London.

Police said 11 persons were injured in the blast, including one woman who suffered a broken leg.

The bomb, estimated at 15 to 20 pounds, wrecked a kitchen area adjoining Westminster Hall, shattered the windows of the hall itself and at one point threatened to destroy it in fire started by a broken natural gas pipe.

The explosion went off within yards of the Houses of Commons and Lords, all part of the palace, and across the street from the equally historic Westminster Abbey where Britain's Kings and Queens are crowned.

Officials said damage to the Hall, while extensive, was not as serious as first feared. Hundreds of firemen got the blaze under control before it could reach the unique 13th century hammer roof beams.

Cattle, hog producers plight may bring serious problem

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Speaker Carl Albert said today the present plight of cattle and hog producers could create "one of the most serious economic problems since the depression."

Albert, appearing as leadoff witness at House Agriculture Committee hearings on complaints by producers that their livestock has been selling below production costs for months, called for a series of rapid actions aimed at helping them to avert financial disaster.

He said that President Nixon should impose a temporary moratorium on imports of foreign beef to be followed by "tough restrictions" on future import levels.

Also, he said, supermarkets should cut retail beef prices because current grocery prices "simply do not reflect the huge cut in live cattle prices" in recent months. He also called for congressional action on credit for farmers and expanded beef purchases by federal agencies.

If cattlemen continue to be pressed toward bankruptcy, Albert said, the rest of the economy will be affected "like a row of falling dominoes."

Rep. Peter A. Peyser, R-N.Y., in a statement to the committee, complained that although farmers are losing money on their cattle, "when the beef reaches the retail market it is still at the all-time high established in August of 1973."

Gays disrupt lecture

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Dr. David Reuben, author of "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Sex," was giving a lecture at the Playhouse in the Park Theater to about 100 persons Monday night. Suddenly 10 gay activists climbed onto the stage and called Reuben "a criminal" because of the views on homosexuality expressed in his book.

A fight broke out and two men were injured, including a policeman. Mark Segal, spokesman for the "Gay Raiders," said Reuben's book "perpetuates old myths about homosexuals and creates new myths."

Five police officers attempted to remove the protesters from the auditorium when the fight broke out. Reuben, who was not injured, completed the lecture.

"After this the City of Brotherly Love takes on a new meaning for me," he said.

D.B. Homeowners to mull zoning, parks and library

DIAMOND BAR — The Diamond Bar Homeowners Association will hold a general membership meeting tonight at 7:30 at the Diamond Bar County Club to discuss a zoning "reprieve" granted by the Board of Supervisors.

Parks and library pending for the community also will be discussed.

The supervisors last week granted the stay to the people of Diamond Bar fighting proposed high-density apartments on the strip of land along Diamond Bar Boulevard next to the Hills tract.

The association, joined by its ad hoc committee Homeowners United for Fairness (HUFF), succeeded in having the supervisors refer the case back to the Regional Planning Commission for reconsideration of lower densities.

Supervisor Peter Schabarum made the referral motion. A chartered bus transported nearly 100 Diamond Bar residents to the hearing.

"The people of Diamond Bar are deeply disturbed about the density of these proposed apartments," said Chuck Hall, chairman of the homeowners' zoning and planning committee.

"They are so disturbed that many took time off from their jobs to be at the hearing and support the concept of planned community development. This case is a typical example of irresponsible spot zoning which we have opposed time and again in Diamond Bar."

Mrs. Sara Nunn, HUFF cochairman, presented supervisors petitions bearing 2,500 signatures of Diamond Bar property owners opposing high density zoning on the land under consideration.

"We won an important victory," said Mrs. Nunn. "We made the supervisors a

High court denies disability benefits due to pregnancies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — State disability insurance systems can withhold benefits for normal pregnancies, the Supreme Court ruled Monday.

The coart, on a 6 to 3 vote, reversed the ruling of a three-judge federal district court in California that said the state system violated the right to equal protection of the laws.

"The state is not required by the Equal Protection Clause (of the Constitution) to sacrifice the self-supporting nature of the program, reduce the benefits payable for covered disabilities, or increase the maximum employe contribution rate just to provide protection against another risk of a disability, such as normal pregnancy," the court's majority opinion said.

Four women had sued for benefits under the California plan, which covers private employes temporarily disabled in a way that is not covered by workmen's compensation. But the case became moot for three of them, the court noted, because those three had abnormal pregnancies and those were covered by the plan. Their claims for benefits were paid after the suit was filed.

For the fourth, the court said California's decision not to include normal pregnancy under covered disabilities "does not constitute discrimination." The plan is financed by the contributions of the workers and its benefits are geared to what it can pay for, the court noted.

The dissenting opinion, written by Justice William J. Brennan, said, "The economic effects caused by pregnancy-related disabilities are functionally indistinguishable from the effects caused by any other disability: wages are lost...medical expenses are incurred..."

Because the plan covered some disabilities suffered mostly by men, and failed to cover disabilities from normal pregnancy, it "created a double standard for disability compensation," Brennan wrote.

But the majority opinion, by Justice Potter Stewart, said, "The program does not discriminate wth respect to the persons or groups eligible for it protection, and there is no evidence that it discriminates against any definable group or class in terms of the aggregate risk-protection derived from tte program. The sole contention is the asserted under-inclusiveness of the program's coverage as the result of the exclusion of disabilities resulting from normal pregnancy."

$30,000 spent so far in 8th district race

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Eighteen candidates, all seeking former city councilman Billy G. Mills' 8th District seat, have spent a total of more than $30,000 in the race so far, recent financial reports disclosed.

As of May 31, Charlie Knox, 41, chief assistant to Rep. Augustus F. Hawkins D-Los Angeles, spent the most money, listing his expenditures as $9,653.01.

Knox said nearly $6,000 of his funds was obtained through contributions of $100 or more. Most of the large contributions came from businesses, including $1,000 each from the Surety Drilling Co. and the Carroll Pallett & Lumber Co.

Knox also received a $4,000 loan from Security Pacific National Bank, his financial statement revealed.

The second highest amount was spent by Theodore Major Green, 27, a tax consultant, who listed his expenditures as $7,134. Green reported that more than $6,000 was from his own funds and came from an automobile accident settlement.

Both Knox and Green said they spent most of the money on advertising, printing, stamps and paper.

Rolland J. Curtis, 52, who was appointed chief deputy of the 8th District by Mills, spent $5,154.50, all from personal funds, on radio ads and campaign office costs, according to his report.

Other top spenders included Harry W. Bledsoe, $4,553; Adam Burton, $2,462; Robert Charles Farrell, $1,870 and Marguerite P. Justice, $1,862.

Most of the remaining candidates said they have spent $1,000 or less on their campaigns.

A special election will be held June 25 to fill the seat vacated when Mills was appointed a Superior Court judge by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Nude beauty is winner

COLTON, Calif. (UPI) — Darlene Stumhofer, a 20-yearold model from Dana Point, won the Miss Bare State nude beauty contest Sunday.

The contest was in jeopardy of never taking place after hotels in Riverside, San Diego and Los Angeles counties had to cancel it because of a state law forbidding nude entertainment wherever food or drink is sold.

The pageant was finally held at Olive Dell Nudist Ranch here before an audience of newsmen.

Miss Stumhofer, a tall blonde, triumphed over eight other girls.

Avocado prices

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Avocados are expected to average 20 cents each this summer, says the California Avocado Advisory Board. They will be in plentiful supply and be available in some areas at certain times for as little as five for a dollar. The Nass variety, marketed from April to October, is egghaped, with a dark, pebbly skin.

Dad of raped retarded girl asks $1 million

HELENA, Mont. (UPI) — The father of a retarded girl, claiming his daugtter was raped at a mental hospital, is asking $1 million in damages.

The girl, 19, subsequently gave birth to a son on May 10, alleges the claim filed by attorney Robert L. Stephens Jr. of Billings. Identities of the infant's father and the girl were not known.

Stephens said the parents charge, among other things, that the rape and subsequent birth were caused by negligence at the Boulder River School and hospital. The girl was incapable of consenting to the sexual act because of retardation, they said.

The institution's superintendent, Keith McCarthy, disclosed that two other suits may be filed against it in the future, one from the parents of a girl who choked on good in February. The other, he said, may come from the U.S. Department of Justice demanding that the institution improve conditions.

55 gallon drums used for packing

DENVER (UPI) — A new aseptic canning process announced by a California company makes it possible to pack fruit and vegetables safely in 55 gallon drums. A drum is comparable to 75 No. 10 cans of the sort used for institutional feeding. The process permits canning in natural juices without syrups.

Third person sentenced in gem robbery

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — Jimmie Franklin Jr. recently became the third person to be sentenced in connection with the daring daylight robbery of Tiffany's jewelry store last year.

A fourth person was scheduled to be sentenced today.

Franklin, 21, one of nine persons arrested for the robbery, was convicted of first-degree robbery earlier this year.

Tiffany's in Beverly Hills was robbed of $240,000 worth of jewels last November.

The latest suspect, Herbert C. Miller Sr., 47, was arrested Tuesday after Compton police dug up some $84,000 worth of diamond rings allegedly taken in the holdup.

Quits $30,000 a year job, building boat to go to sea

LAFAYETTE, Colo. (UPI) — Jerry Powers will quit his $30,000 a year job next spring, pack up his wife and two teenaged sons and set sail aboard his home-made 40-foot sailboat for Hawaii to avoid growing old in one spot.

"My security is knowing I can do what I want to do," said Powers, 34, a construction engineer. "I am just tired of fighting it. I don't ever want to return to work again if I can humanly help it."

Slightly more than a year ago, Powers sold his home and moved his wife Brenda and their sons into an 18-foot trailer on the prairie outside Lafayette, north of Denver. One of his first moves was to put up a plywood shed and begin building the Serenity II.

"This is going to be it," he said pointing to the unfinished 40-foot two-masted sailboat. "I will be the first to admit I may fail but I have enough desire so that I think I can."

Powers said he hopes to be finished by next spring when he'll knock down the shed and haul the Serenity II to Puget Sound for launching.

The Powers' love of sailing began five years ago on a 21-foot Catalina named Serenity which they sailed down the coast of Baja, California.

Powers said the trip was great until they ran into a storm with winds gusting to 60 knots. He said that trip prepared him and his wife for handling the ship alone if his sons go to college after completing high school through correspondence courses.

"First, though, I have to get her done," he said sipping a can of cold beer. "I don't want to grow to one spot for the rest of eternity."

His wife, Brenda, agrees. "I've had the nice home and beautiful furniture and all that," she said.

Scare ads don't affect educated smoker

NEW YORK (UPI) — Scare commercials threatening smokers with death sooner or later apparently have little impact on more educated persons, according to a study made by Alan A. Berman of the American University in Washington, D. C. The magazine Psychology Today reported that Berman had five questionnaires —ministered to 300 students (average age, 22) in an effort to determine their smoking habits and attitudes toward death. Berman found the more educated smoked more often than those with less schooling and rationalized their habit as an act of defiance.

"Berman concluded that scare commercials threatening people with death at some indefinite future time wasn't the way to stop people from smoking," Psychology Today noted. "Fear of cancer made many try to quit, but wasn't enough to keep them off cigarettes permanently. Any program to stop smoking, he believes, must expect some backsliding and allow for it.

Thinking can alter breaks

By Oswald & James Jacoby

We are indebted to Jan Wohlin of Stockholm for today's hand. South gets to a good three notrump contract after a Stayman response to his opening notrump bid.

He started out correctly by winning the club lead in his own hand. The next three tricks were taken by his ace and queen of diamonds and dummy's king. A fourth diamond lost to East's jack.

Opening lead—♣Q

A club was led back to dummy's ace and the fifth diamond cashed. A successful heart finesse gave him his seventh trick, but the king failed to drop under the ace and he had to go down one.

Mr. Wohlin points out that South would have made his contract in spite of the bad break, if he just stopped to think when West showed out on the second diamond. South should simply overtake his queen with dummy's king; take a heart finesse and lead his three of diamonds to dummy's nine.

East would win and lead a club to dummy's ace. South would cash the last two diamonds and then take a second heart finesse.

The whole point would be that South would make the same four diamonds tricks but would get one more heart trick.

PUBERTY

That gland called the pineal organ in the human body controls the onset of puberty. As it shrinks with age, it releases the key hormones. Doctors in Pakistan now say prolonged strong light tends to speed the shrinkage of said organ. It's widely known that girls today reach puberty somewhat earlier than the girls of a few generations ago. And one theory is they do so because of the electric light bulb. The normal cycle of daylight and dark has been changed. Their pineal glands are thought to be responding to all this artificial light.

HUSBAND'S FAULT

It has been reported that only two out of five honeymoon couples are entirely pleased with their wedding trip. Three out of five are said to report some disappointment. Our Love and War man's research into this matter indicates that when these affairs are less than happy, it's usually the husband's fault.

WHEN TWO DOGS approach each other, you can tell before they meet which one is going to be in charge. It will be the pup that very slowly wags its tail as it walks up. Not that quick wag-wag-wag. Only the slow wag is known as the boss-dog sign. If both wag slowly, look out.

THE AVERAGE American man does not buy three pairs of pajamas every two years, but that's how many he gets one way or another, say the marketing boys.

City of Tampa first a fort

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — The City of Tampa, now the largest port between New Orleans and Norfolk, was founded in 1824 as the military post of Fort Brooke. Its present name came from the U.S. Post Office Department which listed it as "Tampa Bay." The name was shortened to Tampa in 1834.

Historan Dr. James W. Covington of the University of Tampa said the plans for establishing Fort Brooke grew out of the Treaty of Moultrie, which was signed in 1823 with the Seminole Indians.

Polls vary, but neither helps Nixon

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two independent pollsters have come up with different results on public opinion toward President Nixon, but the results of both polls are unfavorable to the President.

Two Gallup polls, one taken in early May and the other taken in early June, indicated Nixon made slight gains in public support during the time period between the two polls. But Harris surveys for the same periods said Nixon has lost support.

In both polls, those who said Nixon should be removed from office outnumbered those who said he should remain.

The Gallup poll taken in early June and released during the weekend said 44 per cent of those questioned felt Nixon should be removed from office, compared with 41 per cent who were against removal. When the same question was posed by Gallup in early May, 48 per cent wanted Nixon removed to 37 who did not, indicating Nixon gained about 4 per cent during the two polls.

The Harris poll taken in early June and released last week showed 52 per cent favored removal, compared with 35 per cent who said Nixon should remain in office. The Harris figures for the same poll taken in early May were 49 for removal to 41 against removal, indicating a loss of support of about 4 per cent during the time period between the two polls.

The Harris question, posed to a cross section of 1,413 adults was: "All in all, do you think President Nixon should or should not be impeached by Congress and removed from office?"

Gallup pollsters, who surveyed a cross section of 1,509 adults, asked, "Just from the way you feel now, do you think his actions are serious enough to warrant his being removed from the presidency, or not?"

CHP officer's noble try ends on tragic note

ELSINORE, Calif. (UPI) — There's never a policeman around when you really need one.

California Highway Patrolman Nowlin Foster got first hand verification of that old addage recently when he noticed a car driving erratically on a highway outside Anaheim.

Foster, off duty and in his own private automobile, tried to flag dwn the vehicle, driven by James M. Glenn of Elsinore. Glenn did stop several times but when Foster got out and approached the car, Glenn would drive off again.

The CHP officer sought vainly to spot a police vehicle so that an arrest could be made. He followed Glenn almost 50 miles with no sign of a CHP or other patrol car.

On the outskirts of Elsinore where Glenn lives, his car crashed into a sign post. His wife, Helen, 60, was killed.

Northside branch library issue faces council again

POMONA — A question more than a decade old over whether city government owes citizens a northside branch library apparently will finally be resolved with the adoption of the 1974-75 city budget this month.

Mrs. May Bowen, former secretary of the Library Board of Trustees, raised the question again Monday night before the City Council at a public hearing on the proposed $18,198,701 budget.

Mrs. Bowen inquired about plans for $8,000 from a fund set aside for a library branch to be used to balance the budget.

Mayor Ray J. Lepire replied that the $86,000 came from reserves, not a fund set aside for the construction of a library branch.

Lepire said that funds that were to be used for a branch had already been expended in the construction of the main library branch, completed in 1965 at the Civic Center Plaza.

"I beg your pardon, it was not," answered Mrs. Bowen.

She said that voters twice rejected bond issue proposals for the construction of a library and referred to the approval by voters of another bond issue proposal for $1.2 million in 1961 after being promised a main library and a northside branch.

Lepire said that because the cost of the main library far exceeded projections, the proceeds from the bond sale were not enough to cover actual costs.

City administrator Jerrold Gonce said the funds in question came from a fund resulting from the $115,000 sale of the old library site.

Mrs. Bowen contended that an amount had been "socked away" for a northside branch and for that reason had not been touched by the library.

The fund which started with the $115,000 proceeds from the sale of the old site has accumulated considerable interest and has grown to about $200,000.

Mrs. Bowen stressed the importance the city government living up to its promises, otherwise, "the next time we tell voters of Pomona we're going to do something, they won't believe us."

Lepire said use of the $86,000 was necessary to balance the budget and avoid hitting taxpayers for more money.

Councilman Charles W. Bader termed Mrs. Bowen's comments as "appropriate" but supported the mayor's position. Councilman Adrian T. Wright questioned whether a branch would ever be built.

But there seemed to be no visible council opposition to the use of the $86,000 to balance the budget.

Kenneth Walter asked why in view of a growing crime rate the proposed budget showed a decrease in expenditure from the previous budget.

City officials explained that while booklets on the budget passed out to the public showed the police department being decreased from 25 to 23 per cent of the total $16.2 municipal budget total, the department has received $300,000 and seven positions more in the new fiscal year, factors that were not readily apparent because of federal funding. The remaining $1.9 million is for the water department.

Preschool program budget for next year increased

PRESCHOOL POI

Children in Evelyn O'Donnel's preschool class at Allison Elementary School in Pomona had fun making and later eating pineapple poi. Chief cooks were a mother, Mrs. Joan Renfro of Pomona, and three of the preschoolers, Racquel Renfro, 5, left, Rod Rivers, 5, center, and Scott Kleinsorge, 5.

POMONA — The budget for the state preschool program in the Pomona Unified School District will be increased next year and registrations are being accepted now for September, according to preschool specialist Judy A. Sneed.

This year the program served 80 children at four sites—Allison, Lexington, Kellogg and San Jose elementary schools—and operated on a budget of $92,700. The 1974-75 budget contains $95,700. All money for the program comes from the state.

The preschool program serves children who are 3 years and 9 months old or older and come from families who are receiving aid or have low incomes. Requirements follow a scale which calls for a family of four to have a $440 a month or $6,600 a year income or less.

"The program serves pre-kindergarten children and 3-year-olds with special needs," said Mrs. Sneed. "Parents are required to participate two hours a week. This helps parents understand the preschool and its program, and how they can work with their children at home.

"It also helps parents learn alternative ways of rearing a child and coping with problems. There are Parent Advisory Committee meetings and parent meetings to discuss methods of discipline, child growth and development."

Lead teachers this year were Mary Baines, Evelyn O'Donnel, Teresa Vinatieri, and Eleanor Juarez. Educational assistants were Linda Hart, Luella Cunningham, Willie Johnson and Gladys Campbell. Virginia Madrigal, Muriel Lindgren, Darlene Curry and Gilda Lewis were instructional aides.

Classes were held from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. This same program will be followed next year, Mrs. Sneed said.

She asked families eligible for the program to enroll their children now because they are given physical examinations and their immunizations are brought up to date. Parents and children are given tuberculoris tests.

"We hope to prepare these children for kindergarten," said Mrs. Sneed.

Those with children eligible for enrollment may call 623-5251. Ext. 317, weekdays.

When school starts, children will be taught self-concept, language, pre-reading skills, beginning match concepts and social development. They will develop an increased attention span and independence as well as large and small muscle control. They will learn coordination, basic concept of formation and they will go on field trips.

Each day they will have snacks and lunch.

"Research during the last 10 years has shown that the years before the fifth birthday are peak years for building self-confidence and teaching basic thinking and language skills," said Mrs. Sneed.

"If a child has a positive self-image, he will have the confidence he needs to solve problems, cope with his environment and learn needed skills for living.

"The Pomona preschool project is a program designed by the district to develop the child's self-image. Another major concern of the program is to start the education process by improving the child's senses (seeing, hearing, touching, smelling and tasting), improving language skills and developing concept formation and problem-solving techniques."

Parent participation is a vital part of the preschool program, Mrs. Sneed said. Parents work in the classroom one day every two weeks. They help children develop creativity, learn self-help skills, gain independence and develop social consideration for others, she explained.

The preschool program started in Pomona's public schools in January of 1973.

S.D. budget: $2,484,840

SAN DIMAS — The City Council gave municipal employes an eight per cent cost-of-living raise Monday night as part of approval of the $2,484,840 budget.

Salary increases will represent a $38,000 amount in the budget. Councilmen discussed salary increases at an executive session following a discussion of other budget items.

The budget, $400,000 higher than last year's, will call for a six-cent increase per $100 of assessed valuation in the lighting fund for most parts of the city because of an increase in rates by Southern California Edison Co. The rate will be increased from 30 cents to 45 cents.

The general tax rate will remain at 75 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Councilmen spent a good portion of the special budget session discussing whether the city should allocate funds to help the Shooting Stars Drill Team to pay for transportation to Expo '74 in Spokane, Wash. The recreation department-sponsored drill team is to appear there Sept. 2.

According to Bryce Bailey, director of parks and recreation, the drill team had estimated that the round trip to Seattle would cost $9,000, but because of increases in air fare rates, costs have now escalated to $11,000.

The City Council has already signed a $3,000 loan to purchase a car that the drill team is using to raise funds for the trip. But, Bailey explained, the organization has thus far raised a total of $3,330, leaving a net amount raised of $330.

The City Council finally agreed to commit the city to spend $2,500 to help with the venture, but City Councilman Marvin Ersher said he felt a policy should be established to prevent the city from getting into similar situations in the future.

Bailey said in addition to selling tickets for the car, members also plan a dance and other fund-raising projects. He said they still have several months to sell tickets for the car.

Councilman Ray Miracle said it is a complex problem but he said the trip was "city initiated." He said he has doubts about using taxpayers' dollars to benefit a few people. The 65-member drill team has members from La Verne, Covina and Glendora.

"We're establishing something we could be criticized for," Miracle said. But he added that he supports helping the group get to Spokane. He suggested that the city match funds raised by the organization but the council instead went along with Mayor Jim Lough's recommendation to commit the city to the $2,500 amount.

Lough invited all members of the council to attend a meeting Monday at 7 p.m. with parents of the drill team members to discuss the problem.

Vice Mayor Keith Brogan said he doesn't care how much controversy the issue raises—he supports giving financial assistance to the team.

In other action the council voted to give $5,000 to the La Verne-San Dimas Open Door, $575 to the San Dimas Jaycees and $1,750 to the Chamber of Commerce.

The council will meet tonight at 7:30 in special session with members of the Planning Commission to discuss the proposed hillside development ordinance.

Claremont teachers given 7% raises effective July 1

CLAREMONT — The school board Monday night granted salary raises of seven per cent to teachers, those in supporting services, and administrators, and salary hikes of 7.3 per cent to classified employes and classified supervisors effective July 1.

Dr. R. S. Kirkendall explained that the teachers' raise was the result of a joint proposal between himself and the Certificated Employe Council.

He noted that the masters degree requirement for column V on the salary schedule had been eliminated, and that the new salary schedule is seven per cent higher than the one presently in effect.

He explained that movement on the schedule either by step or column represents an additional average increase of 3.3 per cent, and that should the district pay the increased premium for present health group insurance plans amounting to .5 per cent of the average salary, the total increased cost to the district for each teacher could approximate 10.8 per cent. Beginning teachers will start at $8,710 instead of the present $8,141.

Those in certificated supportive services, such as nurses and psychologists also gained a seven per cent hike, with a beginning salary at $850 a month.

Kirkendall explained that the proposed schedule for classified employes represents a 7.3 per cent increase over the schedule now in effect, and that the present schedule is about .3 per cent lower than the teachers salary schedule when the two are compared with medians of those schedules for the 13 East San Gabriel Valley school districts.

Kirkendall said that movement on the new schedule represents and additional increase of 2.5 per cent, and that the increased group health insurance premium would amount to about one per cent of the average classified slary. The total increased cost to the district for each classified employe would amount to about 10.8 per cent.

Kirkendall said that the CEC independently had proposed the addition of anniversary steps to the schedule and the adoption of a salary adjustment clause, but the board acted only on the joint proposal.

Board member Robert Stafford emphasized that the salary increases are "one-shot type of thing," because they represent the use of $470,000 of district reserve funds, and that the district's expenditures will be $470,000 more than its income for 1974-75.

He warned that next year the district is going to have to face some dramatic cuts in the education program that can be offered by the district.

Noting that the district has one of the lowest pupil-teacher ratios, Stafford cautioned that the cuts will come in that area.

"It's a fact of life under Senate Bill 90," he said, and added that salaries account for 85 per cent of the district's expenses.

Board member Arthur Steffen warned that SB 90 doesn't represent equal funding for all districts. He said that some districts found themselves with windfalls.

"We found ourselves with losses because of SB 90," he said.

Whippet races will be held at fairgrounds

POMONA — The Southern California Whippet Association will hold a series of 200-yard whippet races on the infield at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds Saturday starting at noon.

The whippet, a specially bred racing dog which resembles the greyhound, runs at speeds close to 35 miles per hour and usually covers the 200-yard distances in about 11 seconds. Forty of these racing dogs from various parts of California will participate in the running this Saturday. Admission is free.

The whippet chases a mechancial lure called a "bunny," a piece of fur which excites the animal to run at full speed. Ribbons and trophies are the only rewards for race winners.

Weighing-in for the event will start at 10:30 a.m. The races will continue from noon until 5 p.m.

Commission to study condominium proposal

CLAREMONT — The H. B. W. Enterprises Inc. condominium project on the south side of Seventh Street at Yale Avenue will be back in the laps of the Planning Commission at 7:30 tonight.

The commission had tabled a request for a conditional use permit for the 18-unit project at its last meeting until the City Council could rule on an appeal by architect Rufus Turner of an Environmental Quality Board ruling that developer Harold Weiner must file an Environmental Impact Report on the development.

The council last Tuesday took the advice of City Atty. William Bergman and sustained Turner's appeal.

Bergman recalled that last July then-city planning director Sharon Hightower had ruled that Weiner did not need an EIR, and that no one appealed her decision.

The Planning Commission first came into contact with a Weiner proposal last July when he asked for a conditional use permit for 20 units on the same land as his latest proposal for 18 units. The commission didn't like the development and rejected it.

Weiner tried again in November for a CUP, but was turned down again by the commission. He appealed to the City Council, but was turned down.

Weiner sued the city in April.

Wright-Major Co. has requested that land on Foothill Boulevard east of Mills be rezoned from highway commercial to multiple-residential, and that it be granted a conditional use permit to convert 20 two-bedroom apartments into a 20-unit condominium project.

Carl Karcher Enterprises Inc. has requested a conditional use permit to allow construction of a restaurant with drive-through window on land on the south side of Foothill Boulevard next to Mountain View Elementary School.

The city staff has asked that the matter be tabled because the applicant has not filed an environmental exemption questionnaire and at least one letter has been received in protect of the development.

The land formerly was occupied by Caswell Trailer Sales for 10 years.

Also coming up for discussion by the commission is a request by Tony and Jean Alfano to operate a non-conforming prior-existing service station at 202 W. Foothill Blvd.

The city staff has recommended approval of a conditional use permit to allow alcoholic beverages at the Valley Racquet and Tennis Club, 840-844 S. Indian Hill Blvd.

Montclair considers regulation of political signs

MONTCLAIR — The City Council here began discussions Monday night to develop a stiffer ordinance to make political candidates more responsible for the scattering of political signs throughout this West End community.

The council agreed to set a public hearing for its next regular meeting on July 1 to consider a stricter ordinance regulating the posting of political signs. The recommendation came from the city staff, Community Action Committee and Planning Commission which have explored the "blight" that has been created by the abundance of such signs in the recently completed June primary.

The current ordinance calls for a $100 bond to be posted with the City of Montclair before any signs go up. It does not specify size, distance or time period for exhibit.

Mayor Pro-tem Ernest Rowley and Councilmen Tom McClure and Paul Jones all voiced ire about the recent election and signs that littered Montclair telephone poles and vacant gas stations, stores and lots.

"The great cry in politics this year seems to be integrity. I'm appalled at the lack of integrity by people who slap posters up and down our streets," protested McClure. He criticized candidates who campaigned on beautification and cleaning up the environment and yet created an ecological crisis with the proliferation of posters.

"There is no question in my mind that we need a stiffer ordinance in this town. I don't like seeing signs six months after the election. It's a blight on our town," said McClure.

Jones pointed out that the political signs were becoming more outlandish, citing the size of one which blocked a corner view and created a traffic hazard. He suggested that Montclair's sign regulation be included in literature for Congressional district candidates as well as local political information.

Rowley's suggestions were more detailed, and included changing the maximum width from the staff suggestion of six to eight feet; salvagable material from signs going to the city; allowing the present $100 bond to cover cleanup except for pasted or glued signs; establishing a minimum distance of 1,000 feet or five signs per mile per candidate; and finally, a time period for posting no sooner than the first of the month prior to the election month.

Mike Loehr, director of community development, reported that 10 candidates are currently in violation of the ordinance. At the request of McClure, he listed those candidates as Richard Brownell, Tony Piazza, Stan Tomlinson, Keith Shirey, Les Craven, Mary Montes, Henry Gerardo, Bob Stafford, George Kasem and Frank Cooper.

Loehr stated that these 10 will be billed for cleanup and if not responding, necessary legal action will be taken against them.

McClure commented that many claimed they were unaware of the ordinance, that "over zealous" campaign workers were responsible.

"Each candidate must take the ultimate responsibility for not complying with the law. Anyone's who's going to run for office better find out what the requirements are. The time has come in American politics when the candidate must take the responsibility for what his or her people do," stressed McClure.

Loehr stated that "some feel the law does not apply to them and they don't believe in it. The problem is not one of notification."

City Attorney Eugene Demchuk, who will work with staff in drafting a stiffer and enforceable ordinance, stated that the main problem he faces is proof of a violation in a court of law. The question is "Did the candidate have physical control of the posting of signs?" he said.

Their first 100 years the hardest

Members of the osteopathic profession, which observes its centenary this month might well say that the first 100 years were the hardest.

It was on June 22, 1874, that a frontier physician named Andrew Taylor Still presented what was then a radical concept to the medical profession. He proposed that rather than treat specific disease symptoms, doctors should learn more about the interdependence of the body's systems, particularly the musculoskeletal system, and minister to the whole body. He was summarily dismissed from his position at Baker University in Baldwin, Kansas.

But although the medical establishment rejected him as a "cultist," individual physicians began adopting his techniques. By 1892, Dr. Still had founded his own medical school and was awarding Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine — D.O. —degrees.

Only in recent years, however, have osteopaths achieved full acceptance in the medical community. One of the last holdouts was the military services, which refused to draft D.O.s as physicians in World War II. Osteopaths are now given full recognition under all federal programs.

There are seven colleges of osteopathic medicine in the United States today, and while osteopaths comprise only five per cent of the nation's doctors, they care for 10 percent of the population. This is because of osteopathic medicine's traditional emphasis on general practice. More than 75 per cent of all D.O.s are in general practice; approximately the same percentage of practicing M.D.s are in some specialty area.

Osteopathic physicians are licensed to practice in all 50 states. In many instances, D.O.s and M.D.s are examined by the same state licensing boards. The educational requirements and training of the two professions are virtually the same, but with osteopaths having the added dimension of training in disorders of the musculoskeletal system and in manipulative therapy.

Today, there are more similarities than differences between D.O.s and M.D.s. In fact, it is now official policy of the American Medical Association to assimilate osteopathic physicians into the M.D. mainstream.

Many D.O.s, fiercely proud of their separateness, are resisting this new "ecumenism," though — after 100 years — they welcome cordial relations with M.D.s.

And now, liquor lib!

Along with everything else they established in 1787, the Founding Fathers made a "common market" out of the United States. The "Commerce Clause" was intentionally inserted into the Constitution to remove trade barriers between the states, which had been one of the principal grievances of the former colonies.

Prior to Prohibition, the Supreme Court ruled that intoxicating liquor was a legitimate subject of commerce, "as much so as cabbages and candlesticks." Since the repeal of Prohibition in 1933, however, court opinion has held that the 21st Amendment (Repeal) overrides all other constitutional provisions and permits individual states complete latitude in the area of liquor control, including the right to discriminate against wine produced in another state.

The result has been a pattern of "balkinization" in state liquor laws, especially in regard to wines.

A bill currently before Congress — H.R. 2096 — would give alcoholic beverages the protection they were once guaranteed under the Constitution. The bill has been passed by a substantial majority in the House of Representatives and is now awaiting action in the Senate.

The only right that would be denied to an individual state would be the "right" to discriminate the wines of any one area in favor of the wines from any other area. It could not force a retailer, whether a state-operated store or a private licensee, to buy or to refrain from buying any wines offered for sale by suppliers, nor would it interfere with a state's adoption of local option laws.

H.R. 2096 would, in short, remove a shadow that has hovered over the legal status of alcoholic beverages for some 40 years.

Thoughts for today

But be doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving yourselves. For if any one is a hearer of the word and not a doer, he is like a man who observes his natural face in a mirror.—James 1:22,23. 1:22,23.

Kissinger--the man behind the mask

WASHINGTON — Henry Kissinger's startling outburst in Salzburg, Austria, where he responded to wiretap charges with a show of hurt and anger, gave the world a glimpse behind his diplomatic mask.

For the Secretary of State is not always the charming, witty man of the world who embraces his enemies and achieves the impossible peace. Those who know him have discovered under the suave exterior a petulant man, a restless friend and a resourceful enemy.

Perhaps the State Department superstar should be reduced to human dimensions. He spends most of his time in the pressure cooker. When his nerves are ragged, Kissinger's face reddens, his German accent thickens, and the expletives fly like shrapnel. The purple profanity is audible evidence that his American education was shaped in the Army's enlisted barracks as well as Harvard.

During his rages, he has hurled objects, sometimes at his underlings. One former aide recalls ducking a book that came flying across the room. Another said he never saw Kissinger throw anything heavier than a pad of paper at a staff member.

His temper, however, is an uncertain Vesuvius. More often, he is soft-spoken. He avoids confrontations, prefers to communicate with his staff through memos.

Those who have labored for him described him as brilliant if domineering. It took all his diplomatic skills and manipulative talents to produce the Syrian-Israeli truce. For 34 days, he shuttled between Damascus and Jerusalem.

He kept up intensive, daily negotiations, providing exactly the right combination of firmness and friendliness. Many times, the negotiations came close to a blow-up. But the Kissinger magic prevailed.

He expected to come home to a hero's welcome. Instead, he was asked questions about his role in a White House wiretap operation. Suddenly in Salzburg, he trembled with a wrath he could no longer hold back. And for the first time, the world saw a Kissinger only a few intimates had known.

THE PRIVATE HENRY: Before Henry Kissinger stepped upon the world stage, he became fascinated with the life and style of another German refugee: Prince Klemens Wenzel Nepomuk Lothar von Metternich. The prince was the architect of the Balance of Power system and a central figure in the Austrian government in the first half of the 19th century.

Metternich was also a dashing figure in Vienna in the bygone days when diplomats wore sashes and cavorted to the gay waltzes of string bands. He was as interested in the bedchambers as he was in the council chambers.

The frumpish, owlish Kissinger was an unlikely Metternich. But what he lacked in dash and savoir-faire, apparently he made up in quiet, engaging charm. He made a splash at Washington parties where, invariably, he had an attractive woman on his arm or conspired to sit next to the prettiest woman.

His marriage to the statuesque Nancy Maginnes has ended his career as a swinger. But he still looks after the amours of his honored guests. On June 8, for example, he attended a party at the Saudi Arabian embassy where visiting Prince Fahd Ibn Saud took a fancy to White House press secretary Ron Ziegler's beautiful, buxom aide, Mimi Hartford.

A PASS AND A PASSPORT: At the Prince's invitation, Miss Hartford squeezed into the Prince's chair, sitting between him and Kissinger while they talked of oil and power. As the evening wore on, the Prince graciously invited her to accompany him to London. She coyly demurred, saying she had no passport.

It was 4:30 a.m. before Miss Hartman got to bed that night. She had been asleep for only three hours when there was a loud banging on her door. She opened it to find a State Department messenger, bringing her a passport.

In Richard Nixon, Kissinger found a President who appreciated his skills. For foreign policy, despite the distractions of Watergate, is still Nixon's favorite game. It was also the love of the game, not any admiration for Nixon, that brought Kissinger to the White House.

"I had never met him when he offered me this job," recalls Kissinger. "I was astonished. After all, he was acquainted with the unfriendly and unsympathetic attitude I had always assumed towards him."

POWER BEGAT POWER: But Kissinger understood that the President was the source of political power. Drawing from this source, Kissinger gathered power to himself. As a recognized expert on foreign affairs, he was able to capture Nixon's attention from the beginning.

By dint of long hours and deep thinking and demanding staff work, Kissinger came up with a strategy for every crisis. He presented Nixon with a penetrating, two-inch-thick review of the Vietnam War, for example, within a few days after the new President moved into the White House.

The two men drew close together. "I like the President," says Kissinger. "I agree with him. We've gone through all this . . . like two men in a foxhole . . . It's almost irrelevant whether we like each other. It's like asking me whether I like my arm. We have no disagreement over anything central or basic. No disagreement over policy. We're too close for that."

Footnote: My associate George Clifford spoke to Miss Hartman, who confirmed the incident of the fast passport. She did not, however, go to London but said she will join the Prince in Paris if she can get time off from the White House.

No fair trial for President Nixon

If it were anybody else on trial no newspaper would lead a clamor for conviction — as in this case.

No juror would prejudice the accused guilty — as in this case.

Any such prejudicial interference with the cause of justice would call for an immediate mistrial.

But for Richard M. Nixon, on trial for "his life," there is no possibility of an unprejudiced jury, there can be no mistrial, and this jury's verdict is final.

Jack Barlow once said, "A leader can never be sure whether that crowd behind is following him or chasing him." They'll shout "Hosannah" on Sunday and "Crucify him!" by Friday.

You ask: "Paul Harvey, why haven't you come out for or against impeachment?" Well, let's see if you would really want me to.

Should I say he has done nothing impeachable, you would be entitled to say, "How dare you, Paul Harvey, presume to decide a question on which esteemed constitutional lawyers cannot agree!" And you'd be quite right.

Or if I should join the chorus for either impeachment or resignation—with his jury listening—then would not I be obstructing justice? Yet isn't that what certain big-city newspapers have done?

I have off-and-on complimented and criticized this Administration for specific acts, but I am not prepared, as some apparently are, to drop on the person of this President the political A-bomb of press-pressured impeachment.

And dare we demand his resignation just because the crowd is being turned against him — when it's at least possible the crowd is misled?

If you read my column regularly, you know that I have accused the New York-based news media of turning the Watergate expose into a vendetta.

I have expressed disappointment to discover, from what evidence we have seen, that this President is less decisive and his language sometimes less circumspect than one might have preferred.

But criticizing specifics is one thing—and is the proper province of professional observers — and jury tampering is something else again.

The word "Watergate" has become an adjective describing the excesses of overly zealous men who abandoned scruples in the accomplishment of what they thought to be a worthy objective.

News writers willing to sell out the system for a quick kill are as intemperate in their misuses of power and privileges and are, assuredly as did the White House palace guard, asking someday to have their own wings clipped.

As others see it . . . . . . letters

Reason, not innuendos

I am disgusted with the Paul Harvey column of June 11 published in the Progress-Bulletin. (Editor's Note: In that column Paul Harvey called members of the Symbionese Liberation Army "a handful of punks.")

We hear a lot of complaints against the reporters of the news media. The job of the reporter is plain and simple — to report the facts. The moment a reporter reports false facts he should lose his job.

I am all for freedom of expression in the news media as long as it is done in good taste. Very frankly, Mr. Harvey lost my respect when he indulged in name calling. Name calling is a type of prejudice. It is the job of the reporter to report the facts without prejudice. Name calling is a means to influence others.

I feel the reporter should report the facts and not try to unduly influence his readers. I am all for a reporter trying to reason with his readers as long as it is done in good taste and with intelligent reason.

Mr. Harvey, by name calling, is setting himself up as judge and jury. Innuendos can be evil. I would respect Mr. Harvey if he used reason rather than innuendos. — Arthur N. James, Pomona.

Woman had Buick agency

I noticed the article by United Press International on "Another male field (auto dealers) is making way for women" in the Sunday, June 2 edition of the Progress-Bulletin.

Just thought you would like to know that in Durand, Mich. in 1914, sixty years ago, the Buick agency had a saleslady. This agency was known as the Fred Brown and daughter agency. Mr. Brown died shortly after taking the agency and it then became the Edna L. Brown & Company agency.

She also sold player pianos and commercial organs which were sold for restaurants, soda fountains and the like.

Miss Brown was a very good friend of mine and had the Buick agency for many years. She was considered an excellent sales person. She also had a rental agency for cars for afternoons or weekends. — Mrs. C. E. Sanford, Pomona.

Gossip for today

After totaling up the astronomical number of giveaway programs on television these days I can come to only one logical conclusion: The time has definitely arrived to up-date one of the more popular old sayings. Instead of, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," it should no read; "All play and no work makes jack for the bright boy," — And, lest I be accused of sex discrimination, for the bright gal as well.

★ ★ ★

And speaking of work, or the absence of it, one reader of this column contends that retirement is not such a big deal for those folks who are now in their seventies and eighties. His reasoning is that folks in those age brackets had to work such long hours in their earlier years — eight and ten hours a day six days a week until they were forced to retire — that they never had a chance of learn how to play.

Kissinger: cool look at overheated issue

"Why are you trying to destroy your government?"

That question was put to me by overseas telephone recently by a wise and immensely informed European. The question related to what the speaker saw as a concerted press and political attempt to nail President Nixon for the Watergate crimes and coverup.

That question is being asked today with increased emphasis in the context of what seems to be an attempt to gun down Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in the midst of his efforts to defuse the Middle East and achieve meaningful detente with Russia.

To this observer in the nation's capital, who has spent a lifetime in highly competitive journalism, the hunt for Kissinger's scalp by some members of the press is an irresponsibility bordering on insanity considering the catastrophic risk involved in Kissinger failure.

The distinguished liberal columnist, Marquis Childs, condemns these elements as follows:

"The assumption of some reporter-commentators who direct their fire at Kissinger is that diplomacy should be treated like a police beat. You score if you get the bad guys and you better believe there aren't any good guys."

Childs, like others with whom I have discussed this crisis of press responsibility, believes some journalists are guilty of "dangerous distortion" of their function.

Any close student of present-day trends in reporting sees clear evidence of a struggle within the field. A large number of men and women are coming into news reporting seeing it as an opportunity to attack what they regard as evil and to "improve" society, in their opinion, by turning out the rascals. The impartiality of yesterday's generation of reporters which we labeled "objectivity" is hooted as dated dictum.

There is a covert alliance between these young hotheads of the newsroom and the junior aides, lawyers of congressional committees, offices of prosecutors and government departments. This was acknowledged by two reporters who were awarded the Pulitzer Prize for their Watergate disclosures, Woodward and Bernstein, who told of receiving their invaluable leaks from an official source to whom they gave the nauseous title, "Deep Throat." Even the traditional sanctity of the grand jury chamber has been violated in this pursuit of subjective scoops.

Now it is Henry Kissinger at the pinnacle of his Mideast success, who is forced to flee the journalistic wolf pack. Almost alone in Washington it had seemed he was immune to the poisonous atmosphere that had emptied whole suites of offices in the White House.

One can only deplore Kissinger's ill-timed threat to resign, delivered in Salzburg, Austria, in the midst of his trip with President Nixon to consolidate the Middle East cease-fire.

Time will tell whether the secretary, in the context of agonizing leaks involving national security in 1969, actually ordered wiretaps on subordinates or, as he had testified before Congress, merely assisted an investigation he welcomed.

A very wise former diplomat (who by coincidence received his early grounding as a great newspaper correspondent) believes that whatever Kissinger's role the event was completely subordinate to the importance of his present role, a role upon which the fate of us all well may hang.

He sees us as thrall to a national mood to "put down our heroes." He believes there are some now in government or recently in it so jealous of Kissinger's success that the leaks to the press which blew this situation into another "scandal" might actually have emanated from the Nixon entourage.

As a close observer of Kissinger at work, this individual ardently wishes he had kept his cool in Austria, hard as it might be for the secretary to do so given his extreme press provocation and the incredible strain under which he must be operating.

His advice to both Kissinger and the press is: "For God's sake — and the nation's — cool it!"

Embers whipped by wind start two Ontario fires

ONTARIO — Hot embers whipped into the air by gusty winds caused separate fires at 516 E. Princeton Ave. and 522 E. Princeton Ave., Sunday and resulted in $4,175 damage.

Ontario firemen reported that gusty winds picked up not embers from a smouldering barbecue ash fire in a compost pile behind 506 E. Princeton Ave. and blew them onto the roof of a garage at 516 E. Princeton Ave. and the roof of a house at 522 E. Princeton Ave.

The first fire was reported by Neil McMullin who noticed that the roof of his garage was on fire. Minutes later Phillip Sawyer of 522 E. Princeton reported the roof of his house was on fire. When firemen arrived minutes later they quickly extinguished the garage roof fire at McMullin's residence, but had some difficulty in containing the fire on Sawyer's wooden shake roof. A short time later firemen managed to contain the fire that caused more than $4,150 damage to the Sawyer home.

Damage to the McMullin garage was estimated at $25.

Firemen later learned that the fire originated behind the home of Tom Graber at 506 E. Princeton.

'Mr. Pennypacker'

Comedy offers fun, thought

By HERBERT HOSKINS

ONTARIO — Gallery Theater's production of Liam O'Brien's comedy, "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker," offers that increasingly rare family entertainment whose humor both delights and provokes some independent thought.

Clarence Darrow and Bernard Shaw would have welcomed the free-thinking Mr. Pennypacker, a father with many lovable and loving children and a breadwinner with the courage of his convictions. As ably performed by C. T. Wiseman, who captures the father's warmth of personality and self-reliance, he was obviously winning the hearts of the audience, who were oblivious of their age gaps from 6 to 66, for this life with a father remarkably full of life.

The generations of the huge Pennypacker family, from Grandpa, whose eccentric individualism John Nichols establishes with assurance, down to the winsome youngest son, John Caldwell invite the audience to muse, while the play's single complication is being resolved, whether they have been saved by or conned by some conventions.

Susan Place is charming and attractive as Laurie, playing opposite Tyler Learned, who was very cooly pinch-hitting as a last-minute replacement for the not-to-be-denied suitor. Adele Place is a convincingly strained but resourceful mother, and Gail Jones both prim and warm-hearted as Aunt Jane. Janet Cullen, the lithe and graceful dancer-to-be, and the stalwart oldest son played by Steve Breithaupt are particularly notable among the many children, with Rick Sampson, Warren C. Collins, Sheila Sheridan, and Shelly Sheridan, and Dale Stevens Jr. thoroughly engaging and natural in smaller roles. Dwight Larick hits the right chord of moral outrage as Dr. Fifield and Ron McCorkingdale enlivens two bit parts with some distinctive character touches.

Mark Shipley, the director, keeps the mood light and the pace fast. He and his staff deserve credit, too, for tasteful and accurate period design in the single set and a particularly ingenious use of the Gallery facilities to suggest the illusion of an ample Victorian home.

Black films, actors now maturing

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Black pictures have matured. Witness some of the fine recent and coming films, such as "Five on the Black Hand Side" and "Claudine." And, simultaneously, black actors are maturing, too.

"I'll do no more black exploitational films," says Yaphet Kotto. "They're OK if you're hungry or just starting out but I'm doing OK and I'm not a kid. I'm an actor."

He said it with pride. He's an actor and recognized as such now. There was a time when he would do anything — almost anything — to get a start, to make a few bucks, to feed his family. But now he's an actor, proud of his talent and his craft — and he's being choosy.

His biggest recent credit was the James Bond film, "Live and Let Die." He did "Truck Turner," with Isaac Hayes. Coming up is "The Treasure," with Cornel Wilde. Then he goes into the big one, "Report on the Commissioner."

He says he'll do one more film after that and then stop.

"I want a rest," he says. "I've been going like blazes for seven, no, nine years. I deserve a rest. I've made enough bread in the last two, three years to cool it for six months."

He says he'll just forget the whole Hollywood scene for a while. He'll do other things, play some basketball, do some running, go to New York.

"People in this town will talk movies 24 hours a day if you let them," he says. "Even weekends are consumed by this business. I've got to get out."

He says he never realized the importance of movies outside California. Here, where movies are the backyard industry, nobody gives actors much of a tumble.

"But I went to New York," he says, "and everybody was stopping me for my autograph. I went to a restaurant to get something to eat and they wouldn't give me a check. I said to myself, 'How long has this been going on?'

"But I adjusted to it quickly. I came back to Los Angeles and the people don't act the same way. Go into a restaurant here, baby, and you pay that check.

"That 'being famous' thing is a whole trip in itself."

I first met Yaphet Kotto in Mexico City when he was doing a bit in a Dean Martin picture, "Five Card Stud." He says that was a long time ago.

"I've been through a lot of emotional and mental changes since "Five Card Stud,' " he says. "I know where I am now, in 1974. At the time we first met, I couldn't see through the claptrap and the phoniness, the facade of the business. The material things and the associations used to be important to me.

"But, you see, there are those who make you think all that is important. I've grown up. I've wised up. I used to drink — not much — but I gave it all up. That's the opening card in many cases. It comes with growing and I've grown."

He never believed that what has happened to him — becoming a movie star — would happen. He thought he'd have to settle for a TV career. He didn't. He even turned down a series offer — $17,000 a week — to stick to his guns. He won. He's a movie star now.

TV networks promoting new shows

By FRANK S. SWERTOLOW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — It is midnight Monday and a group of weary journalists have begun to slip out of a penthouse suite and down the glittering corridors of the mammoth Century Plaza Hotel.

The newsmen are the remaining members of the American Broadcasting Company's fall television presentation. They have just had their last drink and hand shakes with ABC's executives.

In a few moments, many will prepare for sleep. Others will stop for a nightcap and a few will write the next day's television column.

For the past four days, these men and women have been exposed to ABC's fall television lineup. They have screened pilot films for next season's new shows. They have met the stars. And they have heard speeches from the network's decision makers.

This is the selling of a televisio season, an elaborate public relations effort that has gathered together 75 newsmen on the belief their comments will influence the public and the ratings.

Within a few hours, ABC's executives will have departed for New York and Los Angeles. CBS will then begin its presentation and NBC will follow on Friday.

All of this is serious business for the networks. It means millions of dollars in advertising fees —the top network demands more than the others.

There, of course, have been lighter moments to this presentation. The newsmen have been dined and wined liberally. They have played tennis and they have had their farewell party with ABC until January when they return for the second season's presentation.

What is ironic about these annual fall presentations is that many of the new stars may be dropped by the networks if their shows fail in the ratings.

DOWN ON THE FARM — Kenny Rogers and the First Edition will perform in the John Wayne Theater of Knott's Berry Farm at 6:30, 8:30 and 10:30 p.m. Sunday, and at 8 and 10:30 p.m. Monday through June 29. Knott's Wild Animal Follies is staged in the theater at 1 and 3 p.m. daily. The Buena Park amusement center opens at 9 a.m. daily.

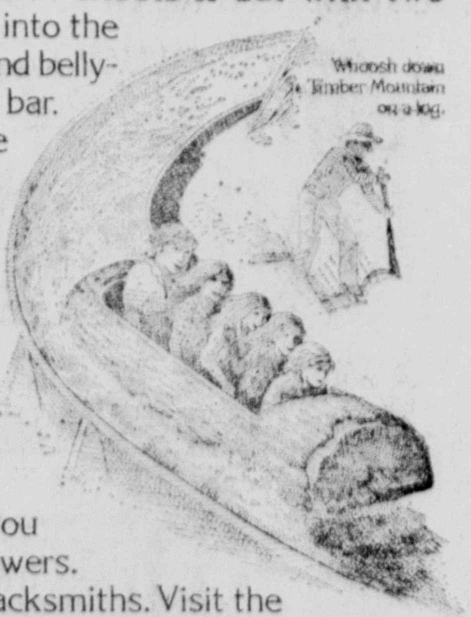
Spend a wild day in the west. At Knott's.

Wild and wooly and full of fun. That's Knott's Berry Farm in Buena Park. The rip-roarin' wild west brought back to life for the whole family to enjoy.

You walk the streets of ghost town. Gunshots! The sheriff shoots it out with two badmen. Duck into the Calico Saloon and belly-up to an 1880's bar.



Whoosh down Timber Mountain on a log.

Back into the streets. A pretty girl plays a steam calliope. A barker hustles you into the Birdcage Theater for an old time melodrama. Later, you watch glassblowers. Gunsmiths. Blacksmiths. Visit the livery stable. Candy store. General store...with its pot-bellied stove and old time merchandise.

The wildest rides in the west.

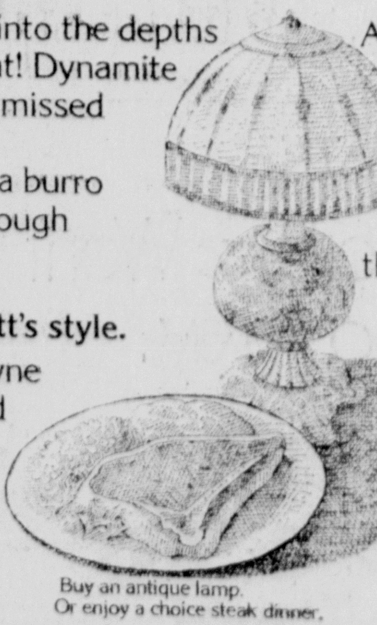
Thrill to Wild Animal Follies.

Clamber aboard an old stagecoach. "Reach for the sky." It's a hold-up! Over to Timber Mountain. Ride a log through sawmills and logging camps. Woosh...you're plummeting down a mountainside. Next minute you're aboard a small train, clattering and creaking your way into the depths of a gold mine. Look out! Dynamite blasting...and you just missed being trapped!

You take the kids for a burro ride...clip-clopping through yesteryear.

Entertainment Knott's style.

Over to the John Wayne Theater for Knott's Wild Animal Follies. Watch a man wrestle a 500 lb. bear. And a pretty girl cuddle a lion.



Buy an antique lamp.
Or enjoy a choice steak dinner.

Fiesta Village is next. Mariachis playing. Dancers whirling around the plaza. Teeming shops and cantinas. Then to Gypsy Camp to see Zoltan's Gypsy Puppets. Or back to the Knott's John Wayne Theater to catch the Lennon Sisters, Flash Cadillac, Rick Nelson or another headline act.

Dusk. Amble over to the covered wagon camp. Country music around the campfire. Minutes later, Knott's Incredible Fireworks Machine blazes into action.

Enjoy turn-of-the-century nickelodians.

Dinner time. A big, old-fashioned chicken dinner at Mrs. Knott's restaurant. Or a sizzling steak. Or maybe just hot pretzels and boysenberry juice from a street vendor.

A full day...and just enough time to pick some unusual gifts at one of Knott's stores. A sunbonnet or home-made pickles. A turn-of-the-century toy, or an antique lamp. Finally, you hop a genuine San Francisco cable car for a ride to the parking lot. It's been a wild day...full of fun. You haven't seen everything. You haven't done everything. But, then, there's always another day.

Channel 5

Bushman to be telecast

LOS ANGELES — "Bushman," a film of the life of Canadian Tommy Tompkins, naturalist, explorer, conservationist and photographer, will be aired on Channel 5 at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

"Bushman" is the story of how a man lives alone in the wilderness with animals as his only friends.

A former Vancouver, B.C., policeman, Tompkins left the force after 10 years to return to his first love, the rugged lands of the Yukon and Northwest Territories of Canada.

Tompkins walks the mountains and valleys of the Canadian wilderness alone with a few supplies on his back and a rifle for protection, always carrying a 16mm movie camera. "Bushman" tells how he searches for and follows herds of mountain sheep, goats, elk, and an occasional grizzly bear. He lives with animals until they accept him. Tompkins never has to use a telescopic lens on his camera, for he is able to come within touching distance of his subjects.

Much of Tompkins' own footage will be used for the documentary. In addition, Tompkins provides his own narration.

Bushman will be followed at 9 p.m. by another wildlife program, "Death of a Legend," which tells of the near-extinction of the Canadian wolf due to man's fears and superstitiions. "Death of a Legend" makes the case that the wolf has a necessary part to play in the balance of nature and should be protected.

Treasury bills versus notes

By ROGER SPEAR

Q — What are the differences between U.S. Treasury Bills and Notes? How may they be purchased? Is the interest subject to federal and state taxes? What about safekeeping of these securities? — J. K.

A — The major points of difference between bills and notes concern the length of the respective lives, minimum denominations, form in which they are issued, the frequency with which they are offered and the method of distributing interest. T-Bills are issued only in bearer form for terms of three, six or 12 months. Notes may be bought either in registered or bearer form with maturities of one to seven years. While notes are sold in minimum denominations of $1,000, T-Bills have a $10,000 minimum. The Traasury sells at weekly auctions, three and six-month bills, and at monthly auctions, 12-month bills.

Notes are generally offered in the Treasury's quartrely refunding operation. Interest on the latter security is paid semiannually, but is refunded upon purchase of a Treasury Bill. In other words, shortly after buying a $10,000, 12-month T-Bill you would receive a check for $850 on an issue discounted 8½ per cent.

Both types of securities may be purchased new through a Federal Reserve Bank without commission. Pre-existing issues are bought through a brokerage firm or commercial bank for a fee. Information on the method to follow in submitting a tender offer on bills and notes is available from a Federal Reserve Bank. In your area, you would write to The Federal Reserve Bank of New York, 33 Liberty Street, NY, NY 10045.

Interest on government issues is subject to federal, but not state income tax. They are also subject to both federal and state gift, inheritance, estate, capital gains and excise taxes. T-Bills and bearer-form notes should be safeguarded carefully, as they may be redeemed without your signature. Although registered securities may be negotiated only with the owner's written assignment after his signature has been certified by an officer of a commercial bank or trust company, it is wise to keep all securities in a safe deposit box.

Women coaches to get equal pay

By JON MORRIS
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — Women's lib has come to the Walnut School District.

Girls' athletic coaches will receive wages equal to male coaches for equal work next year, thanks to school board action Monday night.

After a recommendation from Schools Supt. David Brown, trustee moved to add girls' athletic positions at Walnut High School to the same salary schedule as the men, effective July 1.

Cost to the district for the changes is $2,298.

Eight positions are involved, including coaches for girls' varsity tennis, basketball, badminton, volleyball and softball, and junior varsity basketball, volleyball and softball.

Salries for the women will range from $322 for the junior varsity coaches to $419 and $516 for varsity coaches per year.

The total pay last year for all eight coaching jobs was $1,100, compared to the projected 1974-75 pay of $3,352.

Brown said the proposed changes have been under discussion among administrators and members of the girls' physical education staff at the high school for some time.

Although the item has been a hot one in at least one neighboring school district, Brown indicated it was quietly resolved here.

"As you know, girls' athletics are now under CIF rules, and part of the regular high school program," he told the board. He added that one of many changes now necessary involves salaries.

"Girl coaches are entitled to the same pay as men if they work the same hours after school and relate equally in other areas," Brown affirmed. "The changes we've proposed will bring equity."

Legal action has been taken by a woman coach at Wilson High School against the Hacienda-La Puente School District. She is seeking equal pay for coaching jobs comparable to men's positions.

In other action Monday night, trustees:

—Granted a 6 per cent salary increase, costing $21,000, to all district administrators, including the superintendent, two assistant superintendents, personnel director, principals and assistant principals. Salary range on the new administrative-management schedule now will be from $18,125 for a beginnger to $32,650 for an administrator with five years' district experience.

—Rejected a resolution proposed by the superintendent to urge the U.S. Congress to go off daylight savings time next winter. A motion to approve it died for lack of a second. Complaints from schools were common last winter about daylight savings because students had to travel to school during dark morning hours.

Wall Street Briefs

NEW YORK (UPI) — "We have reached a point where equities are suffering more from being ignored than from being liquidated," says W.E. Hutton & Co. Although bad news has lost its impact on the market, investors are overloojing the positives such as prospects for higher dividends and an easing of basic commodity prices, the firm continues. "This is the time to put trading money to work rather than to withdraw it," the firm adds. "Present market troubles stem more from lack of demand than urgent liquidation."

---

"There is no problem finding stocks at new lows," says Fraser Management Associates. "The problem is in finding money to go into stocks." The Burlington, Vt., firm says the market is filled with values, but the challenge lies in determining what specific stocks should be bought. "Disaster news no longer affects general market levels while bearishness is too popular," it notes. The firm urges investors to buy carefully now.

---

The Dow Jones Industrial Average will test or slip below its December low of 788, predicts Wood's Index, a Philadelphia firm. "The low volume of the past several days suggests that the decline will be slow rather than sharp," according to the firm. Psychology is the major factor depressing the market,it adds, and until investor attitudes brighten, the market trend will remain the same despite the number of undervalued stocks.

ALPHA BETA MARKETS LEAD IN CHEESE SALES

For the past three years Alpha Beta Company has been the leading account in the United States for the number of pounds of cheese bought from Wisconsin in relationship to its number of retail units.

"For the fiscal 1973—'74 we sold in our Southern and Northern California divisions combined almost $9 million of bulk Alpha Beta cheeses," commented Larry Geller, Alph Beta's Delicatessen-Creamery Merchandiser. "This figure came from the sale of our seven, random weight cheeses: Longhorn, Sharp, Mild, Extra Sharp, Monterey Jack, Swiss, Tillamook, almost 100,000 pounds of cheese moved each week."

Of the seven cheeses, Longhorn, Monterey Jack and Mild account for 65 percent of total cheese sales. "The strength of our cheese program," added Geller, "comes from the fact that we buy continually from the same suppliers, and we buy only cheeses produced in Wisconsin; notably the finest cheese produced in the U.S.

"We also dramatically increase cheese sales through our yearly cheese contest which is held during October. Last year we were the first food chain in the United States to ever sell in excess of one million pounds of cheese in a four-week period. This October, with our Northern California stores participating for the first time, we're going to shoot for two mllion pounds of cheese sold."

Frazier looks forward to Foreman

NEW YORK (UPI) — But what chance will Joe Frazier have against George Foreman?

The exultant Frazier destroyed what was supposed to be a new Jerry Quarry Monday night when referee Joe Louis finally called a halt at 1:37 of the fifth round, and Joe, saying "I'm back to bein' Smokin' Joe again," is looking forward to a return shot at the heavyweight championship of the world.

Foreman is giving Muhammad Ali that shot first, in September in Africa, and the champion who humiliated Frazier in taking his title, is already a solid choice over Ali.

Yet Ali whipped Frazier in January, and the Frazier who left Quarry's face a patchwork quilt of 18 stitches cannot hope to find Foreman the deadgame, always willing "old" Quarry who faced him before 14,611 screeching fans in Madison Square Garden.

From the opening bell, Frazier followed the path he has always taken—straight at his man, firing the lefts, and now, with a sitting target in front of him, following with ripping rights—one of the last of which tore open the flesh above Jerry's left eye so badly that it took 15 stitches to close.

Louis, 60-years-old and looking it, allowed Quarry and Frazier to fight as they pleased. In the opening round, for example, Quarry belted Joe in the groin accidentally, and Frazier stepped back, holding the cup. Louis didn't move or warn, but Quarry held off, despite the screams of his handler, Gil Clancy to "go after him, go after him!"

There was no damage done, however, and in the second Frazier's slashing fists opened a slight cut over the right eye, which bloomed into a three-stitch gash by the time the carnage was over.

"Haven't you learned a damn thing?" Clancy roared at Quarry at the end of the third, after Frazier had continued to swarm all over Jerry, who had fallen once again into the old style of trying to punch it out against a man 14 pounds heavier and the same man who had so soundly whipped him in seven rounds for doing exactly that five years ago.

Quarry hadn't learned, and at the two-minute mark of the fourth, Frazier landed a wicked smash to the head that set him reeling. Eager for the kill, Frazier chased him wildly, caught him in the corner and smashed a tremendous left to the midsection at the bell, sending Quarry down. With help, Jerry was up at five, but scarcely in condition to continue.

But he tried, and as the fifth began, Frazier set out to finish the job. He did it so thoroughly that he called to Louis "this man is cut bad. What are you going to do?"

By this time, Clancy himself had clambered to the apron, yelling at Louis to stop it. And Louis got the message at last.

"I didn't want to hit him in the face again," Frazier said. "I don't like to hit a man when I see he's in big trouble."

In the emotion-charged Quarry dressing room, the 29-year-old, badly-beaten Jerry and his wife Charlie cried in each other's arms. "I'm not sure I can make it back," Quarry said. "I'll have to go home and talk about it."

Frazier, unmarked, came in and with quiet dignity offered his hand and Quarry, for the first time since he had sagged on the bench, rose and shook it.

"I'm back on the road to the title," Frazier smiled as he climbed into the limousine to go to his victory party.

Foster says Ahumada best he has beaten

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI) — Bob Foster says Argentinian Jorge Ahumada is the best light-heavyweight fighter he's faced in 15 years. Ahumada is also the only boxer in that division that Foster hasn't been able to beat.

That combination almost cost Foster his world's light-heavyweight crown before a hometown crowd Monday night as the two battled to a draw in a title match.

"He is the toughest light-heavyweight I've fought in 15 years," Foster said. But Foster also said Ahumada didn't hurt him because "he can't punch. He's just not a puncher."

Foster, who was making his 14th title defense since winning the title six years ago, felt he had the edge necessary for victory. Ahumada, the 28-year-old challenger from Mendoza, Argentina, understandably felt the decision should have been his.

"I knew it was a close fight, but I thought I had it won," said the champion. "I felt the 12th round was good enough to turn it around for me."

Foster, who normally sports a ferocious left jab, was sluggish in the early going and appeared to be in trouble in the middle rounds, before unleashing a fiery attack in the 12th round.

Ahumada, however, recovered in the 13th and 14th rounds, scoring well despite taking more blows to the head. His face remained a bloody mess, dripping blood on his white trunks.

"I'm not sad," said Ahumada, whose entourage screamed "foul" and said the challenger was "robbed."

"I think a tie here is like a win," he said in Spanish. "I think I won it, but that's the way it goes.

"My plan was to get inside and I thought I did a good job of it. Foster never hurt me at all. Maybe it was a close fight, but I thought I at least won it by a narrow margin."

Foster, who recorded his first draw in a pro career that shows 51 wins and six losses, said he would take a week off before beginning preparations for his next title defense "which will probably be in London in September against John Conteh.

"I'll give him (Ahumada) another shot," Foster said. "But first I've got to give Conteh a shot and then I'll give Ahumada another chance.

"I've got to fight them all— Galindez (Ahumada's countryman Victor Galindez), Hutchins (No. 1 rated Len Hutchins) and all the rest," said the 35-year-old Foster.

Ahumada, who sang along during the playing of the Argentinian National Anthem before the fight and paraded around the ring with his country's flag while awaiting the decision, visited Foster's dressing room after showering and dressing.

"You're a very nice man and a classy boxer," Ahumada told Foster. "Let me shake your hand and I wish you best of luck."

Foster was surprised. As Ahumada left, Foster said, "I thought he was going to come in here and yell at me."

Valley's top cage stars play tonight

By KEVIN CLOE
.P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — Will height or will quickness prevail tonight?

That's the big question for the First Annual Pomona Valley High School All-Star Basketball Game, which will begin at 8 p.m. tonight at Claremont High.

Tickets, priced at $2 for adults and $1.50 for students, will be available at the door. The game is sponsored by the La Verne Rotary Club with proceeds going to charity.

If it uses its height effectively, the South should become the first winner of the annual cage classic.

But if the quick guards of the North keep the South defenders confused, it could be a different story.

The South is favored, however.

Pacing the Rebels, coached by Chino's former coach Frank Elder and Montclair coach Lanny Moore, will be the valley's basketball Player of the Year—Cleve Porter of Ganesha.

Porter, who stands at only 6-foot-6, has outstanding leaping and shooting ability. But he's not the only player on the South to keep a close eye on.

There's Walnut High's Kirk Christ, the Hacienda League's Most Valuable Player. Christ, standing at 6-foot-6, has an uncanny ability of being at the right place at the right time. That characteristic gave him the valley's top scoring honor in the prep ranks for the past two seasons.

Then there's Montclair High's Mark Gosswiller, a very mobile tall man who also stands at 6-foot-6. And there's also Tim Smith, the tallest man on the squad at 6-foot-8, who should be a tough competitor under the boards.

Those are the big men for the South.

But only two of them will be starting tonight.

Last week Elder indicated that he probably wouldn't start his best five players, but would divide his team into two equal squads for the first half. Then he might to a little shuffling for the second half.

The tentative starting roster than Elder announced Monday included Christ, Porter, Rick Antoni of Chaffey (6-foot-1), Ashley "Poncho" Thomas of Garey (5-foot-7) and Bill Flores of Ontario (5-foot-6) or Marcello Maurin of Walnut (5-foot-11).

One thing Elder hoped to accomplish in practice, but never really got around to it was work against the full court press.

"We were hoping to work against the press," stated the South skipper, "but we haven't gotten to it as much as we would like to. We've had a problem of trying to get everyone to practice at the same time. With some of them working and with graduation exercises, some of them couldn't make it to some of the practices."

Not working against the press may prove hazardous for the South, since the North is really depending on putting a lot of pressure on its foe.

At least it intended to in Smith's original game plan, but that may change too.

"I doubt if we use much of the press," Smith indicated Monday. "We just didn't have enough time to put it together."

That may be good news for the South.

"Our first week of practice was very good," added the North skipper. "We had most of our guys there for that week. We want to work our offense to where we won't have mass confusion. We had that good first week, but last week was touch and go.

"I don't think we're in shape either," he added. "I'm afraid that some of the guys might run out of gas running up and down the court."

With statements like that the odds are getting better for a South victory, but don't put your life savings on it.

This is an All-Star game and almost anything can happen.

Smith also announced his probable starting unit for tonight. It includes forwards Bruce Abraham of Claremont (6-foot-4) and Greg McCrary of San Dimas (6-foot-3), center Stu DuVall of Upland (6-foot-5) and guards Todd Ervin of Claremont (5-foot-8) and Curt Oldenkamp of Upland (6-foot-1) or Rory Pernot of Royal Oak (6-foot-2).

There have been a few changes in the basketball rules for tonight's game.

First of all, there will be four 12-minute quarters instead of the regular 8-minute periods. The extra time was added so that each player will get an opportunity to play for a substantial amount of time.

Another is a free-throw contest among the cheerleaders representing the North and the South. It will be presented at halftime, but no favorite has been picked in that one.

Each player must play at least five minutes in the first half. There will be no zone defenses, though a zone full-court press will be permitted.

Trophies of recognition will be presented to players and coaches after the game.

It figures to be a fast-pace and high scoring contest, but the defenses may take a little beating.

Dodger errors costly to Sutton

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

PITTSBURGH — Wives of Pirate and Steeler players participated in a softball game Monday night prior to the Dodger-Pirates baseball game at Three Rivers Stadium.

There were times when it appeared the same teams were playing in the main event.

Only one Pittsburgh run was earned as the Dodgers returned to the daffiness era of their Brooklyn years. The Bucs scored five unearned runs off Don Sutton and added another off Charlie Hough to wind up with a 7-3 win over the visiting Dodgers.

The Pirates now have won four in a row and seven straight at home. Winning pitcher Ken Brett (8-4) registered his seventh complete game. Nelson Briles led the Bucs with seven complete games in the entire 1973 season.

The Dodgers, on the other hand, saw their lead over Cincinnati drop to six games. Sutton, who deserved a better fate, saw his season record drop to an even 6-6.

Manager Walter Alston saw his team drop its fifth game in seven outings. But the Dodger skipper saw one bright spot in an otherwise unhappy evening.

"The only good thing I saw is that I think Sutton is on his way out of his slump," Alston said. "I thought his stuff was back to normal, his control better and he made some good pitches."

Sutton was tapped for six hits in the five hits he pitched. But three of the hits came after the side should have been retired in the Pittsburgh fourth.

One of the six, a two-run double by Richie Hebner, was definitely of the tainted variety.

"We might not have won tonight regardless of who was pitching," Alston continued. "We played horse-bleeped baseball. But I guess these are the things that happen when you're in a slump."

The Dodgers presented Sutton with a 1-0 lead top half of the second inning, then gave it away in the bottom of the second.

With one out in the Dodger second, Ron Cey walked. Joe Ferguson lined a 1-1 pitch that rolled to the wall in left field to the right of the 385-foot sign. With Cey on third and Fergie on second, Tom Paciorek was walked intentionally.

Steve Yeager fould up the Pittsburgh strategy with a fly to Richie Zisk in right field. Cey scored after the catch although a better throw might have gotten him.

With Dodger help, the Pirates tied the score in the last of the second. Zisk lined a routine single to right. But Ferguson let the ball get through him and Zisk was able to go all the way and score on the error.

Rain almost gave the Angelenos a reprieve. Play was halted for 16 minutes after the third inning. But unfortunately the rain stopped and the game continued.

So did the Dodgers. They picked up right where they left off in the second. Sutton deserved better then the inning his teammates inflicted on him in the Pirate fourth.

With one out, Bill Russell failed to field Sanguillen's grounder for his 20th error of the season. Rennie Stennett was an easy second to first out and the inning should have been over.

Instead Sanguillen was on second with two out. Rookie Mario Mendoza and Brett followed with singles and Gene Clines doubled and two runs were in.

It looked like the inning was surely over when Hebner lifted a high fly to short center. But Jimmy Wynn kept coming in the ball finally dropped behind him and between Ferguson and Rick Auerbach who also had helped surround the ball.

Wynn was first charged with what would have the third Dodger error as Brett and Clines scored the Bucs fourth and fifth unearned runs of the game.

But after contacting the Dodger bench, the official scorer changed his ruling to a double and two runs batted in for Hebner. Wynn reported that he had lost the ball in the lights.

Not to be outdone, the Pirates turned generous themselves in the bottom of the sixth and helped the Dodgers score their last two runs.

Garvey started it off with his second single. Cey walked. Ferguson hit a grounder to short and Cey was forced to second. But Stennett's throw to first was wild. Garvey scored on the error and Ferguson reached second.

Paciorek grounded sharply to Hebner who booted the ball. Yeager slashed a single to left driving in Ferguson. But that was all. Ken McMullen batted for Sutton and struck out. Auerbach watched a called third strike sail by.

Hough came in to pitch for the Dodgers in the last of the sixth. A hit, two walks, a stolen base, wild pitch, sacrifice fly and passed ball produced two more Pittsburgh runs, one earned.

DODGER DATA—Tommy John (10-1) and Larry Demery (0-2) will be the pitchers in tonight's game. . .

The Dodgers have now made 64 errors in 65 games . .

Mendoza, the Pirate rookie, has made only one error this year. However he has played in only 26 games as compared to 65 for Russell. Russell has played in every Dodger game . . .

Russell and Cey lead the All-Star balloting for shortstop and third base. Wynn is the third highest vote-getter among the National League outfielders . . .

The Dodgers had their third different lead-off man in as many games. Auerbach was at second when Dave Lopes' back acted up. Bill Buckner leadoff Sunday with Lopez batting eighth. Lopes had been the leadoff man in the first two games of this road trip. . . .

The Dodger trio of Garvey (55), Wynn (53) and Cey (46) had a total of 154 runs batted in going into Monday's game. The top five Pirate RBI men, Willie Stargell (39), Zisk (29), Hebner (27), Sanguillen (21) and Stennett (21) totalled only 137.

Tony Mundine to box Monzon

NEW YORK, June 17 (UPI) — Tony Mundine of Australia has accepted terms Monday for a world middleweight boxing title fight with champion Carlos Monzon of Argentina at Buenos Aires on Sept.7.

International boxing agent Dewey Fragetta said Mundine also has agreed to a tune-up fight in Brisbane July 5 against an unnamed American opponent.

The title fight will be promoted by Tito Lectoure of Buenos Aires at Luna Park.

Mayberry wins weekly honor

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Mayberry of the Kansas City Royals was named winner of the weekly American League Star Parade award Monday following a four-game surge in which he hit three home runs and two doubles.

Mayberry had a total of seven hits in 13 at-bats between last Wednesday and Saturday, driving in six runs and scoring six. His batting average for that stretch was .538.

Other Star Parade candidates included third baseman Sal Bando of Oakland (.360 batting average), outfielder Elliott Maddox of New York (.400), outfielder Joe Rudi of Oakland (.375), outfielder Lee Stanton of Cleveland (.357) and outfielder Charlie Spikes of Cleveland (.318).

Angels' bullpen falls apart again

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Rudy May, sold by the California Angels during the weekend, reported to his new team Monday and got the traditional welcome from Sparky Lyle—a rubber snake in his New York Yankees' locker.

The Angels didn't break any precedents either Monday night. They lost after they left five men stranded and their bullpen fell apart.

New York, brushing aside a 1-0 deficit, scored five runs in the seventh and eighth innings to beat the Angels, 5-1, and hand California its 11th loss in the last 14 games.

The struggling Angels only had seven hits against Yankees starter Dave Pagan and two other pitchers. But they had to blow two easy scoring chances early in the game to score only one run.

With none out in the first inning, California stranded men on first and third. In the second inning, after scoring their lone run, the Angels had men at second and third with two outs.

"In situations like that you've got to come out with more than one run," said California Manager Bobby Winkles.

Frank Tanana, Angels' starter and loser, had his own personal trend going as he again struggled with the long ball, giving up his 16th home run in 16 games.

Lou Piniella ripped a two-run homer off the 20-year-old rookie in the seventh inning to put the Yankees ahead and prompt the Angels to bring in Barry Raziano, who lost Sunday night's game.

New York scored three runs off Raziano.

"Piniella is a guesser," Tanana said. "He just happened to guess curve ball and hit it out.

"But I'm not going to give up on myself and I hope no one else does, either. I figure I'm still giving seven or eight strong innings."

New York second baseman Gene Michael, who opened the Yankees' winning rally with a single, tried to offer some encouragement to Tanana.

"Tanana is a good pitcher," said Michael, who had three hits in the game. "He changes his speeds well. I was lucky to get two hits off him."

Michael singled twice against Tanana and added another single off Raziano, driving in a run in the eight.

Nolan Ryan (7-6) will pitch for the Angels tonight against Dick Tidrow (5-5). Lefthander Andy Hassler, who was 5-7 with Salt Lake City, may start Wednesday night after being called up Monday to replace May.

Cey, Russell enjoy leads for All-Stars

NEW YORK (UPI) — Only record-breaking Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves was able to break the domination of Cincinnati and Los Angeles players Monday when the latest tabulations for the National League All-Star team were announced.

Aaron, the biggest name in baseball after breaking Babe Ruth's home run record in the first week of the season, was the top vote-getter with 484,972 in the balloting conducted by fans across the nation.

Aaron enjoyed a wide margin over his competition for outfield berths as Pete Rose of Cincinnati was second with 288,854 votes and Jimmy Wynn of Los Angeles was third with 224,490.

The five other positions being decided by fan ballot all were led by a Cincinnati or Los Angeles player. Catcher Johnny Bench, first baseman Tony Perez and second baseman Joe Morgan were the leaders at their respective positions and the Dodgers were represented by third baseman Ron Cey and shortstop Bill Russell.

The balloting will continue through Sunday, July 7, and the All-Star game is scheduled to be played in Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium Tuesday night, July 23.

A breakdown of the leading contenders for each position shows:

Catcher—Bench, 429,447; Joe Ferguson, Los Angeles, 106,156; Manny Sanguillen, Pittsburgh, 102,377.

First base—Perez, 162,133; Joe Torre, St. Louis, 139,115; Bill Buckner, Los Angeles, 137,185.

Second base — Morgan, 251,270; Dave Cash, Philadelphia, 185,940; Dave Lopes, Los Angeles, 143,099.

Third base—Cey, 219,978; Richie Hebner, Pittsburgh, 170,850; Doug Rader, Houston, 86,667.

Shortstop — Russell, 183,952; Dave Concepcion, Cincinnati, 146,941; Larry Bowa, Philadelphia, 119,058.

Outfield — Aaron, 484,972; Rose, 288,854; Wynn, 224,490; Reggie Smith, St. Louis, 185,213; Willie Stargell, Pittsburgh, 153,364; Bobby Bonds, San Francisco, 148,429.

Mile still track's top glamour event

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Three New Zealand middle distance runners and world record holder Jim Ryun said Monday the mile is still the glamour event of track and field, despite the shift to metric distances.

John Walker, here to run in the National AAU championship Friday and Saturday, told a news conference, "Although we are going to the 1,500-meters in New Zealand, I still think the mile will remain the glamour event.

"I think 3:50 will be broken this year, but you will need a Filbert Bayi as the pacesetter."

Rod Dixon, the bronze medalist in the world record-breaking 1,500-meters behind Bayi and Walker at the Commonwealth Games, agreed.

Dick Quax, who has run practically every distance from 800 to 5,000 meters, echoed his fellow countrymen's stand.

"The mile is more significant in the English-speaking world than the 1,500," he said.

Ryun, who holds the mile record at 3:51.1, said, "The people in this country don't relate to the 1,500-meters."

He predicted his world record would be broken this summer, probably in Europe. He said the leading contenders were Walker, Dixon and Bayi. "I will be first to be surprised if my record isn't broken this year," said Ryun.

"The 1,500 meter race in the British Empire Games that Bayi won in 3:32.2 was faster than the pace for a sub-3:50 mile."

Walker, whose second place time of 3:32.5 also was under Ryun's old global standard of 3:33.1, will run the 800-meters here against world record-holder Rick Wohlhuter, 1:44.6.

Dixon will test all of America's best milers, except Tony Waldron at 1,500-meters. Waldrop withdrew because of an injury suffered in training.

Quax will move up to the 1,500 meters.

Tom Jennings, coach of the Pacific Coast Club, said his team will score 70 points and win six Gold Medals in the AAU championships, picking as winners — Al Feuerbach or George Woods in the shotput, Bill Schmidt for the javelin, John Powell, discus; Dwight Stones, high jump; Jim Bolding, intermediate hurles, and Casey Carrigan, pole vault.

Stanford, Michigan take early net lead

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Top-seeded Brian Teacher of UCLA gets his first chance on the courts today after sitting out the opening round of the NCAA tennis championships with a bye as defending champion Stanford and Michigan took the lead in the team competition.

Stanford and Michigan collected five points each in Monday's first round of the 90th annual tournament, which began with 84 singles matches and 36 doubles matches.

Thirty two singles players drew byes for the initial round, however, including Teacher and No. 2 seed Victor Amaya of Michigan.

All of Stanford's players won their matches Monday, including No. 5 seeded John Whitlinger, who beat Gordon Smith of Georgia, and sixth-ranked Jim Delaney, who downed Duke's Neils Rathler. Both scores were 6-1, 6-2.

Stanford's other two unseeded players also swept their matches in straight sets.

Michigan got its five points with three singles victories, all by unseeded players, and two doubles wins.

Of the top 16 seeds who played Monday, only one was ousted — 14th-seeded Trey Waltke of California, who was upset by Princeton's Dean Colson, 2-6, 6-2, 6-3.

UCLA was in third with four points in the team competition, tied with Washington, Arizona, North Carolina, Florida and Texas A&M.

The University of Southern California and Southern Methodist University had three points each and Georgia had one.

G. Perry, Cuellar keep winning

By United Press International

Barring injuries, pitchers Gaylord Perry and Mike Cuellar seem certain to be teammates on the American League team in next month's All-Star game in Pittsburgh.

Two days later, they could be locked up in one of the greatest pitching duels in 62 years.

The two veterans continued their winning streaks Monday night, Perry pitching Cleveland past Chicago 4-3 for his 12th win in a row and Cuellar hurling Baltimore over Minnesota 1-0 for his ninth consecutive triumph.

The AL record for consecutive wins in one season is 16, shared by four pitchers, including Washington's Walter Johnson and Boston's "Smoky" Joe Wood. Johnson and Wood hooked up in a memorable battle on Sept. 6, 1912, with the Red Sox edging the Senators, 10, snapping Johnson's record streak and giving Wood his 14th win in a row.

Cleveland and Baltimore don't meet again until July 25 and while it is still more than a month off, the way Perry and Cuellar are going it is not inconceivable they both could have their streaks still intact.

"As far as winning 16 in a row, I'm not even thinking about that right now," said Perry after stopping the White Sox on five hits, including Jorge Orta's two-run homer, for his eighth-straight complete game and his 12th complete game effort in 15 starts this season.

Perry, who has not lost since opening day, retired 16 batters in a row before Pat Kelly singled with two out in the eighth and Orta followed with his homer to give Chicago a 3-2 lead. The Indians came back with an unearned run in the bottom of the eighth and won it in the ninth when Jack Brohamer singled home Frank Duffy.

Cuellar, like Perry, also tossed a five hitter in beating the Twins to run his record to 9-3 as Bobby Grich supplied the only run of the game with his eighth homer in the sixth inning.

"You've got to be lucky in a streak like this, but part of baseball is luck," said Cuellar. "I know I have a good club behind me defensively, but there is still a lot of luck involved when you have a streak going."

"Cuellar is like an angel from heaven because he keeps you from those long losing streaks," said Oriole pitching coach George Bamberger. "I know Cuellar better than anybody, but even I never know what he's going to throw. So if I don't know, how in hell are the hitters going to know?"

In other AL games, Detroit defeated Texas 6-4 in 10 innings, New York beat California 5-1 and Oakland edged Boston 3-2. Milwaukee and Kansas City were not scheduled.

Tigers 6, Rangers 4

Al Kaline's two-run homer in the 10th gave Detroit its victory over Texas. The Tigers held a 4-0 lead as starter Woodie Fryman carried a five-hit shutout into the bottom of the ninth, but a three-run home run by Jim Fregosi led to his departure. Reliever John Hiller was then tagged for a solo homer by Lenny Randle. Bill Freehan homered for Detroit off Ferguson Jenkins, who went the distance only to lose his eighth game in 15 decisions and fail to win for the sixth time in a row.

A's 3, Red Sox 2

Catcher Carlton Fisk, who tied the score with a homer in the top of the ninth, made a wild pick-off throw in the bottom of the inning that allowed Gene Tenace to score from third base with the winning run in Oakland's victory over Boston. The victory gave the A's a two-game lead in the West and shaved Boston's lead in the East to 2½ games. Rollie Fingers, who pitched out of a ninth-inning jam, gained credit for his sixth victory against two losses. Angel Mangual accounted for Oakland's first two runs with his fifth homer in the seventh inning.

Zarate, Uchiyama on card with Olivares

INGLEWOOD — Carlos Zarate, considered the best young boxing prospect in Mexico, has been signed to box Japanese bantamweight champion Shintaro Uchiyama on the Ruben Olivares-Zensuke Utagawa world featherwegith title card at The Forum, July 9.

The Zarate-Uchiyama 10-rounder will open the program at 8 a.m. followed by the Olivares-Utagawa 15-rounder which is sanctioned by the World Boxing Association for the vacant 126-pound crown.

Zarate, 23, has a perfect record of 25 straight wins, 24 by knockouts. He is compared to Olivares at this stage of his career.

Claremont nips Tri-City in late rally

CLAREMONT — Claremont Post 78 scored three runs in the bottom of the ninth inning on an error and back-to-back bases loaded walks to nip Tri-City 8-7 Monday night at Pomona College.

Rob Haerr lead off the ninth with a pinch single. Todd Ervin followed with a bunt single and Chris Tracey's fly ball was dropped to load the bases.

Jim Ayers drew a walk from ace reliever Larry Bell forcing across one run. Dave Aguilera drew four wide ones allowing Tracey to score and the final run checked in when Rich Tullis hit a ground ball to third, who threw wide to the plate pulling catcher John Cannon off home plate, to allow Tony Janusz to score the winning run.

The win evens the Cardinal record at 9-9-1.

Post 78 took a 2-0 first inning lead as Ervin who had three singles in five at-bats to raise his average to .411 (30-73), singled and stole second. The shortstop scored on Janusz' single with Janusz advancing to third on an error. He then scored on a passed ball.

Tri-City erupted for six runs in the fourth with the key hit being Mike Brotzman's two-run double. The other runs were aided by three errors.

The Cards closed the gap to 6-5 in the bottom of the frame when Ayers singled and eventually scored on a wild pitch. Bob Wright and Carl Cervantes, who has seen limited action this summer, singled home runs.

John Huddleston (3-4) went five innings in relief of starter Tracey to pick up the win.

Claremont hosts Pomona Post 30 Wednesday in a 7:30 p.m. game at Cauhilla Park (Claremont High) and entertains Victor Valley Thursday night at 7:30.

Phillies' Taylor is always ready

By United Press International

Tony Taylor is the kind of guy who reports to the ball park earlier when he's riding the bench than when he's playing regularly.

"I'm always ready," says the 38-year old Philadelphia Phillies utility man who is known in Detroit, where he played three seasons, as the 'Latin Al Kaline. "I never know when I'll get a chance to go up there and hit. In this game you have to be ready for any emergency."

Taylor, who had only five hits in 22 at bats and one run batted in, was called on to pinch-hit by Manager Danny Ozark Monday night and delivered a two-run eighth-inning homer which gave the Phillies a 7-5 victory over the Houston Astros.

The victory enabled the Phillies to go two games ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals in the National League East and gave them new confidence that they are in the race to stay.

"That's the way it is when everybody is doing his job," said second baseman Dave Cash. "Each night a different guy picks up the club. That's the way pennants are won."

Taylor's homer gave Wayne Twitchell his first victory since suffering a knee injury last September. The 6-foot-6 righthander is considered a key man for the Phillies since most of their rivals say pitching is the key to their ability to stay in contention.

"I'm very happy with Wayne ... his stuff is back," said Ozark. "I feel he was still overthrowing a little but he's going to start Saturday night. If he goes six innings, he'll be back in the starting rotation."

The Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers, 7-3; the San Francisco Giants beat the Cardinals, 3-0; the Atlanta Braves downed the New York Mets, 8-1; the Cincinnati Reds drubbed the Montreal Expos, 12-3; and the San Diego Padres topped the Chicago Cubs, 7-5, in 13 innings in other National League games.

Twitchell took over for Steve Carlton in the seventh inning when the Astros tied the score at 5-5 and yielded one hit in 1 2-3 innings. Bob Boone drove in two runs and Mike Anderson had three hits for the Phillies, while Lee May knocked in two runs for the Astros.

Giants 3 Cardinals 0

Jim Barr pitched an eight-hitter for his fourth vctory for the Giants, who had seven hits including two run-scoring singles by Gary Thomasson. The Cardinals left eight runners on base in the first four innings and wound up stranding 11 in the game. It was Barr's second shutout of the season.

Braves 8 Mets 1

Phil Niekro pitched a four-hitter and Darrel Evans knocked in two runs with a homer and a single for the Braves, who dealt Harry Parker his sixth loss against one win. Dave Johnson's double and Ralph Garr's triple were the big blows of Atlanta's four-run outburst in the second inning. The win raised Niekro's record to 8-4.

Reds 12 Expos 3

Pete Rose, Dan Driessen and Cesar Geronimo had three hits each and Tony Perez had two, including a three-run double, to lead the Reds' 16-hit attack in the national TV game. Fred Norman allowed 10 hits but went the distance for his sixth win, while Steve Rogers was routed in 3 1-3 innings and was tagged with his seventh loss.

Padres 7 Cubs 5

The Padres and Cubs tied the National League record of 25 walks by both teams in their 4:23 struggle before San Diego won it in the 13th. Dave Winfield singled home the tiebreaking run and a suicide squeeze executed by Enzo Hernandez drove in the other in the 13th. Larry Hardy won his sixth game for San Diego while Bobby Tolan extended his hitting streak to 15 games.

Florida favored to nab NCAA golf title

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Defending champion Florida looms as the favorite when the NCAA golf championships get underway at Carlton Oaks Country Club Wednesday but to knowledgable observers, the title is up for grabs.

Florida is ranked tops in the nation followed in order by Wake Forest, Oklahoma State, the University of Southern California and Brigham Young.

USC easily won the San Diego State Invitational over Florida, Wake Forest and Brigham Young in March, and Stanford won the Pacific-8 title by 24 strokes over USC.

"I'll take Stanford," Michigan State coach Bruce Fossum predicted. He pointed to San Diegan Aly Trompas, who finished second in the Pac-8 tourney and George Pettinger, who finished third.

The individual duels are as tough to predict as Florida's Gary Koch looms solid as defending champ. Gary Jakebson of Oregon captured the Pac-8 title, and USC's Craig Stadler won the U.S. Amateur last year. John Harris of Minnesota and Jimmy Jones of host San Diego State cannot be counted out.

It shapes up as a whale of a battle, but USC showed its mettle in March over the same course, and as coach Stan Wood puts it, "We have a tremendous chance because the tourney is in California, which gives us a psychological edge over most teams."

Stadler, Mark Pfeil and Scott Simpson of the Trojans all are from San Diego and know the course.

Thirty-two teams are entered along with 54 individuals from university division schools and the top 10 players from the college division ranks.

Laxton promoted

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The San Diego Padres acquired lefthanded pitcher Bill Laxton from their Alexandria Texas League farm club Monday.

Laxton had a 3-0 record for Alexandria, had a 2.36 earned run average and had fanned 22 in 26 innings.

He pitched briefly for the Padres in 1971 and lost his only two decisions.

He will join the club in Chicago Tuesday.
